FRENCH PROBE EXPLOSION

To Determine Whether Secret War Store Had Been Clandestinely Produced

Investigation Of Disastrous Explosion At Oppau, Germany, Continues

PARIS, Sept. 23.—French government chemists have begun an investigation at Oppau, Germany, where several hundred persons were killed by an explosion on Wednesday morning, to determine whether secret war stores and munitions had been clandestinely manufactured there, says a Mayence despatch to the Journal.

Their inquiry has shown the explosion was due to the spontaneous decomposition of a new product—nitro-sulphate of ammonium—from which wonders were expected as a fertilizing agent.

The manufacture of this salt has been going on in the plant of the Badische Anilin Co., at Oppau for the last five months, and considerable stocks of it had accumulated. It is declared by the despatch that this

FOREMAN SHOT TO DEATH

Workman Who Committed Murder Flees to Woods Near Dublin, N. H.

DUBLIN, N.H., Sept. 23.—Robert A. Walker, foreman of a road construction gang, working on the state highway near here, was shot and killed today by William Dodge, a workman. Dodge escaped to the woods, keeping several men who had witnessed the shooting covered with his revolver. A large posse headed by Sheriff E. H. Lord is searching for him.

The shooting took place in a gravel pit where several men were loading a truck. The two men, according to other workmen, had words over work. Dodge was discharged.

The foreman threatened to have him arrested for carrying a weapon when Dodge drew a revolver. He is alleged to have immediately opened fire. Five shots were discharged, three of which struck Walker, killing him almost instantly. When other workmen started toward Dodge he turned his revolver on them, they fled and backed out of the pit. They followed him down the road but he kept them off by his threat to shoot and finally dashed into the woods.

Sheriff Lord and County Solicitor Roy M. Rickard were notified and organized a posse. Dodge was still at large several hours after the shooting, shooting.

Both men were residents of Keene. Walker had a wife and eight children.

TO BRING UP TAX REVISION BILL

Another Effort By Chairman Penrose Of Senate Finance Committee

Hopes To Have Bill Read This Week With General Debate Next Monday

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Another effort to bring up the tax revision bill in the senate was planned today, by Chairman Penrose, of the finance committee, who also hoped to submit the majority report on the measure. The Pennsylvania senator desired to have the bill read this week with a view to the opening of general debate by next Monday, at the latest.

The democratic assault on the measure already has been launched. Senators Walsh of Massachusetts, and Gerry of Rhode Island, with the approval of Senators Simmons of North Carolina and Reed of Missouri, other minority members of the finance committee, issued a statement last night attacking the bill as indefensible, and giving notice that the democrats would

Judge Enright Stirred By Juvenile Larceny Case In Court

Says Parents As Well As Boys Are to Blame For Crimes

After hearing the complaints in a larceny case of two youths, one 15, the other 16 years of age, Judge Enright in the juvenile session of the district court this morning fayed parents who allow young boys to remain out on the streets and hang about corners until late at night, apparently assuming a "don't care" attitude, and issued a solemn warning to

QUESTION KINNEY IN TRIPLE MURDER

DOWAGIAC, Mich., Sept. 23.—Efforts of Cass county authorities to solve the mystery of the murder of William Monroe, his wife and 17-year-old daughter, Neva, centered today on questioning of William Kinney, a former resident of Dowagiac, who was arrested on his farm near Temple, yesterday, and brought here by Sheriff Sherman P. Wyman. Kinney's detention, the sheriff stated, was prompted by a report that he had been warned by Monroe to discontinue his attentions to Neva. When arrested Kinney disclaimed any knowledge of the slayings and claimed an alibi, which was supported by his wife. Authorities indicated today the release of Herbert Smith, another man held for investigation, was imminent.

Physicians announced today that Ardith Monroe, the 10-year-old daughter who was beaten on the head with the nail-studded club used to kill her parents and sister, is steadily improving.

TWO MEN HELD ON VERY SERIOUS CHARGES

Dr. William C. McLean of 408 Middlesex street, was held in $5000 bail Oct. 1 on a charge of abduction, by Judge Enright in the district court today, and Kleantith Petropoulos aged 30, married, of 410 Adams street, charged with incest, is locked up at the police station, unable to obtain $3000 bail required of him for his appearance in court on the same day, while 14-year-old Vasillike Petropoulos is in a serious condition at a local hospital where she was removed following an operation alleged to have been performed by the physician last Saturday. The two defendants pleaded not guilty.

Petropoulos and the doctor were arrested yesterday afternoon after a thorough investigation of the case, which was called to the attention of the police by the board of health, had been made by Captain Atkinson and inspectors assisted by Miss Emily Skilton and a local Greek social service worker.

NOTED AVIATOR KILLED

Capt. de Romanet's Machine Wrecked While Flying 180 Miles An Hour

ETAMPES, France, Sept. 23. (By the Associated Press).—Captain Bernard de Romanet, the noted French aviator, holder of the world's speed record for one kilometre, was instantly killed here today while taking part in the elimination races for the Deutsch de la Meurville cup.

The canvas on Romanet's machine tore while he was flying more than 180 miles an hour at a height of 630 feet and the plane fell, killing the aviator. The machine was a biplane from which the lower plane had been removed for the sake of speed.

Captain de Romanet's world record for speed was established on Nov. 4 last when at the Buc airfield near Paris he flew over a measured kilometre at the rate of 309 kilometres 12 metres per hour (about 193 miles).

covering the distance in 11 65-100 seconds.

INDIANS AND YANKEES OPEN CRUCIAL SERIES

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Tribes Speaker's Cleveland Indians, 1920 world's champions, were here today for their final four game series with the New York Yankees in which it is believed the 1921 pennant race will be decided.

The reserved seat sections at the Polo grounds all have been sold for the series and experts estimate that close to 150,000 fans will see the games. Ticket seekers stormed the Yankee offices Tuesday and Wednesday and many were turned away.

Extra police squads have been detailed to the ball park to handle the crowds expected to start early for the first game.

The teams start the series on virtually even terms. The Yankees have an advantage of less than two points, the Indians having won one more and lost one more game than their rivals.

Three victories in the four games would give either team a slight hold in the first place with a two-game lead, while a clean sweep would give the victors a four game lead and make it almost impossible to oust them.

New York has a percentage of .5194 and Cleveland .513. A clean sweep would give Cleveland .649 and decrease New York's mark to .515, while if New York wins all four games they would have .515 and Cleveland .513.

Three victories for the Indians in the four games would make the standing: Cleveland .543; New York .521. If the Yankees are able to take three out of four they will have a percentage of .545 and Cleveland .520. An even break would leave New York with .525 and Cleveland with .527.

The 11.30 Train to Boston Discontinued—New Time Table Issued

The new fall and winter timetables issued this morning by the Boston & Maine railroad contain several important changes in time of arrival and departure of both local, so-called, and through trains on the several divisions and branches in this territory.

but the cancellation of one of the most popular Boston trains—the 11.30 a. m. train from Lowell to the Hub—has already aroused a strong protest among business men and regular commuters.

It is declared in more than one quarter in the business section that the railroad will be requested to put back the 11.30 train, as one of the most necessary Boston commuters' service accommodations.

The cutting out of the 11.30 train leaves Boston-bound passengers with but two useful morning trains, the 9.30 and the noon train, or 12.30 p. m. local. The 1.30 train will, however, be run Sundays.

Among the other changes announced to go into effect Sunday are the taking off of the 4.28 local, and the change of time of departure of the Canadian & Pacific train for Montreal from 10.19 a. m. to 10.10 a. m. The time will be same on Sunday.

BOSTON MEN IN COURT

Edward T. McKenna and William J. Hanlon of Boston were before Judge Enright in the district court today to answer charges arising from a disturbance alleged to have taken place on a street car from Merrimack square to Lakeview park Saturday evening, Sept. 3. McKenna was found guilty of assault and battery and larceny of $11 from the operator of the car, and fined $25 on each complaint.

Both were sentenced to the house of correction for 30 days for causing a disturbance on a public vehicle, but Hanlon was found not guilty of larceny and assault and battery.

They appealed from every judgment and were held in $200 bail for the superior court.

John Connolly On Dangerous List at Hospital as Result of Auto Accident

John Connolly, aged 18, of 105 Agawam street is in St. John's hospital with a fractured skull and may die as the result of a collision with an auto truck at 7 o'clock this morning on Meadowcroft street. His name is on the dangerous list. The truck is registered to and was driven by John J. McCullough of Gorham street.

According to the story told by the police young Connolly was riding a bicycle down St. James street. He turned into Meadowcroft street and was going at a fairly good rate of speed. McCullough was driving his truck down Meadowcroft street and the two vehicles collided.

Connolly was thrown to the ground and received multiple injuries. Mr. McCullough gave the boy what aid he was able to and the ambulance was called. Connolly was rushed to the hospital in an unconscious condition and an immediate operation was ordered in an attempt to save his life.

At press time Connolly had not recovered from the effects of the ether, but his name is on the dangerous list and while physicians are hopeful for his recovery it is doubtful if he can survive his injuries.

RELATIVES DISCREDIT SUICIDE THEORY

STAFFORD, Conn., Sept. 23.—Coroner John E. Fahey of Vernon and Dr. D. Percival Bard of this town, were to consider today the need of holding an autopsy on the body of Mrs. Norah Johnson Kettelle which was taken from Lake Mashapaug in Union, yesterday, with an anchor and rope tied to the neck.

Relatives of the young woman, a bride of four days when she disappeared, are understood to have discredited the suicide theory. They insist that death must have been accidental.

Mrs. James M. Whitman of Central Valley, N. Y., at whose home her niece was married to John Dunster Kettelle of Cambridge, Mass., on Sept. 9, says the young woman was in good health, normal in habits and of lively mentality.

Mardi Gras in Aid of St. Anthony's Church Is Great Success

The Little "Home of Fashion"—Exclusive Stocks—Opening Today

All roads led to the Kasino again last night, where is being held the four day Mardi Gras in aid of St. Anthony's church. One of the largest crowds that ever entered this amusement place was on hand and the many beautifully decorated booths, tables and games artistically arranged about the hall, proved strong attractions. Dancing was being the favorite pastime, however, and hundreds of the younger element made it an evening's complete enjoyment at this amusement. Several exhibition dances by Danny Dugan and Miss Pierce of Worcester, well known professional dancers, were well received.

An array of singers, many of them local, will appear tonight and will surely prove a decide hit. The Mardi Gras, originally to have closed tonight, has been extended through Saturday evening when it will conclude with a monster favor and confetti march.

It was a gratifying sight to Bishop Da Silva, the other members of the clergy and the committee in charge to see such a large gathering patronize the event. It made them feel that their hard work was appreciated by the assembly of cheerful men, women and children who had a very enjoyable evening.

A large committee of parish members have been aiding the bishop and success has crowned their efforts. Timothy Linnehan is chairman of the men's committee, while Miss Margaret Bettencourt is at the head of the women's committee.

The other members are: Jennie Bettencourt, Mary Carbal, Helen Shea, Vera Curran, Madeline Carroll, Anna Carroll, Rose Salome, Rose Ramas, George Pinto, Henry Lawrence, Chester Gordon, George Cliff, John C. The little "Home of Fashion" that is different, with an exclusive stock of ladies' and misses' coats, suits, dresses, and furs, was opened today in the Centre block. It is known as

FRED NEVERY

Nevery's Fashion Shop. Rarely is there seen such a pretty setting for women's garments as is found here. The color combination is very pleasing, the walls being done in a pretty shade of gray, while the draperies and hangings are rose colored, giving the entire shop that homelike atmosphere. In addition to this is a massive fireplace done in old mahogany. Everything in the shop is neatly and conveniently arranged. Furs, fur coats, dresses, coats and suits are carried. Pansolene, Marionette and Pollyanna coats; Canton crepes and Russiana crepe dresses; Suedene, Develayne suits are among the many pleasing things found. A feature of the entire establishment, and one which should make a decided hit with women in the real, honest-to-goodness daylight found at all times in the shop, which lends materially in the selection of garments. Courteous salesladies will assist customers in making their selections.

Fred Nevery is well known in Lowell and his many friends and former customers will be pleased to hear of his new venture. A man who knows his business through and through and one who has made countless friends and customers elsewhere, he is bound to meet with great success in his new enterprise.

NO OVERCROWDING AT EVENING HIGH SCHOOL

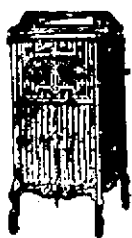

There will be no danger of overcrowding at the evening high school this year, according to Principal Henry H. Harris. The school department has authorized the Harris to use not only the old high school building and the Paige street annex for evening classes but, if necessary, to throw open the so-called "coop" in Paige street and the Kirk street primary school. There are plenty of teachers also available. It is expected that there will be an exceptionally heavy registration this year.

To Bring Up Tax Revision

concentrate all their efforts in an endeavor to change features which they deemed "most unfair and unjust."

Senators Walsh and Gerry already have proposed amendments which would provide for reductions in the normal tax rates on individual incomes of $15,000 or less and for a graduated tax of from 10 to 20 per cent on incomes of corporations in lieu of the proposed flat 15 per cent rate.

The senators declare in their statement that under the republican proposal, every corporation whether making excess profits or not, would have to pay a 50 per cent increased tax on its net income.

"Those corporations which are certain of being able to make excess profits as soon as business revives," says the statement, "are to be immediately and directly benefited, while those corporations that are certain of being obliged to struggle for a long period of time before any reasonable profits are to be realized, are to have their tax burdens increased."

"We cannot accept the theory of the republican majority that justifies this rank discrimination against the struggling, small profit-making corporations. So small, inequitable a tax was enacted even during the war when the government was exacting every possible means to raise revenue as is now proposed by the republican majority in desperation to meet the loss of revenue to the government by abolishing the excess profits tax. A loss of $15,000,000, or one-seventh of the entire tax to be raised under the proposed revenue bill."

Discussing the proposal to reduce the normal income tax on individuals having $15,000.00 or less a year, the statement says this class of taxpayers constitutes "the great investment class, the unorganized middle-class, the home-building class, the 'bread and butter' class of the country" and that "yet the republican program has practically eliminated from consideration this element of our population except for small additional exemptions in the lower surtax brackets and for the heads of families with less than $2000 income."

BUSINESS HAS HIT ITS STRIDE, THINKS U. S. CURRENCY HEAD

Washington, Sept. 17.—Belief that business has again hit its stride and that spring will find the nation back on a sure economic footing was expressed here today by David H. Crissinger, controller of the currency.
Crissinger's opinions were based on an exhaustive survey of banks and banking conditions throughout the Bank deposits are increasing and loans decreasing, he said.
The recent rise in cotton prices has changed the southern feeling from depression to enthusiasm.
In New England mills are beginning to work full time.
Crops are good and money is getting easier.
Crissinger said steel and iron prices are still too high and that conditions would rapidly improve if they were reduced.

Mrs. Leslie Carter Says Sense of Humor Is More Precious Than Wealth

BY ALICE ROHE
NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—"A sense of humor is more precious than wealth. It gets you over the most difficult hurdles in life. Never lose it."

"Always remember that in every woman, no matter how bad or vain or frivolous or selfish she may be, there is a latent response to good."

Mrs. Leslie Carter was the speaker. The first observation had to do with the unprecedented triumph of her welcome back to the New York stage after nine years' absence.

The second referred to that particular quality she gave to the role of the transgressing Lady Kitty, which won for her on this memorable first night the overwhelming ovation as a fine comedienne.

Center of Interest
Nothing in recent theatrical history has equaled the interest centered in Mrs. Carter's reappearance after her retirement following her break with David Belasco, who made her famous in the heavy emotional roles of Zaza and DuBarry.

The return in the role of the frivolous, artificial Lady Kitty of 25, gave full expression to that sense of humor which Mrs. Carter says has been her sustaining force since she was the most acclaimed actress in America.

"But there is quite as much art—

If not more—in comedy as in tragedy," said Mrs. Carter. "Indeed, playing the role of the woman clinging to the semblance of youth—the transgressing woman—and keeping the sympathy of the audience is much more difficult than playing tragic and emotional roles. These latter play themselves."

"No one can quite appreciate just what it meant to me to 'come back.' There is nothing in the world quite so tragic as the life of an actress who 'can't come back.'"

"The life of Lady Kitty, in this Somerset Maugham play, which shows the tenacity with which women cling to their youth to hold the thing she loved is really a symbol. Life is often very hard on women—what would it be for us without that gift of humor?"

"I'm glad I could give my friends a laugh. I feel that where there is comedy there is real art. Wherever there is humor there is the great human appeal."

"If we can make people happy we have accomplished something."

SPAIN'S TARIFF REGULATIONS

LOWELL DELEGATES TO STATE CONVENTION

The following delegates have been chosen to represent the Ladies' Auxiliary of Lowell at the 57th American Legion, at the state convention in Boston Nov. 16 and 17: Mrs. Eli Hart, Mrs. M. Q. Maher, Mrs. Hewitt, Mrs. McQuaid, Miss Mary Tansey and Miss McBride.

Mrs. Catherine Molloy, Mrs. Leo Tansey and Mrs. Lee have been delegated to attend the Boston meeting for the election of delegates to the national convention at Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 1 and 2, with Mrs. McBride and Miss Loretta Messier as alternates.

The auxiliary, now that the summer season is over, is again making plans for its organization and social activities and is arranging for an attractive program of events to be held during the fall and winter. The social calendar so far contains a farmers' ball to be held in Associate hall.

The welfare work is being taken up under a bigger scale, the members of this worthy organization bringing much relief to veterans of the world war who are lying wounded or sick in hospitals or convalescent homes throughout the state. That the Lowell auxiliary has been doing very commendable work along that line is proved by a letter recently received from the state headquarters of the legion which congratulates the women for the worthy cause they have been so nobly aiding.

The next meeting of the organization will be held in Memorial hall on Monday, Oct. 3.

Wouldn't Be a Beauty?
Recalling Ancient Rome in the days of the Caesars, when the cult of female loveliness and methods of enhancing and preserving it were developed into a real science, is the proposed organization of an "International Academy of Beauty Culture." Plans are under way. The first meeting has been held. One of these days an unlikely woman will be as rare as a white blackbird. Read the story. See the pictures. In the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

POGO-ING

The new sport fad of English society is "pogo-ing." Pogo races, on one-legged stilts, feature week-end parties.

Kisses smack of rouge.

Good school teachers are usually poor.

Taxes are keeping them "down" on the farm.

The rise in cotton probably means higher woolen suits.

Oh, well, playing the rag keeps them from chewing it.

Taxi drivers make money in either the short or the long run.

Fewer babies were born this summer. We don't blame them.

Roller stockings don't necessarily make men look down on women.

Every girl is looking for a husband—both before and after marriage.

Anyhow, Harding's unemployment conference will employ the conferees.

Little girls are punished for making faces. But not when they grow up!

They arrested a Chicago man in knee trousers. Impersonating a woman.

Joseph Sorace, Elmer Sing convict, swam the Hudson and made a clean getaway.

An English duke has married a blacksmith's daughter. Watch her forge ahead.

"Reformers want to stop kissing in movies."—News item. Didn't know reformers kissed.

10,000 IMMIGRANTS ENTER PALESTINE

LONDON, Sept. 23.—There are now barely 700,000 people in all Palestine, a population much less than that of Galicia alone in the time of Christ, says Sir Herbert Samuel, the British high commissioner there, in a report just made public.

Ten thousand immigrants arrived in Palestine in the seven months between September, 1920, and May, 1921, he reports.

Sir Samuel attributes the scarcity of the population to lack of development.

The financial condition of eastern and central Europe, and internal difficulties within the Zionist organization of the United States, says the report, have prevented the Zionist movement from providing, as yet, any large sums for enterprises of development or colonization.

As a consequence, while there had been much pressure to admit Jewish immigrants, there had been little expansion in the opportunities for employment, he declared.

The water supply for Jerusalem having been found to be insufficient, the government is bringing into use some ancient reservoirs of vast capacity, named the pools of Solomon, but of unknown date, possibly Herodian, situated eight miles away.

The garrison of the country has been reduced to 6000 combatant troops, imposing a charge of 2,500,000 pounds on the British exchequer or at the rate of 500 pounds for every fighting man.

Nearly 100,000 persons lost their lives in the Messina earthquake.

OF OLD TIME FABRICS

DUNN WORSTEDS

Of Woonsocket, R. I.

These goods bought last week direct from the Commission Houses of Rubin and Cooper, 65 Chauncy St., Boston, lower in price than anything I have seen in four years, lower in price than any buyer of woollens can purchase them a month from today.

No other tailor or clothier in New England today can talk about an all wool and worsted suiting under $30, and I contend these fabrics compare very favorably for quality of merchandise with their suits around $35.

For a limited time, the merchandise offered in this Fall Opening is very exceptional. A small deposit is all that is necessary now—the balance when you need the garment. Many of these styles are now displayed in my windows; be sure to see them, for this is an opportunity to effect a very considerable saving.

Adventures of the Twins

EVERY MORNING HE TOOK OUT THE NET AND EVERY NIGHT TOOK IT IN

Away off in the bay Mr. Fisherman there and would swim right into its stretched his net. There it floated be-tangling fish. At night he would neath the waves, securely fastened at gather it in, with its slipping burden, the corners to big pound poles driven return to shore, and sort his catch down into the sand at the bottom of according to weight, size and kind, the water.

Every morning he took out the net. After a time the Wigglefins got to and every night he brought it in. In know this, at least all the daddies and the morning he would hook it into mothers knew, and all the little Wig-place under the water so cunningly glefins had been warned over and that the people in the Land of the over to keep away from the bay and Wigglefins never suspected it was the pound-poles, as repentedly as

FAB

It's thin!

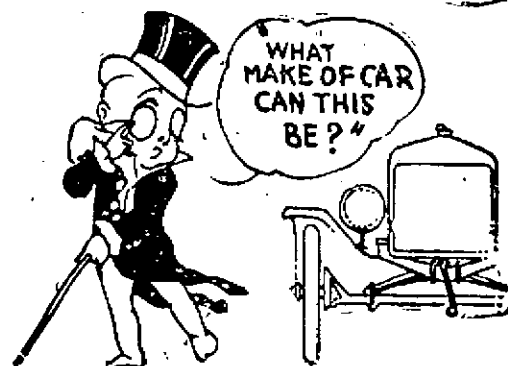

Cuttle Cottontail had been warned by his parents to beware of Reddy Fox in Heller Skelter land. But there are always careless people, and adventurous people, and people who won't take advice, in the water as well as on dry land, and there never was a night that Mr. Fisherman didn't take home a full net.

There was one person whom Mr. Fisherman was most anxious to catch, and that was Tub Terrapin. Tub made grand eating and would have brought a grand price as many of his relatives had done. But Tub knew all this and never went near a net. And Mr. Fisherman knew that Tub knew, and was trying to think up another way of landing him.

So when Tub Terrapin came along and lay down right at one of the busiest corners in Wigglefin Land, and right on top of Spike Starfish, Crawly Crab, and some others, Cap'n Penny, winkie thought of the net at once, and that was why he sent the twins for it.

WHAT'S MATTER ANYWAY

Survey Made For The 'Sun'
Shows Unemployment
Much Overstated

What's the matter with us, anyway?
What is the cause of business depression and unemployment?

What can remedy conditions?
These questions everyone is asking. For they affect everyone intimately, vitally. Everyone is feeling the effects of commercial stagnation, either in wages or dividends.

The Sun, through N.E.A. service, has asked the men who should be best able to answer these questions for their diagnosis of the situation. It has received signed statements from:

Samuel M. Vaulcain, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works.

Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Co., of New Jersey.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor.

L. Ogden Armour, president of Armour & Co.

Theodore H. Price, editor of Commerce & Finance.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America.

Benjamin M. Anderson, Jr., Ph.D., economist of the Chase National Bank of New York, and others.

In these signed statements analyzing the situation—the first of which is published herewith—these authorities give various opinions, but these views recur frequently:

First, that lack of capital is chiefly to blame.

Second, that faults in the system of taxation and the sudden restriction enforced by the federal reserve bank system have contributed.

Third, that Europe's economic illness is a great factor.

Fourth, that unemployment is not as great as generally believed.

Fifth, that the low point has been reached and conditions are improving.

Directly or indirectly, most of these authorities say that the question is not "What's the matter with us?"—but "What's the matter with the world—with everybody?"

One man said he could answer the question in two words—"Everybody's selfishness."

Another put it this way: "The big trouble is that the old time pride in work is gone. Every one, employee and employer, figures how much money he can make instead of how much work he can do."

To get at the facts of unemployment, the Industrial Relations association of America has made a special survey of the nation's unemployment situation for this paper.

The result bears out the opinion of many of the men who have answered The Sun's questions, that unemployment is not so serious as painted by federal, state and city officials.

Replies to the questionnaire sent out by E. A. Shay, executive secretary of the Industrial Relations association, brought disagreement with the department of labor's first estimate early in September that 5,000,000 were unemployed throughout the country.

"These figures are deceptive," Secretary Shay said, "because they were based on the number of men dropped from the abnormally large payrolls of industrial plants doing war work, and that excessive work of 1917-1920 stimulated by war."

"Secretary of Labor Davis has now revised these figures to the estimate made by our association—nation-wide unemployment of between 2,000,000 and

"I feel positive, after carefully surveying conditions in nine centers representative of various industries, that many of the people listed as unemployed actually are employed in some other line."

The special survey was made in these manufacturing centers: Pittsburgh, Detroit, Buffalo, San Francisco, St. Louis, Toledo, Bridgeport, Conn., Reading, Pa., and Moline, Ill.

These were chosen for questionnaires on the basis that Pittsburgh is representative of the steel industry, Detroit of automobile manufacturing, Buffalo as typical of diversified industry of the east and of lake shipping, San Francisco as representative of the Pacific coast, St. Louis of the middle west, Toledo of automobile activities, Bridgeport of the eastern machine shop trades, Reading as center of the Philadelphia district and Moline as typical of agricultural implement manufacturing.

Result of Survey
This is what the survey shows:

Pittsburgh—Unemployed 50,000. No figures available for comparison with unemployment before the war. Low point has been reached. No suffering among unemployed. Common labor got 15 to 18 cents an hour in 1914 and now gets 30 to 35 cents.

Detroit—Unemployed 40,000 now, before war 15,000. Low point reached. No suffering among unemployed, but city agencies are prepared to care for Continued to Page Seven

REV. F. J. SPELLMAN

Boston Clergyman Translates Work of Director of Vatican Seminary on the Gospel

A series of weekly pamphlets containing explanations of the holy gospels were published in Rome by the Society of St. Jerome for the diffusion of the gospel in 1919. They are the work of the Monsignor Francis Borgognini-Duca, director of the Vatican seminary.

This series of short sermons has been translated into English by Rev. Francis J. Spellman of the cathedral of the Holy Cross, Boston, and published in book form by the Macmillan company.

"They have been collected in book form under the title, 'The Word of God,' and 120,000 copies have already been run off the press."

The translator has done his work well. His English is simple, graceful, English the sublime thoughts and learned exposition of the original. The book is one that cannot fail to strengthen faith in the truths of revealed religion.

Those who cannot find time in this hurried generation to delve into the bible, will find these short meditations on the gospel very useful and uplifting.

The text while simple, is solid with-out being prosy, is stimulating and convincing, rather than hortatory and preceptive. The work is bound to be popular as elucidating religious truths of universal interest.

BIG FAIR AT TYNGSBORO

Large Attendance at Second
Many Prizes Awarded

A large number of townspeople and visitors attended the second day of the Grange fair held at Tyngsboro yesterday. The exhibits were of the finest quality, making the task of awarding prizes a difficult one for the judges. During the afternoon Cutler's orchestra presented a musical program which was well received by the audience.

The afternoon was devoted mostly to sporting events which were under the direction of Maxwell G. Sherburne. The local baseball team defeated Dunstable by a score of 3 to 1.

A supper in the large dining hall capped the afternoon's events while an equally appropriate program, featuring several Lowell people, was put on in the evening under the direction of Mrs. George Bacon.

The Dewire sisters of this city gave a commendable exhibition of fancy dancing while Mrs. Lillian Dodge Haskell, also of this city, entertained with a number of high class readings. Dancing completed the program for the day.

Four Thousand Hello Girls Own Estate With Broad Acres in Country

FOUNDERS TELEPHONE GIRLS' HOME

MISS JULIA O'CONNOR, INTERNATIONAL PRESIDENT OF TELEPHONE DEPARTMENT OF ELECTRICAL WORKERS.

BY ALICE ROHE
SCITUATE, Mass., Sept. 23—Miss Mary E. June, president of the Boston Telephone union, received me in the old Colonial mansion, "Driftway," which with its broad acres belongs to Miss June and the 4,000 other telephone operators of Boston. As she surveyed the scene, with telephone girls walking over the rich green lawn, she explained how it felt really and truly to own such a splendid property. "I guess it's the first time a telephone union of girls ever purchased property and owned it as a union," she said. "We girls have been treated very kindly by people, but we came to feel we were patronized too much. So we began to think of getting a place of our own."

The home, which stands a monument to a big feminist step, is one of the beautiful landmarks of Scituate, 28 miles from Boston. It is more than 700 years old and can house 32 girls.

"You see," explained Miss June, "it

WHY BE WEAK AND NERVOUS

As a result of pale, thin watery blood—Nuxated Iron will help make you strong and well again; it has been used and highly recommended by former United States Senators, Judges of U. S. Courts, many physicians and prominent men. Even the Pope at Rome has written especially of the merits of Nuxated Iron in a communication to the Pharmacopoeia Normale. Over 4,000,000 people are using it annually to help build red blood, strength and endurance. At all druggists.—Adv.

Isn't only for girls to come here and spend their vacation. It is for girls who are convalescing. While children are not permitted here in the summer, mothers may come here for their vacation in the winter. And as for brides—there isn't a telephone girl who has been married in the past year who hasn't come to Driftway.

"We bought the house a year ago and gave a housewarming on Labor Day."

In the fertile brain of Miss Julia O'Connor, then president of Boston union, and now president of the international union, the house-buying was fostered and the site selected.

Dances and banquets were given till enough money was raised.

Miss O'Connor, now abroad studying labor conditions, led the recent Boston telephone girl strike to victory.

"The secret of our success," said Miss June, who succeeded Miss O'Connor, "aside from being the strength that comes from union—is the education of the individual."

"Our owning and operating this house is a pretty big evidence of woman's economic independence and expression."

any suffering that may occur during winter. Common labor 20 cents in 1914, 35 to 40 cents now.

Buffalo—Unemployed 28,000 now, as against normally from 5,000 to 10,000. Low point reached. Suffering exists. City furnishing groceries, shoes, coal at average of $5 to $8 a week and city and private agencies planning extensive winter relief. Common labor 22 to 25 cents 1914, 25 to 30 cents now.

San Francisco—Unemployed 12,000 to 15,000, double pre-war normal number. Low point reached. No serious suffering. No special preparations for winter relief. Common labor, 28 cents 1914, 35 cents now.

St. Louis—Unemployed 65,000. Larger than normal, figures unavailable. Low point not yet reached. No serious suffering. Relief plans made for winter. Common labor, 25 to 30 cents 1914, 35 cents now.

Toledo—Fifty per cent. of factory employees unemployed. Low point reached in other lines. Biggest plant just out on 1,000 new workers. Unemployment 20 per cent. more than normal. City appropriating funds to assist unemployed and give them work.

Bridgeport—Unemployed 20,000, higher than in pre-war period. Low point reached. No serious suffering, though 2,000 families being helped by city and appropriations made for winter relief. Common labor, 12 to 15 cents 1914, 18 to 25 cents now.

Reading—Unemployed 7,000, 20 per cent. higher than pre-war. Low point not yet reached. Very little suffering, but plans made for winter relief. Common labor, 15 cents 1914, 25 cents now.

Moline—Unemployed 25 per cent. of normal, 50 per cent. irregularly employed and 25 per cent. with steady work. Some pre-war years were as bad, but not for so long a period. Low point reached in industry. No suffering now, but plans made for relieving expected suffering in winter. Common labor, 20 cents 1914, 30 cents now.

The following article on the subject in question is by Benjamin M. Anderson, Jr., economist, the Chase National bank, New York:

The root of our troubles is in Europe, and it is difficult to see how we can have really good business in the United States until conditions in Europe improve. But we can have much better business than we are having in the absence of improvement in Europe, as we complete our domestic readjustment.

During the period of intense activity when we were shipping goods to Europe in unprecedented volume, we were drawing labor and capital away from important domestic uses. We neglected our railroads, we neglected our public utilities, and very especially we neglected to keep up our housing facilities.

There is a great volume of deferred construction which will create effective demand, and might even lead to a building boom, when the war in the building trades and building materials shake down to proper levels and when efficiency in building labor is restored. There is real promise in the recent decision of Judge Landis in the Chicago building trades' arbitration.

Chance for Buying

Quite as important as the question of wages is the question of elimination of restrictive practices. Similarly a great deal more can be bought by the railroads and the public utilities as the prices of the things they need go down and as their financial position is improved through a reduction in wages and other costs.

So far we have only half completed the industrial readjustment. The industries which the war expanded have contracted again, but the industries which the war started have not expanded as yet to take up the slack.

There are six main resistance points in the domestic price readjustment. They are:

One: Prices of finished manufactures as compared with raw materials and farm products.

Two: Retail prices.

Three: Wages in most lines of manufacturing, and very especially wages on the railroads, in the bituminous coal fields and in the building trades.

Four: Building materials.

Five: Steel and its products.

Six: Railway rates on steel, building materials, and other bulky goods.

If we could have prompt and adequate readjustment in these particulars, we should speedily see much better business.

The Real Trouble

world maladjustment due to Europe's partial withdrawal from her normal place as the world's great center for manufacturing.

Economic life goes smoothly when things are produced in right proportion. With the present low rate of production in Europe, the world's aggregate production is cut down; but owing to the shortage of manufacturing capacity through the partial withdrawal of Europe, there is a relative excess production in the non-European world of raw materials and farm products.

Raw material, especially, have as a consequence been concentrated on our American markets, and our manufacturing capacity, expanded though it was by the war, was inadequate to take care of it all. Our factories worked feverishly and were overstrained, wastes multiplied and manufacturing costs rose very high.

Meanwhile the relative excess of raw materials and farm products led to a violent break in the prices of these things. As a consequence, the buying power of farmers and other producers of raw materials was cut that they could not afford to buy even the relatively scant manufacturing output at prevailing prices. Then reaction and depression reached the manufacturing industries also.

The Solution

The fundamental solution is the restoration of Europe to her normal position in the world's economy. Europe must be helped to produce and must be allowed to find markets for her products. A high protective tariff, depriving Europe of an American market, would be a most serious handicap to the world recovery.

Recognizing, however, the handicap which Europe's condition imposes upon us, we must still recognize that our present rate of production and consumption is much too low, and that we can look forward to very substantial improvement in the United States through completing our domestic readjustment.

JEWELS .DECORATE .EXQUISITE. NEW. SLIPPERS

BY MARIAN HALE
NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—If a modern Cinderella ever dropped her slipper it would be a high-minded prince who wouldn't run to the pawnshop with it. Jewels and almost-jewels on cloth of gold or cloth of silver slippers are the exquisite evening foot raiment for the 1921 up-to-date woman, whether she be young or old.

The evening slipper with the gorgeous jeweled buckle holding tiny ostrich tips is one which certainly would make not only a prince, but even a king, stop and notice.

A black satin evening slipper has a large, brilliant button with a silver tassel attached.

Others are finished at the button with metal tassels.

The large jewel buttons, holding the strap, are in all colors—emeralds, sapphires and rubies—but they are surrounded by diamonds or brilliants.

One slipper of brown satin is heavily embroidered in set designs, both around the heel and over the toe. The strap is embroidered and a tassel falls from the button.

A cloth of silver slipper, which recalls Louis Quinze, has a large silver lace rosette with upstanding frills of lace.

Buckles of brilliants, with fringe attached, adorn the satin slippers, while even on the dress patent is all-ver fringe, seemingly attached with silver nail heads.

Warfare at Macao Imminent

SHANGHAI, China, Sept. 23.—(By the Associated Press)—Warfare is imminent between forces of the Chinese southern government and the Portuguese at Macao, a seaport and dependency of Portugal, 35 miles west of Hong Kong. A controversy of long standing growing out of Portuguese efforts to reclaim land along the waterfront has culminated in the firing on a Portuguese police launch by Chinese soldiers. The Portuguese force at Macao at present numbers 800, while the Chinese have 5000 troops near the city.

Boston Men In Court

once having been granted a number of times. Both men had pleaded guilty to charges of drunkenness, which were filed.

According to the story of the police, the two young men boarded a car in the square for Lakeview and after causing considerable rumpus on the car owing to their intoxicated condition, which resulted in one girl passenger fainting, they attacked the operator of the car, a one-man vehicle, and stripped off a pocket of his coat containing $11 in change and a punch.

They were arrested in the loop at the park that same evening.

A dozen witnesses appeared on the stand this morning. Detailed stories of the affair, from beginning to end, were related by James P. Ryan, operator of the car, Frank M. Logan, a passenger who had an argument with the defendants while coming to the park, and by Miss Mabel Topping of Lawrence, who was in company of Mr. Logan. Accounts related by Logan and the girl stated McKenna struck Miss Topping in the face and that she fainted.

Ryan, who said he has been in the company's employ 11 years, told of warning the young men several times after they started annoying passengers by their loud talking, singing and talking to persons whom they did not know.

After he had stopped the car and warned them twice, he stated, he ordered Hanlon to get out of the car, but when he refused he grabbed him by the neck and brought him to the door.

McKenna in the meantime shouted: "You're not going to choke him and get away with it," came forward and assaulted Ryan, the witness told the court.

"McKenna was standing on the step after I had put Hanlon out of the door," continued the operator, "when he took hold of a side of my seat where the pocket I kept my change in was, and in the motion that followed he struck the pocket off as clean as though it had been cut off with a knife."

Ryan stated he did not find out his pocket with the money and punch was until he had started his car and was on his way again. He said he thought McKenna and Hanlon boarded a car behind also going to the park.

As they were being arrested in the loop at the park, he went on, he saw McKenna take a handful of nickels and dimes and throw them away. The pocket slipped off was about $15, times shortly after he testified. The pocket slipped off was about $15, he stated, but as he kept the money he picked up when he made up his account of night found himself $11.20 short. The punch was never found.

Thomas J. Sears, a company inspector, and Supt. Whalen told of ordering Hanlon and McKenna from a car stopped in Merrimack square, because they were drunk and causing a disturbance. When they refused to leave the car, Officer Murphy was called and he put them off, they said. The two men got on another car a short time later, they continued.

Frank M. Logan told how the defendants got on the car slugging and talking loudly. He said that Hanlon was so drunk that he could hardly hang to the straps and as he was nearly falling on a girl, she got up and gave him her seat. He said Hanlon was arguing with the girl, whom he did not know, and when asked by counsel what he was saying to her, Logan replied he didn't hear much but heard him call her a "bun" and spelled it out, he said.

Shortly after the operator of the car warned them to be quiet, Logan continued, Hanlon went to a place near where he and Miss Topping were seated. Hanlon stepped on Logan's toe and made no effort to get off it. "When I felt my toe hurting me," Logan testified, "I put my hand on Hanlon's hip and tried to make him realize that he was stepping on my foot. When I did attract his attention he said to me: 'Who are you that should be talking to me, a college man? You're nobody while I'm a college graduate.'"

"I told him he was acting more like a graduate of the Lyman school than a college man," McKenna then came up and said to me that if Hanlon was a Lyman school man I was a graduate of the Shirley school. Again I warned them to avoid a scene, but McKenna challenged me to go out of the car. I refused saying I was with a young woman and could not leave her. Just before they left they gave me a push in the face and struck Miss Topping on the left side of her face just below the cheek bone. She fainted and I took the aid of passengers to revive her."

Miss Topping corroborated the testimony offered by her agent and other witnesses related similar stories.

Other Offenders

Michael Walsh, in court for drunkenness for the sixth time since April 2, was sentenced to two months in the house of correction, a suspended sentence to that effect being revoked. When he asked the court if he could appeal the judge told him he could not as he had lost that right when he withdrew an appeal before.

John Dick was sent to the house of correction for one month in which to recover from an overdose of moonshine.

Edward J. Brolet and Austin Gilday had their drunkenness cases filed. The judge wanted to know from Brolet what he had been drinking. The accused smiled, hesitated, then replied: "The usual stuff going around, Your Honor, moonshine."

BAVARIAN DIET

Premier For Absolute Fidelity to German Nation

BERLIN, Sept. 23 (by the Associated Press).—Count Hugo Lerchenfeld, the new Bavarian premier, speaking before the Bavarian diet yesterday, said one of his chief tasks would be to maintain order, which had been gained with so much difficulty, says a despatch from Munich today.

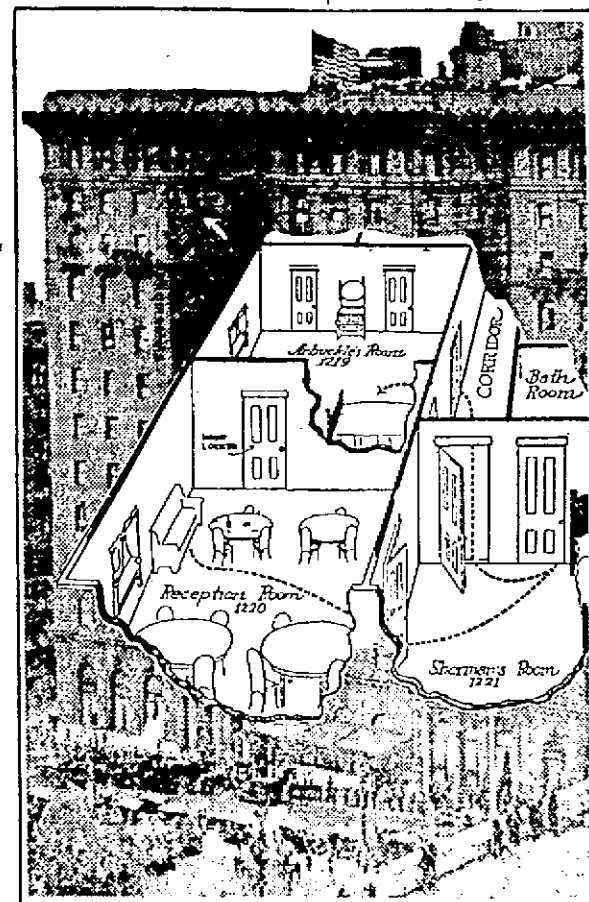

Premier Lerchenfeld declared for absolute fidelity to the German nation. The new cabinet includes all the members of the Von Kahr government, with the exception of Minister of Justice Rothe.

SOLVING RUSH HOUR PROBLEM

Same old rush hour and same old strap-hangers in Paris. But the first time, first served Parisians get onto the buses in the order in which they reach the station. Attached to a past is a machine. Illustrated, a system of paper. The machine issues only one at a time and each is numbered consecutively. When the bus stops the passenger with the lowest number gets aboard first, and the rest follow in order. Simple, isn't it?

NEW SPECIES OF FISH

Brought to Light By Eruption of the Volcano of Mauna Loa

HONOLULU, Sept. 22.—Varieties of fish hitherto unknown were discovered as a result of the eruption of the volcano of Mauna Loa two years ago. This fact has just been announced by Dr. David Starr Jordan, chancellor emeritus of Leland Stanford Junior university, California, noted ichthyologist.

The columns of lava burrowed deeper into the ocean than man had been able to penetrate and thousands of fish of strange and fantastic shape and color were killed and washed up on the beach by the tidal wave caused by the lava flow.

Among them were found six varieties hitherto unknown to science because their habitat was presumably lower in the water than science had been able to observe.

Amateur ichthyologists in Hilo, Hawaii, selected species which were unknown to them and sent them to Dr. Jordan for examination. The result was that six new species were classified.

"I consider the discoveries, from a scientific viewpoint, to be among the most remarkable and important on record," Dr. Jordan said when he made public the classifications here, while he was attending the sessions of the Pan-Pacific educational conference.

The designations given to the six species by Dr. Jordan are:

Loa excelsa, a species of kikihi or butterfly fish, strikingly banded in yellow and black.

Vesposus egregius so designated because of its resemblance to a wasp's nest.

Rhyacanthus Carlsmithi, named for Carl A. Carlsmith, of Hilo, who sent many of the species to Dr. Jordan. It is a deep rose red in color.

Rhechilus armiger, a conger eel with hooks on its snout resembling blackberry thorns and is solid dull black in color.

Nyctimaster Reinhardt, named for the Hilo resident who discovered it. It is a small black lantern fish, so designated because of the many luminous glands behind the eye and along its sides, which give the impression of phosphorescence. It is a solid dull black in color.

Peristodion engyroceros or alligator fish of a brilliant scarlet hue which is characterized by large bony plates of armor.

Each of the six is a deep-water fish. All live in water of more than 150 feet in depth and some as deep as 500 feet. Nothing except such a cataclysm of nature as the Aiea flow could have brought them to the surface, Dr. Jordan said. Rhyacanthus Carlsmithi ranged at least 1000 feet below the ocean's surface, he added.

Dr. Jordan has sent to the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D. C., a paper detailing the results of the investigation and the new classifications.

FATE OF WRANGEL'S ARMY UNSOLVED

ATHENS, Sept. 22.—The ultimate fate of Gen. Wrangel's Russian army in exile of whom 20,000 officers and men still are encamped on the Gallipoli peninsula, still continues one of the unsolved puzzles of the near east.

Gen. Wrangel has held together the best of his officers and men from among the refugee army which fled from Russia before the victorious Bolsheviks. He has hoped that his forces would be again needed in Russia to maintain a new government "when the soviet regime collapsed."

But this is a hope deferred and Wrangel's best fighting men wait in their tents and huts on Gallipoli.

Major Jean de Roover, chairman of the League of Nations commission for the exchange of populations between Greece and Bulgaria, has visited the Russian camp and brought away a very favorable impression of the officers and men. He knows something about the Russian fighting man for he was formerly the Belgian representative with Wrangel's army when it was the bulwark of the anti-Bolshevik strength in the Crimea. He says:

"In this camp, besides 1500 women and children, there are 5000 officers, 10,000 soldiers and 2000 cadets in the military schools. These troops have kept their military organization. Their morale is of the highest and they voluntarily submit to the most stern discipline; for in all their hardships they are buoyed up by an unquestioning faith in their chief, Gen. Wrangel, and in the greatest of their mission."

"They are encamped under canvas, or in old huts that have no doors or windows, but are always in an irreproachable state of cleanliness."

"They are fed by France. In addition, Gen. Wrangel is paying them from the little money he still has—about a dollar a month."

Wrangel, who succeeded in getting employment as labor corps in Serbia and Bulgaria for nearly all his Cossack troops, is trying to get Serbia to receive his Gallipoli army corps. Five thousand of them are going to be used by Yugoslavia as a frontier guard.

"As for the other regiments, the government at Belgrade is prepared to offer them its hospitality if funds are put at its disposal which will cover their upkeep for two years. The Russian ambassador at Washington has still several tens of millions of dollars the remains of funds that were sent him from Russia before the Bolshevik coup d'etat. To pay for the losses for war material, Wrangel is making every effort to get the few million dollars necessary for the carrying out of his scheme raised out of these funds and transmitted to the Serbian government."

"If he succeeds, what will be the ultimate role of the legions? Will it fight again as an army? Probably not. The general opinion in Russian circles is that Bolshevism must go under in an internal revolution of the country, and that the tyranny of Bolshevism will be succeeded by anarchy. It will be then that elements of order, a framework of administrative and police organization will be needed by the new government to restore calm for the convocation of the constituent assembly. This is where the survivors of the national Russian army hope to be of service to their country."

Lowell Fish and Game Association Outing at Willow Dale Big Success; Ideal Weather and Good Crowd

Clear skies and ideal summer weather conditions tempered by a strong southwest breeze that rippled the lake waters at Willow Dale, helped to make the annual outing yesterday of the popular Lowell Fish and Game Association a genuine success from start to finish. The program of speaking, sports and dining was carried out without a slip-up, and Secretary Willis Holt, who had charge of the day's arrangements for the big doings, was congratulated today right and left for his success in handling the outing as "Big Boss." It was a big day for the fireman-fisherman, who handles these yearly outings, and the weather man was with him.

More than 500 members and guests of the association sat down to a fine hot roast lamb dinner and there were speeches by numerous guests of honor, including Congressman John Jacob Rogers and Mayor Perry D. Thompson. Secretary Holt read his annual report, which is always filled with plenty of news about the fishing and hunting grounds, exhibits, and the sports program was carried out without a hitch.
The motor car parade from Thorndike street in the park attracted a lot of attention, the cars being decorated with American flags. Bugler George Del La Haye awakened the echoes with his instrument, and Lowell folks turned out in good style to give the knights of the rod and gun a good send-off. Dinner was served at the park soon after arrival. A group picture was taken just before the "vats."

President C. B. Livingston presided at the after-dinner exercises. Secretary Holt's annual report contained some interesting recollections of the work accomplished by the association during the past year. The association, he announced, has received and distributed the following fish in waters around Lowell: 15,000 brook trout fingerlings, 7500 black bass fingerlings, and 600,000 perch-like fry, making a grand total of all fish received since the association was organized on May 7, 1912, of 22,358,555.
The association has also received since its first day of organization 105 pheasants, 50 snow-shoe rabbits, 65 quail, Wild Geese and wild turkeys, have been planted in many marshes. White perch have been distributed in Long pond, Crystal lake, Spectacle, Flushing, Long-Sought-For and Forge ponds.
Secretary Holt stated that the new

ASSEMBLY OF LEAGUE DISCUSSES MANDATES

GENEVA, Sept. 23.—(By the Associated Press)—Discussion of mandates, and questions related to the powers of countries charged with the administration of former German colonies, began when the Assembly of the League of Nations convened this morning. Delegates expected that during the day the problems incident to calling for the economic blockade of countries which violate international law would begin.
Immediate consideration of the situation in Albania, where Jugo-Slav troops are alleged to have attacked Albanians, was deferred yesterday until detailed reports could be received.

BELFAST, Sept. 23.—(By the Associated Press)—Shopkeepers here have begun a boycott of goods from southern Ireland, a reprisal for the Sinn Fein boycott of Ulster products. Posters are being displayed which read:
"This shop stocks only goods manufactured or produced in northeast Ulster or Great Britain and undertakes to refuse to purchase goods from the southern area of Ireland until the boycott to Ulster and Belfast is removed by the Sinn Fein."

CARDINAL URGES HELP FOR CHARITIES

BOSTON, Sept. 23.—Cardinal O'Connell has sent a letter to every pastor in the archdiocese regarding October devotions and the taking up of the annual collection for the numerous charitable institutions of the diocese.

The letter regarding the collection for charities which the cardinal directs shall be read at all the masses next Sunday and the Sunday following and will appear officially in this week's issue of the Pilot organ of the archdiocese, and is as follows:

"The annual collection for the diocesan charities will be taken up at all the masses in the churches of the diocese on Sunday, October 2."

"This is the one occasion each year on which we appeal to the faithful to help by their generosity in the maintenance of the diocesan charitable institutions and the response made in the past gives us the assurance that our good people only wish to be reminded of their duty."

"The numerous charitable institutions of the diocese have been doing excellent work. They have been efficiently administered and they have expended with scrupulous care the funds at their disposal. They merit our encouragement and support."

"If present conditions should continue and the winter should prove severe the diocesan charitable institutions will be called upon for a larger share of assistance and the more generous the contributions of the faithful the more these institutions will be able to accomplish."

"We are not unmindful of the many demands which have been made upon the resources of our good people during the past months, yet we do not doubt of the success of this appeal, knowing that the faithful of the diocese will realize that the diocesan charitable activities are dependent upon their co-operation, and that many blessings are the reward of their assistance."

ONE OF THE DAY'S STRENUOUS PILLOW FIGHTS

Lowell Fish & Game Association Outing

fishway in Lawrence was a complete success. The fishway at Pawtucket Falls is being rebuilt by the Locks and Canals Co.

The secretary paid a warm tribute to the memory of the late president, Simon B. Harris, who died May 4, 1921. Congressman Rogers received an ovation when he was called upon. He declared the association "has accomplished things." He said many do not appreciate the fact that the Merrimack river is one of the "most beautiful rivers in the United States." He deplored the pouring of sewage of a million people into the waters of the river and predicted that in a few years it would be stopped. The congressman paid tribute to the sterling qualities and enthusiasm of the late president, Harris.

In his address, which was listened to with deep interest by the Lowell Fish and Game club members, Congressman Rogers declared that he hoped the day would come soon when the Merrimack would be "navigable to the sea."

The success of the day's outing was due in large measure to the program of sports carried out under the leadership of Chairman Arnold A. Ryan of the sports committee and Chairman W. C. Purcell of the outing committee. They had numerous able assistants. The trap shoot was in charge of William J. Kilburn.

The list of sports and the names of the winning competitors were as follows:

Dr. Donahoe first!

Joe Weller was there!

No jangling bells for the straw were rung. The folks were thick, but were temporarily discarded.

Did you see Ryan do it?

The wind prevented long water throws.

Frank Ryan came in with a straw hat.

Now for the big November rally!

The skating rink steps were popular for the big events.

F. L. Furush made a corking record at the trap and wasn't had much practice lately, either.

Letters of regret were received from the club members of the club who were unable to attend because of the poor train service out that way.

Secretary Holt, up to a late hour last night had a chance to fight that idea that Brother Livingston gave him early in the afternoon. It was his idea to be "out" when Holt got the dog and a perfect match.

At 11:30 Holt had a brand new cigar but couldn't seem to find time to get it started. The cigar was still unlighted.

At 11:30 Holt got another grip on the disappearing smoke and hit a match. But a gust of wind from the breakers of shore blew the light out, and Bro. Kilburn, trap-shooter par excellence, whiffed Holt on his program, so the cigar became stationary, or something.

A Target for Home-Run Kings!

BY ROY GROVE

The home-run snappers, who have been giving the old B. B. fan such a run for his money this season, are now filling up their bats for the World Series.

Some of them are going to participate in the big mix. What'll happen? Will the franchise continue when the teams fight up for the money playing? Will new, stout records be marked up?

Don't our chaps to the abilities of the present day heavy hitters, we'd like to rise to remark that they'll have to travel to beat the home-run records for the big series set by stars of yesterday.

Who'll repeat the Frank Baker strong man stunt of making two homers in two days during the Athletics-Dan series, 1911?

Who'll eclipse the record of two circuit clouts in a series made by Clarke of the Pirates in 1907, Harry Hooper of Red Sox in 1915 and repeated by Larry Gardner, then of the Red Sox but now with the Indians in 1916?

And, if that is possible, who's the man who will duplicate the feat of Outfielder Dougherty in smacking two home runs in one day in the 1903 series between the Pirates and Boston? Those are a few of the marks that the present day swatmen can aim at.

Mebbe it will be done. The Big Bambino and all the little Bambinos are plugging along at a home-run rate that would have topped fans over with heart trouble a decade ago. Present indications are that some of the heaviest sluggers in the leagues will get into the series.

Have Ruth, the Meusel brothers, Bob and Emil, with the Yanks and Glavin respectively; Elmer Smith, who made himself immortal in the World Series of 1920 by pulling the ball over the fence with the bases loaded with Indians; George Kelly, leading homerun manufacturer of the National League; and some of them, at any rate, will parlay another season of money-making for the Indians, may get in.

These two are tied for the honor of leading World Series players in the number of home runs hit. Each man has three to his credit.

Will that record fall at the hands of one of them this season? Or will Babe Ruth come along and pound out enough home runs in a single series to put Larry and the Maryland farmer into the discard?

These are some of the things that are going to make the 1921 series interesting.

On the Other Hand

McGraw of the Glants is indeed a wonder man.

If he should succeed in landing the 1921 pennant it will be the seventh time that he has steered a club to a pennant.

All credit is due the Glants and McGraw.

At a seemingly impossible moment, when the Pirates were checking up a piling duel between Jimmy Davidson and the famous Boston postoffice team, McGraw's Glants were in the

Hub Post Office Team in Big Game With Local Knights Tomorrow

The big game between Manager Colglins's Lowell Knights of Columbus and the famous Boston postoffice team will be staged at Spaulding tomorrow afternoon and there are indications of one of the biggest crowds of the season turning out for the battle.

From present indications the game will in all likelihood develop into a pitching duel between Jimmy Davidson, the K. of C. old reliable, and Andrews, one of the best twirlers in the semi-professional ranks. Davidson, who has every right to entitle them to get the best pitcher performing in Lowell this season, has not yet met defeat on local grounds since he came to the Hub and vicinity.

The K. of C. will present the strongest lineup of the season for tomorrow's game. Sixteen will be behind the bat and Connie Desmond will be on hand as a relief catcher. Possibly, he may be used in the outfield. Devlin, the former Holy Cross star, will take care of first base and Hevey, Harris and Dowd, "the big three," will form the line of defense in rest of the infield.

Bobby Keeler will umpire, which means that everything will be satisfactory as far as that part of the game is concerned. Special car service will be provided to and from the park. The game will get under way promptly at 7:30.

Tomorrow's game is considered unusually important from a K. of C. standpoint inasmuch as victory for the local team would entitle them to get the line for the 1921 championship of Massachusetts. Realizing this fact, the local council plans to send a record-breaking delegation to the game and the Boston team will bring with it several hundred supporters from the Hub and vicinity.

Pitchers Put Thrills in A. L. Race

BY ROY GROVE

Two pitchers, both World Series veterans, have been largely responsible for the Garrison finish in the American league race this season. Meaning, to be specific: Carl Mays of the Yanks and Stanley Coveleskie of the Indians.

Mays, while with the Red Sox, went through two of the big time performances, while Coveleskie earned himself the name of "Iron Man" in 1920 when he won all three of his starts in the Cleveland-Brooklyn games.

Both men are near the top among league pitchers. "Covey" is always cool and deliberate and master of the moist pill in a pinch, while Mays at times becomes excitable and wild.

Delivery Famous

Mays' underhand delivery is the most peculiar in the big leagues. It's famous for his submarine ball. It was while batting against Mays that Ray Chapman, Cleveland short-stop, was killed in 1920.

Mays was the most talked of man in baseball when he quit the Red Sox.

GREAT BASEBALL YEAR

Interesting Review of Big League Races—Yanks and

Giants Picked for Series

Congress is once again in session. But who cares? The Yankees have once more gone into the lead in the American league race, ousting the Cleveland Indians, Tri-State—led, on their way to another championship. Again, who cares? More baseball fans in the country than people who ever knew such a thing as congress existed, is the answer to this question.

More people are baseball mad at the present and have been baseball mad all season than ever before. Baseball is having its greatest year. It seems the scandal that set the sporting world agog in 1915, when members of the White Sox team were accused of throwing the series to the Cincinnati Reds has stimulated interest in the sport, rather than administered the knockout punch feared by many lovers of clean sport. People who never paid much attention to baseball became interested in a sport that could monopolize the front page of our daily papers day after day. They wanted to know what it was all about.

And consequently the hundreds of thousands who had followed baseball were augmented by countless thousands more. And with the edge taken off the war, America turned toward its two major leagues for much needed recreation.

From the first game of the season it was noticed more people were paying to see games than ever before. Baseball owners thought the interest only the usual first of season interest. But as the season wore on the crowds became greater and now in the fast end of a successful campaign the interest is still keen.

In the National league the result is pretty well decided with the New York Giants as the winners. In the American league New York and Cleveland are in the thick of as tough a fight as has been waged in the league for many a season.

Ever since Colonel Ruppert and Houston bought the Yankees they have spent thousands upon thousands of dollars in an effort to bring a pennant to Gotham. Last season their drive putered out in the closing weeks. But this season the Yankees appear to be a slight favorite for the pennant league hunting.

The race will be decided this week when the Indians invade New York for a series, the first game of which is scheduled for this afternoon at the Polo grounds. This might well be termed the young world series of the American league. Despite the fact Cleveland is a scrappy team and has the experience of a world series behind it, the Yanks should be the favorites. On their home grounds, among friends and with everything at stake, Miller Huggins' men will give everything it has to win these games.

But the Indians might prove good invaders and come home with the flag. Not so many years ago the Boston Red Sox started west with only a slim chance for the pennant. They went into Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland and St. Louis and swept up series after series, coming home assured of the flag. The Indians may do this, but we like the Yanks better.

While New York and Cleveland are battling for first and second places, Boston, Washington and St. Louis are having a merry three-cornered battle for third place money. The Browns are in third place by only a slight margin, while the Senators and Red Sox are but a breath or two behind.

This position may also be decided this week as the Browns invade the Hub today for a series. The Senators, however, may stage another of their season's dashes and manage to weather all opposition to keep them out of the first division.

And what of Pittsburgh in the National league? A team that led the campaign about three-fourths of the way only to be beaten out when victory was conceded to them by over half of the baseball going public. The Pirates fought hard and seemed to have victory in their grasp when the St. Louis Cardinals and Giants gave them rude setbacks.

And now the Pirates must keep fighting hard to be assured of even second place. Branch Rickey has got the Cards going great guns. There was only one thing the matter with the Cards and that was pitching. And when Eddie Ainsmith joined the team, the pitching demand braced at once. Now, it may have just been a coincidence, the fingers should trace about the time Ainsmith made his appearance, but it seems to look more as if it were the result of his wise old head. But, anyway, the Cards are coming full steam ahead. And Pittsburgh has a five-game series to play in St. Louis and this again may decide a position.

The Braves have only a slight opportunity to finish within the money while Brooklyn and the other teams are out of it entirely.

New Yorkers Claim Pennant

Down New York way, the city that loves to be called "the big town," its baseball fans have been convinced for some time that the Yankees are the team to beat. They are sure of the Giants and have faith in the Yanks. With abated breath Gotham is waiting for the struggle between its two great teams and more for the duel between the two great home-run hitters of each league, Babe Ruth and George Kelley.

While Kelley has not made the record attributed to the Daterling Bambino, he has made many friends and admirers among New York ball-dom. In an interview series of this kind Ruth would be watched like a cat watches a mouse. Kelley would be respected to a certain extent but no such guard of his moves would be made as in the case of Ruth.

It seldom happens a season's star pops into the calcium glare in a world series. Last year before the series Bill Vamboguss was just a cog in the Cleveland machine. Then he made a triple play unassisted. He was immediately a hero. And thus it goes in every series.

Ruth or Kelley may not do a great deal but every action of these players will be watched with an attention New York's frantic bugs, and they are real bugs, can give them.

At a recent meeting of the Manhattan club the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: William J. Carey, president; Charles Dillon, vice president; William Handley, treasurer; John Quinn, secretary; Edward Hendricks, assistant secretary.

WHITE RIBBON HOME FOR AGED WOMEN

Out in Ayer the White Ribbon home for aged women has been carrying on for the past two years quietly but effectively and next Wednesday, Sept. 28, the birthday anniversary of Frances E. Willard, the home is to hold a harvest home and open house day to commemorate the completion of this period of service in this capacity. During the war the place was used as a hotel for women, friends or relatives of the men at Camp Devens and transferred to a home for aged members of the Massachusetts Woman's Christian Temperance union only when the war for its wartime use was past. On Wednesday the home will be open all day and in addition to a sale of articles made by the women residents and a cafeteria luncheon, an attractive program has been prepared by the committee in charge. Mrs. George E. Frost of Dorchester, vice president, will preside for the occasion of the dedication of the home. The home is situated at 33 East Main street and is easily reached by train, trolley or motor. Members of the home family represent all parts of the state; about 20 have already found a comfortable home there and a number of applications are now pending, showing the need for such a refuge. Mrs. Edith Blaney of Westford is Middlesex county representative.

DEFENDS SEIZURE OF BERGDOLL PROPERTY

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.—Defending the action of his office in having seized the property of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, Thomas W. Miller, alien property custodian, today told the convention of the Pennsylvania department, American Legion, that Bergdoll clearly brought himself within the trading with the enemy act by fleeing to Germany.

"The whole Bergdoll matter is a stain on the previous administration of the war department and a reflection on the government," Mr. Miller declared. "The American Legion wants this man brought back to this country, and if we can't get Bergdoll under one law, I say get him under another."

The committee on international relations has recommended the introduction of a schedule of official visitation with quasi-independent jurisdiction in those countries as soon as possible. The suggestion was reported to have been favorably received.

A recommendation also was adopted that an annual fee of 10 cents be charged each member for a period of five years, to cover the cost of a Grand Lodge building in Baltimore, where a site has been obtained.

BOONVILLE, Ind., Sept. 23.—Closing arguments of the state and defense in the trial of William Berdell, 17, charged with the murder of his mother, Laura Berdell, 72 years old, were begun today, both sides having completed their case. Officials expect the arguments to be finished and the case to be in the hands of the jury by early this afternoon.

CAUSES OF AUTO ACCIDENTS

Next week we are to have a statewide drive against accidents of all kinds and classes, but chiefly those on the highways that have become alarmingly frequent during the past few years.

Registrar Frank A. Goodwin is doing splendid work in his effort to reduce the number of accidents; but sometimes it would appear, that he has good reason to be discouraged when he finds that in spite of all his activity and his vigilance, the accidents, fatal and otherwise, continue to be reported with the usual regularity. It is quite plain that a campaign of education is necessary; and the appeals to be made in the coming "No Accident Week" will help to impress upon the public generally the necessity of greater care.

The campaign appeals to pedestrians as well as to the drivers of autos. In probably nine of every ten serious accidents in which pedestrians are injured, it appears that the person injured was guilty of contributory negligence.

Children run in front of autos when they are thoughtlessly playing on the public streets. Hundreds of children have been killed in this way and other hundreds, may thousands, will be killed unless parents are taught to train their children in the principles of safety first. Keep them off the dangerous vehicle lanes, and they will not be hit or run over by autos.

The speed mania, the driver who cuts corners, who tries to pass an auto ahead on a blind curve or who "cuts in," as they say, must be made to feel the hand of the law or be driven from the highways. There is a rule that in thickly settled districts, a speed of eight miles an hour is the limit at intersecting streets; but so far as our observation goes in this city, about 15 per cent. of the auto drivers never heard of the rule or, if they did, they wholly disregard it.

Take, for example, High street, which is thickly settled on both sides with the exception of two vacant lots, one on either side but not opposite; yet a great many autoists make it a regular speedway.

Stricter enforcement of the speed laws would regulate this; but it seems there has never been any attempt to enforce the eight-mile limit at intersecting streets in the crowded districts. As a result of the violation of this rule, a great many collisions have occurred and persons have been killed.

Reckless and Irresponsible
There is another menace that apparently has escaped the notice of Registrar Goodwin, although he has laid his finger on most of the causes of accidents. It is the irresponsible and reckless driver who carries no insurance and who has no financial stake that can be reached in a damage suit. Such drivers may bang into a Cadillac and send it hors de combat; but the owner of the latter has no redress when it happens that the owner of the other car is not the possessor of any property, carries no liability insurance and when even the machine he was recklessly driving was mortgaged to its full value.

Not very long ago we had an illustration of this evil as the result of a fatal accident on the Lawrence road. A woman who was walking along the side of the road was struck by an auto that came up behind her, and was instantly killed. She was the mother of a large family, which was entirely dependent upon the earnings of the father.

Naturally he should have received a substantial sum for the loss of his wife through reckless driving, which was proved and admitted.

He consulted a local law firm with a view to bringing suit for damages. The guilty driver was acquitted on the manslaughter charge.

The lawyers soon found, however, that the owner of the car that killed the woman had no property whatever and that his car, a cheap rickety affair, was heavily mortgaged. The bereaved husband, therefore, got no compensation for the loss of his wife and helpmeet.

Why should any such thing as this be possible? Why allow any man or woman the use of the highways unless they have some liability insurance or other provision sufficient to meet a damage claim such as a court of justice would sustain in a case of that kind? It is preposterous.

We would, therefore, urge upon Registrar Goodwin the necessity of driving the irresponsible of the highways until such times as they secure some liability insurance sufficient to meet a damage claim of reasonable amount.

If the injury is required to furnish a bond as a stake for damage claims or a guarantee of compliance with the laws governing such travel, surely the reckless autoist without property, without liability insurance and without an equity in the machine he drives, should be equally compelled to provide either a bond or adequate insurance against possible damage claims on behalf of those he may injure or kill.

We are convinced that the volume of accidents would be greatly reduced if this irresponsible class of auto owners and operators were compelled to assume some reasonable responsibility for their own recklessness, because it would make them more cautious.

It is a principle of justice that all men stand equal in the purview of the law; but in the case we have cited, the irresponsible driver or owner stands immune against damage suits, whereas he can recover from any responsible party who happens to damage his outfit. It isn't right.

REQUEST FOR TREES
Bank ads often say that if I had had a city that made a success of it, I would have placed at compound interest in the year 1, it would have grown, by then to many lakes.

now, to a sum bigger than all the money in the world.

That must have caught the eye of Alfred V. Lincoln, of Charlestown. His will provides that $7500 of his estate must be set aside at compound interest for 90 years. Then the total will be drawn out to plant many trees in Lincoln's home town.

At 4 per cent. compound interest money doubles in 17 years 248 days. In 90 years, Lincoln's original $7500 will amount to about $250,000. Shrewdly invested by trustees, it may turn into millions.

It happens that trust funds are sometimes diverted from their original purpose and something of the kind may happen to the Lincoln bequest. Besides, 90 years hence the Lincoln home may be utilized for a street similar to Fifth Avenue in New York, for an aviation hangar, a school, or any purpose for which it may be needed by the city. Every municipality under the right of eminent domain can seize land anywhere within its limits to be used for public purposes. The public welfare may overrule any private arrangement such as that of the late A. V. Lincoln.

CONGRESS MUST SPEED UP

It is now time for congress to speed up upon the vital questions awaiting attention.

The beer and anti-beer drives can wait as it makes little difference whether they pass or not if we are to judge from the very general disregard of the prohibition law and the letter of the Volstead act.

The revenue bill providing a revision of the taxation system is the most important of all, while the tariff comes as a close second and the railroad re-ferendum bill third. Until these measures are enacted and the industries of the country are adjusted to the new conditions very little improvement can be expected.

Then there is the German peace treaty which, if ratified, would help to remove the lingering estrangements of the war.

It is high time we had resumed diplomatic relations with Germany; and it is doubtful if anything is to be gained by standing out against recognizing the Soviet regime, provided it can be relied upon to comply with the usual diplomatic customs. It is difficult, of course, to enter into business relations with a nation that is held under the bondage of a veritable band of brigands; but the people seem to approve of it, and if so, why should we object?

Unless congress speeds up when it resumes business, the industries of the country will suffer still further by the uncertainty as to tariff, taxes and prices. Unfortunately thus far, congress has paid little attention to the exhortation of the president when he urged the industrial activities to go full steam ahead. It is to be regretted that congress did not set the example. Neither did the president.

MUNICIPAL GAS?

The article printed in yesterday's Sun presented evidence from a dozen cities and towns showing that their effort to run municipal gas plants proved an utter and expensive failure. No other argument is needed, it would seem, than the costly failures wherever municipalities attempted to run these public utilities. Somehow the method of conducting the cities' business is so different from that of a private concern, that when the municipalities attempt to compete with private companies they are left hopelessly behind. That alone explains the vast losses incurred by the cities and towns that have tried the experiment of running gas plants. There is no reason to believe that Lowell would fare any better than others that have burned their fingers on the gas business.

COST OF GOVERNMENT
Cost of running the national government in August was "only" $291,157,847. That was for actual government operation, not counting the financing of the public debt.

It was $30,000,000 less than in July. The saving will make taxpayers rejoice.

The army and navy departments, however, in August spent $25,000,000, which is more than it normally cost to run the whole machinery of national government before the war, all of which does not support the republican claim of economy.

THE FARMERS' PLAIN

An Iowa farmer says he is $2700 poorer after two years' work. He got that much less for his crops than what they actually cost him to produce.

That's tough on the farmer, but he isn't alone in his misery. Corporations that are passing dividends and setting into their purses will join him in his mournful song.

So, too, will the jobbers, whose savings are disappearing.

If jazz music half a mile away would annoy the patients at the Lowell General hospital, surely the first alarm order on the clock of All Saints church must annoy the patients of St. John's hospital, not quite one hundred yards distant.

And Boston also has its movie scandal where it is alleged an actress was a victim of attack by a director. As we remarked, the movie magnates need a trimming.

Mathews' schoolmen, no longer troubled with the city form of government, have as much trouble apparently as if they constituted a municipal council.

SEEN AND HEARD

There may be people who ought not to be allowed to walk in the street. We don't know any of them. But we do know chauffeurs who ought not to be allowed to operate motor vehicles.

Fatty Arbuckle is said to have threatened to jump out of a window in the early stages of his fatal party. Too bad he changed his mind. It was a twelve-story window.

Hair is said to grow abundantly upon men who work in an atmosphere which is below the freezing point. After a few months' work in cold storage rooms many prematurely bald men have grown full crops of hair.

Thicker Than Hops
A western paper states: "When a fellow gets his own Ford back after a party here he allows the party was a big success."

A Sting in the Heart
When you are tempted to give somebody back as good as he gives, stop and ask just what the bitter and unkind word you have received is really worth. Maybe then you will not think it best to say anything back that will leave a bad taste in your mouth and a sting in the heart of the neighbor who hurt your feelings.

Sorry He Spoke
The young girl had refused the millionaire who was twice her age and he was very angry. "Even Cupid," he said, "could do nothing with you. You're like an iceberg. Why a hundred Cupids might shoot at you all day long and not one of them would make any impression on your stone-cold heart." "Not if they used an old beam," retorted the girl.

Courteous Bricklayer

A man was walking along the street when he drew near to some laborers who were engaged in building a house. As he passed the scaffolding a brick accidentally fell, striking him on the shoulder. Looking up to the men, who were two stories high, he shouted indignantly: "Hi, up there! You've just dropped a brick on me!" "All right," responded one of the bricklayers. "You needn't trouble to bring it up!"

A Good Lawyer

A lawyer was engaged as counsel for the defense in a murder case. No evidence was submitted for the prosecution, and, believing that the case was won, the prosecuting counsel made only a few remarks in conclusion. Then the lawyer for the other side began in a quiet conversational tone. No reference was made to the murder, but he drew a vivid picture of a country cottage, a loving wife preparing supper, and three ruddy-faced youngsters walking up the road to meet father coming home. Suddenly the speaker stopped, drawing himself up to his full height, he exclaimed: "Gentlemen, you must send him home to them." A roar of applause followed, and one juror blurted out: "We'll do it, sir; we'll do it!" The jury brought in a verdict of "Not guilty" and the prisoner with tears streaming down his cheeks, wrung his counsel's hands. But between his sobs he managed to say: "No other man could have done that. Why, sir, I'm not even married."

Not a New Disease

The talk had turned on the subject of Prof. Einstein. "What's all this talk he's started about relativity?" said one old man. "It's a new complaint of some kind, I'm thinking," answered his companion. "Not so very new, either," said a listener. "I've suffered from it, I reckon, ever since my mother-in-law's been me mother-in-law."

Longing

Oh, to be back on the farm in October. After the busy of summer is over. Out of the town now so gray and so sober.

Back to the joys of nature once more.

The trees in the orchards are shading to yellow.

The aster and goldenrod cover the land.

The colors of autumn are everywhere in the meadow.

The wonder of nature is on every hand.

Ah, how we exiles who dwell in the city

Long for the farm in the fall of the year.

Well may the country-folk hold us in pity.

—FROM FARM LIFE.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Do you travel along Church or Anderson streets as a pedestrian very often? If you do, you have probably noticed the stretch of disintegrating sidewalk from a point about at the Lowell Cut Glass Co. building up along toward High street near what was the old dye house. It's a post-1917 relic and has been an eyesore for now long I can't remember. The strip dressing of tar has long since disappeared and the under layer of stone has come to the surface, causing anything but a pleasant sensation on the ball of the foot. Down opposite the First Baptist church is another stretch of sidewalk in poor condition. The attention of the powers that be is respectfully called to this walk, because it is travelled by thousands daily.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem MEMORY

I too, once lived in Arcady.
A little while, a little while,
Where all the ways are glad and free
I walked the paths of wonderland,
I, with my sweetheart, hand in hand;
Ah, yes, I know
'Twas long ago
We walked that dewy aisle,
But—lived in Arcady.
A little while, a little while!

I have been gone from Arcady
A long, long time, a weary time,
But all its ways are fair to me
As in my golden prime;
And all the lovers strolling by Heighten the glimmer in my eye.
For I know well
Love's tender spell
And all its magic gulf—
I, too, have been in Arcady.
A little while, a little while!

I lost my love in Arcady.
Oh, I was blind, so young and blind.
But since I know how sweet can be
The bliss that lovers find
My heart leaps at each glowing word
That ever I have overheard;
(My eye, I fear,
May hold a tear
That mingles with my smile)
But that is natural, you see,
For one who lived in Arcady
A little while.

EXPLAINED NEW CHARTER

James B. Casey, Addresses

Men of First Baptist Church Round Table

A detailed review of the salient features of the proposed new charter which is to come before the Lowell electorate on Oct. 18 for acceptance or rejection was given before the members of the First Baptist church, Round Table last evening by Hon. James B. Casey, chairman of the committee which drafted the charter.

Mr. Casey, in opening, said the charter commission was prompted solely by a spirit of public service in doing its work and that the acceptance or rejection of the proposed charter meant nothing to the charter commissioners personally.

Toussing on the reason for a change in the present form of municipal government, Chairman Casey said:

"The commission was unable to advise the retention of the present charter for in the minds of the majority of members there is too much concentration of power in the hands of a few. There is not enough representation of the three functions of government necessary, executive, administrative and legislative. The new charter would care for these. The mayor would have the executive power, the heads of departments, the administrative power, and the city council the legislative power. The city council under the proposed charter will consist of 15 persons, nine representing wards and six elected at large. In the past there has been too much secrecy, too much of the so-called 'happy family.' This was due to the fact that each commissioner had a veto on the actions of the other commissioners. In the council, with 15 members, there would be at least two or three who would call a spade a spade, thus tending to give a greater amount of publicity in regard to matters of government."

The speaker said that under the present charter the commissioners have a rather free rein in the appropriation and expenditure of money. One commissioner will vote a large amount of money for another department in order that he, in turn, may get a copious appropriation for his own department. Under the new charter the mayor will make one or two vetoes, stating the amounts which he approves for each department. The city council will have the power to revise these amounts by reducing them but will not be able to increase them.

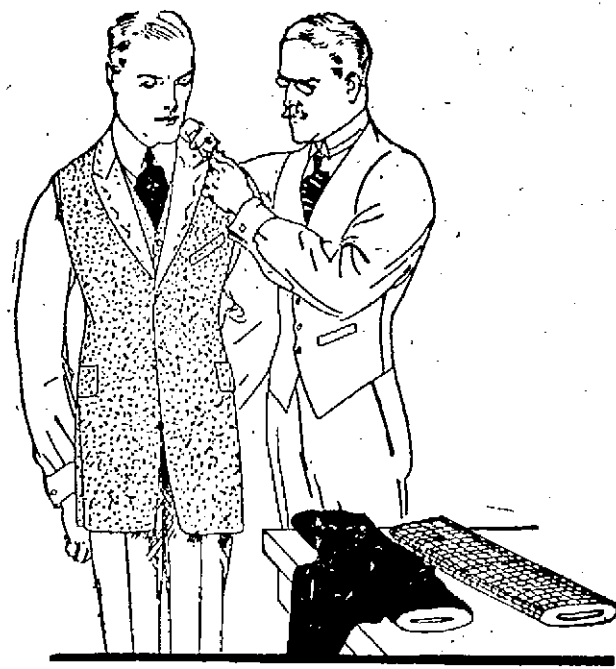

Discussing the tenure of office for department heads, Mr. Casey said: "We believe that the heads of departments whose term of office is unlimited should be removed from under the civil service, for, while they may live up to the requirements, they still may be inefficient. Under the proposed charter, the heads of all departments would have a limited term of office. The nomination for the administrative offices would be made by the mayor but the election would be made by the council. In this way the mayor could approach a man who was particularly fitted for a certain position and practically assure him of election if he would permit the mayor to nominate him. The mayor would be safe in his promise, for the council would not dare to refuse to elect a man nominated, provided he was fitted for the office. If the mayor should try to form a political ring in this way, the head of any department would have to resign himself to defeat. Then the city council could step in and by a two-thirds vote remove the head of the department from office. The mayor could not re-nominate him. If, however, the mayor should remove such a head from office, the council would have the power to re-nominate him."

The speaker explained the duties of the proposed auditing committee of three citizens which, under the new charter, would advise the mayor in making out the budget and would scrutinize monthly bills to see that the mayor was lived up to in all respects. It would also have the right to change in the school department, from five to nine, thus preventing the possibility of any "closed corporation" method. The medical supervision of the schools would be transferred from the school committee to the board of health.

Explaining the powers of the mayor under the new charter, Mr. Casey said:

"At the present time the mayor of the city has no power of veto. In fact he has no more power than any of the other commissioners. The only difference between the mayor and the other commissioners is that the mayor is asked to attend social functions to represent the city. Under the proposed charter, the mayor would have the right to veto the resolutions of the city council any time within ten days. This would give a chance for the formation of public opinion and give the mayor an opportunity of

"The purchasing agent's office would be bound up much more tightly than it is now. Its power is now practically unlimited. The purchasing agent can buy at almost any time without calling for bids by classing the purchase as being made under an emergency. Under the proposed charter, this would be impossible as for any emergency purchase of over $25 the head of the department and the mayor would have to certify the necessity of the purchase."

GROWING DEAF WITH HEAD NOISES? TRY THIS

If you are growing hard of hearing and hear rattling, rumbling, hissing noises in your ears, so to your daughter and son a box of Franklin's Ear-Rings, and add to it a pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mind stop worrying about them. It is easy to take. A meeting of General Guinea council was held in the Guild hall, last evening. It was called to order by President Mullin, at 8 o'clock. The resolutions to be sent to congress were read and accepted. It was moved that pamphlets be sent to Senator Lodge to urge him to vote for the defeat of the Penrose bill. Reports from the boycott committee were received. A committee of five was appointed to look into the advisability of having a social. There being no other business of importance the meeting adjourned to meet Thursday, September 22, at 8 o'clock.

Step-mother Arbuckle "Forgot" Tells of Boyhood of Famous Jailed Comedian

BY JACK JUNGMEYER

SANTA CLARA, Cal., Sept. 22.—This is a "cut back" in film parlance, from the tragic Virginia Rappe episode in Roscoe Arbuckle's life reel to a "close-up" of his boyhood as pictured by the aged stepmother who has long felt herself renounced by him.

The location is an humble home on the outskirts of this California town where Mrs. Mollie Arbuckle, 63, and lifelong bread winner over the wash-tubs, pauses with folded hands to relate her story of "Fatty's" lugubrious amble toward fame.

When as a widow with five children she married Roscoe's father, with four, Mrs. Arbuckle mothered the boy through adolescence. She speaks with tender pity of his serio-comic youth when the poundage that was to make him celebrated served but as a target for the village jibes. She tells of his chronic laziness; of his unhappy days at school; of her unavailing efforts to stir his ambition, pride of person and industry.

Was Lazy Boy

And then she directs the spotlight out along the road to fortune taken by this puzzling lad who trudged it with a loaf and a laugh; tells of his failure to write, his forgetfulness of the mixed family with whom he grew up, and his indifference to her increased burdens when the husband deserted the double brood.

"But it is no more than I expected of Roscoe," she states unemotionally, with neither bitterness nor reproach.

"He was aggravatingly lazy as a boy. Neither his father's cuffings nor my pleadings could cure it. He didn't do any work around the house, and didn't contribute toward the family support, though his two full brothers did their full share.

Jeered at School

"Roscoe was a big, fat boy, who weighed 16 pounds at birth. He didn't seem to fit in anywhere very well. He quit school in the fifth grade, before I married his father. I urged him to go back, but Mr. Arbuckle was indifferent. And when he did start his father compelled him to wear his old overalls and shabby shoes so that the school children jeered him. That hurt Roscoe and he stayed away for longer and longer periods, spending his time near the river fishing and in solitude, finally quitting altogether. I was sorry for him.

"His father used to beat him—and I will say he often deserved it. "One of his brothers secured him a job and paid two weeks' board and "When he left Santa Clara he owed a number of people small amounts. One was a working girl from whom he borrowed $2.50 the night he went away, and she is still hoping for its repayment. I suppose he has forgotten—as he forgot us.

Forgets His Family

"He has never written to me or any of the family. Often he has driven through the town in his fine automobile but he never seems to find time to stop and say hello or to recognize his folks. The only way we learn what he is doing is through the papers.

"No, I have never gone to see him in the movies. I am not without my pride, and if he wants none of us, so let it be."

Mrs. Arbuckle recounted how he had gone on the stage in song-and-dance at the old Unique theatre in San Jose, then with the Ferris Hartman stock company as comedian, later to the Orient, and then back to California with Mack Bennett as an extra man in motion pictures.

"I pity the boy," she resumed, speaking quietly. "I hope he is not guilty of that dreadful thing, but if he is, I would see him punished."

"I have been told that Roscoe now intends sending me some money. But I will not touch it. I feel it would not come to me unprompted, and I should return it."

Deep affection, it seems, never grew up between Arbuckle and his stepmother, although there was no antagonism. Other members of the family show some resentment, at late rather than at their kinsman, for the queer twist that brought him opulence out of slothfulness while they have but a mere living for their steady plodding. This feeling the stepmother shows no sign of sharing, although there is striking contrast between her humble estate in Santa Clara and the sumptuous $100,000 home of Roscoe Arbuckle in Los Angeles, with its creamy $25,000 auto in the garage.

Her Life a Battle

If "Fatty" has risen to eminence with a loaf and a laugh, her days have been a battle and a march. When she married Arbuckle, she says, he was managing a restaurant in Santa Clara. She helped him there, as well as doing the home work. She paid the home rent, she averted, and all the family expenses—and proudly treasures the receipted bills. She feels she was born to toil, and for her husband's vagaries, as she recites them, there is no resentment. Only she recounts and indignantly denies reports that Arbuckle, the father, was a drunkard.

Unlike the palatial home of her famous stepson, Mrs. Arbuckle's house is lighted with kerosene lamps and has few modern conveniences. She car-

Thus the "cut back" fades, the reel again picks up the trowling comedian in the cell of San Francisco's city prison, and proceeds to unwind through gruesome inquest details and grand jury testimony toward trial for the death of Virginia Rappe with which Roscoe Arbuckle's stepmother resents only his renunciation of the family. A Love Recipe That Is Almost Sure to Start a Controversy

RUDOLPH VALENTINO HAS A LOVE RECIPE THAT HE PUTS TO A TEST IN "THE SHEIK." IT WORKED BEAUTIFULLY, MASTERFULNESS REDUCING THE PROUD BEAUTY (AGNES AYRES) TO SUBMISSION—AS SHOWN HERE.

(By N.E.A. Service)
NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Now don't let this start a controversy. Women are especially warned not to read what follows.

It's almost sure to make a lady mad. Now that that's settled and you understand perfectly—let's go on with the story.

Rudolph Valentino, out of the Solomonic wisdom of his 25 years, and a hectic career as a hero in the movies, rises courageously to remark that women like to be dominated.

Make 'em like it, says Rudolph. Be masterful. Be a cave man—physically or intellectually, depending on circumstances.

"A woman likes a man who dominates her," Rudolph declares. "I don't care whether she's a suffragist or a so-called new woman. She likes domination—perhaps secretly, but she likes it just the same."

Rudolph is rather handsome. But he doesn't depend on beauty alone to win them.

"Study the type," he advises. "Some women like brute strength. Others like intellectual strength. But sometimes you have to combine both brain and brawn in your mastery of women."

Take his system in "The Sheik," the new picture in which he has the title role.

When the English girl, played by Agnes Ayres, fell into the hands of the sheik on the Arabian desert she was a cold, indifferent tomboy. She needed someone to arouse her.

Then she met the sheik, and he was brutal. He beat her mentally. He lashed her with intellectual cruelty. He dominated her.

And she just couldn't resist him. He had the recipe. She just naturally melted into his arms. (And, of course, it was awfully nice to discover later that he wasn't an Arab at all, but a European in disguise.)

What? You don't agree with Rudolph? Cave man love recipe?

You're not obliged to. Anyway, you were warned not to read this.

$100 Per Freckle
Wesley Barry, who is going to star in Marshall Neilan's "Penrod," has been trying to find out what his famous freckles are worth per freckle.

The manager of a theatre in Jamestown, Mo., helped him out. After running "Penrod," the manager counted the box receipts and then he counted

Wesley's freckles. Dividing the number of freckles into the total receipts he arrived at the statistical conclusion that the freckles were worth just a fraction of a cent more than $100 apiece.

Leahad in the Movies
Washington Irving is to enter the movie hall of fame. "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow" is to be filmed. Carl Stearns Clancy has written the screen version and a well known star—name not revealed yet—is to have the role of Leahad Crane. The picture will be seven reels and will be done in the original setting, near Tarrytown, N. Y.

First Aid by Uncle Sam
Directing Katherine MacDonald's newest play, "The Indelible," is no easy job for James T. Young. There's an American cruiser in the picture and some real big-gun action scenes became necessary, obtainable only with Uncle Sam's aid during the battle practice of the fleet off the Southern California coast. "The Indelible" is a South Sea story by Charles Logue.

Pickeringham
Clara Kimball Young's "Camille" is being revived.

Mona Lisa's smile is to be immortalized in celluloid.

Rupert Hughes may go into the producing end of movies.

Harry Carey is starting on "Man to Man," by Jackson Gregory.

Wallace Reid has completed "Rent Free," directed by Howard Higgin.

Question: What did they blame things on before movies were invented?

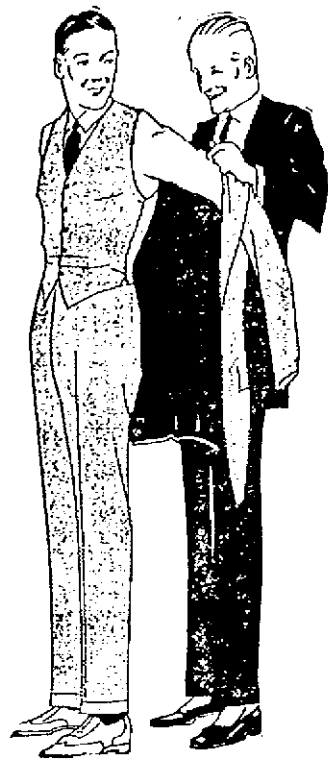

Gareth Hughes will be leading man for Viola Dana in "Glass Houses."

Francis Ford, serial specialist, is with William Russell in "The Lady From Longacre."

John C. Fremont (see United States history) is being movieized. It's a Universal picture. "Winners of the West" starring Art Acord.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

The daring of Princess Radjah, the international dancer who is headlined at the B. F. Keith theatre this week, is remarked upon by all who have seen her.

Her latest novelty, but in it a long serpent plays a most important part. It dances with her. Again in the Arabian chair dance she does wholly new work, that is extremely difficult.

A jolly pair of chaffers are Raymond Wylie and Mollie Hartman, and in "Before and After" they keep their audience roaring with laughter. Another first rate pair of entertainers are Foley and Lewis, who show musical comedy as it is. Helena Moretti, the little girl with the big voice, gives much real pleasure with her singing, and Cooper & Lane are colored comedians and singers. Cornell, Leona & Zippy open the bill with aerobatics, and the Mellette duo are super-fine acrobats.

OPERA HOUSE

"Scrambled Wives" has been going over big at the Opera House this week. The new Lowell Players, winning unstinted recognition from the patrons by their clever and finished performance of it. It is a swift, irresistible, laugh, medium (that will surely help very materially in making the new cast extremely popular with the patrons. If you haven't seen it yet, you should not fail to avail yourself of the remaining opportunities. Miss Scott and Mr. Howard are scoring big hits in their respective parts, and the remainder of the supporting cast are helping materially in the success that the production is registering. Next week's presentation will be the first in months of the year, "Dangerous Love," in which the members will reflect more forcibly than ever their highly dramatic capabilities. Tickets now selling.

THE SHAND

Who is there who hasn't either read or heard of "Black Beauty"? This famous Anna Sewall novel, adapted for the screen by Mr. and Mrs. George Randolph Chester, is creating no end of favorable comment among the picture patrons of Lowell and suburbs. It will be shown today and tomorrow and we enthusiastically recommend it as one of the most artistic and satisfying offerings of the film in months.

Corinne Griffith in "Moral Fibre" helps to round out a program of exceptional merit.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

The story of a girl who never had any fun or pretty clothes and who breaks away from stern discipline the very morning she attains her 15th birthday is amusingly told in Fabe Daniels' latest photoplay, "One Wild Week," the feature attraction of the current program at the Merrimack Square theatre. Miss Daniels is seen in one of the best parts of her career and her supporting cast is excellent. The other big feature for the first half of the week is "The House That Jazz Built," starring pretty Wanda Hawley. A new comedy and the International News complete the bill.

NOT MUCH FOOD IN COLD STORAGE

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, Sept. 23.—Cold storage plants in this state are no longer "bulging with food" for statistics published today by the state department of health disclose the fact that the amount of food in storage is nearly twenty-five per cent lower than last year.

Meats in particular have shown a marked falling off, beef having reached a point more than 60 per cent below the figure of a year ago, while pork and lamb also are held in reduced quantity, although the lessened supply is not so noticeable in the case of these staples.

Eggs continue to hold at about their normal figure for this season of the year, which is around fifteen million dozen, but poultry has dropped off nearly 60 per cent, and butter about 33 per cent.

For each man, woman and child in the state there were in storage on Sept. 1, 4 dozen eggs, 3½ pounds of butter, 1-5 pound of poultry, 1-10 pounds of beef, 3½ pounds of pork, and 1-5 pound of lamb.

Compared with last year, the storage figures as of Sept. 1 are:

Eggs (dozen)	15,352,140	15,445,830
Butter (pounds)	13,557,210	19,658,250
Poultry (pounds)	575,764	1,492,430
Beef (pounds)	4,229,626	10,712,572

Lowell Mill Men Are Divided On the Dye Situation—Agent Mitchell Strong For Home-Made Dyes

Lowell manufacturers seem to be divided upon the dye situation insofar as it concerns the using of American and foreign made dyes. To a mill city such as Lowell the question of dyes is a serious one and one to which the greatest attention must be given.

At the present time there is a movement in progress, sponsored by the American Chemists' association to place an embargo upon all foreign made dyes. About two years ago the Longworth bill providing adequate protection for the dye industry was passed by the house of representatives. The bill was unanimously reported in an approved form by the senate finance committee but died in the senate because of a filibuster.

W. A. Mitchell, agent for the Massachusetts cotton mills, is a strong advocate of any plan which would bring the American made dye to the front. An official of another large plant in the city is not so strong for the domestic dye as he claims it cannot compare with the foreign product. Still another says for patriotic reason alone, he would rather use the American dye if he could be shown it compared with the foreign stuff.

Mr. Mitchell is well informed on the dye question. Previous to the outbreak of the world war he went to Germany to study conditions affecting the dye situation. Carloads of the stuff were loaded under his personal supervision and as a result of his experiences he told The Sun he was for American dyes, first, last and all the time.

Mr. Mitchell said, "The American dye is every bit as good as the foreign dye. Its colors are as fast and it measures up to the requirements in every particular. We use more dye in our plant than any other in the textile business in this entire country. And let me say every ounce of dye used is American-made dye."

"That it is entirely satisfactory may be attested to by the number of orders we are producing. Our plant is running on full time and in fact we are rushed to death. Hardly a mail comes in that does not bring orders and requests to hurry shipments."

"We make nothing but colored goods and if American dyes were not giving satisfaction our goods would not be in the demand they are at the present. Results are what tell the story in the dye situation."

"On this subject of dye let me say—"

SHE TIPPED BEAM AT 98 POUNDS

MRS. GIBBONS WAS ONLY SHADOW OF FORMER SELF—RECOVERS SPLENDID HEALTH

"I am so grateful for the way Tanlac has helped me that I want everybody to know what a grand medicine it is," said Mrs. Lena A. Gibbons, a highly esteemed resident of 13 Baxter street, Melrose, Mass., a few days ago.

"For a year past I have been just about half sick all the time. My appetite was so poor that there were days when I did not eat a morsel of food, and when I did eat it distressed me so I would have to leave the table, and the pains in my stomach were so severe at times I could not stand up straight. I felt off to only 98 pounds and was just a shadow of my former self. I often became so nervous I would tremble all over and had almost forgotten what a good night's sleep was."

"Well, it is astonishing how Tanlac has helped me. I have just finished my fourth bottle now and my stomach is in splendid condition again, my appetite is so keen I can hardly satisfy it, and I sleep right to ten hours every night and not wake up once. I have not only regained my health and strength, but have also picked up several pounds of weight. As a result of such wonderful results myself I could not do otherwise than praise Tanlac."

Tanlac is Tanlac Vegetable Pills as sold in Lowell by the Green's Drug store under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative: by Wright Drug Co., Haverhill, Mass.; A. B. Felt, Chelmsford, Mass.; Snow's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass., and by the leading druggists in every town—Adv.

one. And again he is opposed to an embargo because it might tend to create a monopoly by American manufacturers. He says in part: "As far as the patriotic side of it is concerned I would like to buy American products whenever I can. But the business side of it must be looked after also."

"It is claimed dyes can be produced in this country which are as good as the ones we get from abroad. Well, I don't agree with those statements. I will admit some colors can be made that are good and fast but the general color scheme cannot compare with the imported ones."

"We buy all foreign stuff in this plant. We use only about $10,000 worth in a year but this amount is a large item with us. And we get these dyes cheaper than we could buy them here at home."

"Another thing, I think the market should be kept free from an embargo. We don't want to run into a monopoly in the dye business any more than do in any other."

"A great deal is said of Swiss dyes in my opinion most of the Swiss dye is German made and while it might not come directly from Germany it is made under German direction and from formulae connected by Germans."

"I can be shown where American dyes are as good in every detail as foreign dyes. We will use them because all things equal, I believe in home trade."

WHAT OHIO IS DOING TO HELP JOBLESS

BY HARRY L. DAVIS,
Governor of Ohio.
COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 23.—There are conservatively 300,000 people out of work in Ohio. In the nation, the figure has been placed at several millions. As a large proportion of the jobless have dependents, the number affected is greatly multiplied.

The fact to be faced in the unemployment situation is that unless dealt with intelligently, thoroughly and promptly, winter will bring with it severe hardship and privation for large numbers of our men, women and children.

Clearly, there is but one healthy way to deal with the problem—to provide work and afford opportunity to those in enforced idleness to support themselves and their families. But since resumption of normal activity by our industries cannot be wrought overnight by some word of magic, solution of the problem would seem to lie in the following:

First: The carrying on of public work as extensively as possible.

Second: Making what work is available go as far as possible in furnishing employment to the greatest number.

These two purposes Ohio has set out to accomplish.

Public construction activities have been greatly increased. Nearly three times as many miles of highways will have been built in 1921 as in any previous year. Extensive grading work will be continued in winter for the first time so as to help provide employment.

Other Measures
Other large and necessary improvements are being undertaken and carried forward for the same purpose.

All this will provide work, but not enough, of course, to furnish continuous employment to all. It is, therefore, not only a matter of fairness, but one of economic necessity, that the available work be distributed over the largest possible number so that nearly as many as every person will have work this winter.

We have, therefore, ordered that all labor jobs requiring no special skill, connected with state work, be prorated among the unemployed of the state on a two-week basis of employment, so that at the end of each such period a new set of jobless may be given work.

We have also asked that municipalities, counties and townships adopt the same practice, and that private employers follow the policy so far as it will not jeopardize the maintenance by them of their established organizations.

Jobs for Thousands
State activities alone will thus furnish jobs for thousands. On highway work there are now 15,000, directly and indirectly, performing common labor tasks. Inclement weather will of necessity reduce this number to around 5000.

With other state work and with local communities and private employers joining in the plan, many thousands who otherwise would have little opportunity of making a living this winter, will obtain employment for two weeks and it will be probable, by thus alternating, that their turn will be reached more than once during the winter.

Ohio already has the nucleus of the machinery necessary for putting into effect this plan. In seven state-city free employment bureaus located in large cities in various sections of the state.

Through the state department of industrial relations, other agencies are being set up in territories not reached by these bureaus.

Chambers of Commerce and other organizations are offering their staffs and facilities to help in the task of apportioning the available jobs to the jobless.

Lists of Jobs Open
The state will furnish to these various agencies from time to time, lists of jobs about to be open in their localities. Local authorities and private employers are being asked to furnish similar lists, so that as nearly as possible, jobs in any district can be fairly prorated by one central responsible body among the unemployed of that territory.

There is one main rule that will govern operations of this plan; as between the unemployed, married men with families will be provided with jobs first as against men who have no dependents. This is necessary in order that the greatest number may be benefited.

This method that is now being worked out in Ohio will clearly not cure the unemployment problem, but there is every reason to believe that it will materially alleviate the severity of the problem in its effect on the individual and the state.

EXTENDS PLANS TO AID JOBLESS

"Mr. Zero" Opens Negotiations for Lease of New York Building

Rev. C. Mason Would Have Teams Finishing Second Play Series for Unemployed

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Urban Le-doux—the "Mr. Zero of the auction block"—today extended his plans for helping the jobless by starting negotiations for the lease of a five-story building on Front street, capable of housing and feeding 1000 men.

In addition, he hopes to have the churches throw open their halls to the unemployed, and is planning to call on Bishop Manning of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York. With this purpose in mind, he began bright and early to recruit an array of human exhibits to show the churchmen that his proteges were worthy of aid.

Appearing in Cooper square at 7 a. m., he distributed elevated tickets to nearly 200 former service men, war workers and general laborers now out of jobs. He explained that he would take these men with him to the grounds of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, where he planned to prove to Bishop Manning that the 200 were not bums and loafers, but zealous workers.

The Rev. Clifton Macdon, rector of All Souls' church, today sent to a newspaper a check for the amount which he had planned to pay for tickets for the coming world's series and asked that the money be used to feed hungry men and women. He suggested that a world's series between teams finishing second be held for the aid of the unemployed.

PRAYER FOR PEACE NOV. 11.
NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—A prayer for peace by Baptists on every part of the world on Armistice Day, is being planned by the promotion board of the Northern Baptist convention, it was announced here today.

SOVIET GOVERNMENT IS "PASSING THE BUCK"

MOSCOW, Sept. 22.—(By the Associated Press)—Everywhere throughout Russia the soviet government is unloading responsibilities it is unable to meet. Factory workers are being urged to obtain their own materials, run their own affairs and obtain their own food.

"Decentralize, do it yourselves and do not depend upon the central government for everything," is the burden of instructions broadcasted by the government since domestic free trade was instituted and the new economic policy of the Bolsheviks was declared. Provincial officials, labor unions, cooperative societies and famine relief committees are all told the same thing.

It seems, however, that Russians, with the exception of the extreme communists, are pleased with the government's change of policy.

Communists stoutly insist that the war and the blockade were wholly responsible for the breakdown of the communists' plans, and are explaining that the new system adopted is really modified communism and not capitalism. It is impossible, however, to find peasants holding land who will admit the government owns the soil.

The military control that is being exercised and communist party discipline are so strong that the soviet government apparently has not been weakened by its change of policy.

The unemployment problem with winter at hand and little fuel available threatens to become acute.

CORPORATION TAXES IN MASSACHUSETTS

BOSTON, Sept. 22.—Corporation taxes assessed in Massachusetts this year, total $16,325,551, all but one-sixth of which will be distributed to cities and towns in which corporations do business or are located.

In announcing that tax bills for this amount were being mailed today, Henry P. Long, commissioner of taxation, cautioned those who have the appropriating power in local communities to plan for 1922 with great thriftiness. It is their wish to avoid a high tax rate next year. He predicted that revenue from corporation taxes for the uses of cities and towns will next certainly be materially reduced next year. He added that he hoped eventually to "see the taxpayer smile."

TO REPRIMAND
DEER ISLAND HEAD

BOSTON, Sept. 23.—Institutions Commissioner Thomas C. O'Brien announced yesterday his decision to reprimand Master George M. Harlow of the Deer Island house of correction and to discontinue the Mutual Welfare league there as the result of his investigation following the escape of two prisoners from the island Sunday. Although Master Harlow was on vacation at the time of the escape, he had left orders that the trustees, who later got away, should be given their usual liberties. O'Brien visited the island early last week and remarked that two men with such records as theirs should not be given such liberties. When O'Brien pointed this out to Harlow's deputy he was told that Harlow had left specific orders that their liberties be not interfered with.

U. S. RACE COMMITTEE
ACCEPT RULINGS

GLOUCESTER, Sept. 23.—The American race committee, which has in charge the selection of a defender for the international fishing vessel championship trophy, won last year by the Mayflower, today voted formally to accept all rulings made to date by the Canadian trustees of the cup. The principal of these rulings was that by which the Boston schooner Mayflower, originally selected as the American defender, was barred from the race.

A letter from the trustees of the trophy was received by the American committee today, giving officially for the first time, the specific reasons for the elimination of the Mayflower. It was the opinion of the trustees that if a vessel of the extreme type of the Mayflower was allowed to compete the intentions of the donors of the cup would be nullified and all competition killed for present and future races.

The letter said: "We think everybody will agree that in event of the Mayflower racing and winning the cup this year, no practical fishermen would build a vessel to compete with her next year because to do so the type would have to be even more extreme in design."

In addition to this the Mayflower did not conform with the letter of the deed of gift in regard to the date of sailing for the fishing grounds, although we did not consider this point so important as the former."

The race committee today appointed a committee of five to take charge of the elimination race Oct. 12 to select a new defender.

N. E. R. R. AGENTS CALL
ON SEN. WALSH

(Special to The Sun)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The New England R. R. Agents Association today held a meeting in Washington paid their respects this noon to various members of the New England congressional delegation. Senator Walsh of Massachusetts gave them considerable time and extended them special courtesies.

In a brief speech of welcome he referred to the railroad situation in New England, urged that the roads, the employees, the public and the government get together on a plan of co-operation that will restore to transportation condition to a normal basis.

To Probe Explosion

practice "appears to have been grossly imprudent" as ammonia compounds are most unstable, and the properties of the new preparation are thus far poorly defined.

Degradation of the ultra-sulphate of ammonia is declared to have caused the explosion of other ammonia products, and then several gasometers, one of which was of 50,000 cubic meters capacity, let go. This large gasometer contained light gas, which was used as the motive power of the factory. The plant also contained a quantity of liquid air in tubes, which added to the power of the explosion, and would tend to explain the extent and exceptional character of the disaster.

CRIES STILL RISE
FROM VAST CRATER

MANNHEIM, Ger., Sept. 23.—(By the Associated Press)—Desolation and ruins alone remain of what was once the flourishing town of Oppau. The town had 5500 residents, of which a majority of the men engaged in the chemical works were killed or wounded. Soldiers in French uniforms are clearing away the wreckage, picking up the dead and injured as after a big battle.

Eleven hundred killed and 1000 injured is the latest estimate of the disaster, which caused a greater number of casualties in the Mannheim-Ludwigshafen district than the four years of the war. The desolation around Oppau equals anything seen at Verdun or in Flanders over a similar area. Hundreds of persons are digging in the ruins for the bodies of relatives or friends, nearly 1000 of whom have been recovered thus far.

Thirty-six hours after the explosion, from the gaping, funnel-like hole where the Badische works formerly stood, there are still to be heard moaning and cries of the wounded, while the soldiers search for possible survivors.

Twenty-five hundred of the injured are reported to have passed through the hospitals of the surrounding cities.

The vast crater is slowly filling with water and it may never be known how many victims found a grave there. All mutilated bodies will have to be recovered by hand, and the twisted girders and blocks of concrete are being put out of their misery. The firemen and relief workers have not yet been able to discard their gas masks.

TRIPLE MURDER
ON FREIGHT TRAIN

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 23.—The bodies of three men, who had been murdered, were found within a few miles of each other in Southern Illinois, by crews of Missouri Pacific trains. Two of the men wore army uniforms.

Police here believe robbery was the motive and assert the triple murder occurred on the same freight train. The bodies, now yet unidentified, are in a morgue at East St. Louis, Ill.

Two express receipts, one issued at Decatur, Ark., September 15, and the other at Clark, Ill., which bore the destination of Washington, O., were found in the clothing of one man.

The receipts were made in E. W. Kirkland. The two men in uniform are believed to have been discharged soldiers from Camp Pike, Ark.

PRES. HARDING AND
WILLIS END ROW

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—What was described as a complete agreement to clear up the republican patronage row in Ohio was reported yesterday at an hour's conference between President Harding and Senator Willis, republican of Ohio.

Under the agreement it is understood that Senator Willis will withdraw his opposition to the nomination of Charles H. Nauts as collector of internal revenue for the Toledo district and that a slate of other appointments will be closed in the very near future.

Nauts, whose confirmation has been held up for several weeks by the Ohio senator, is understood to have been selected by the president on recommendation of Walter F. Brown, chairman of the government reorganization committee and an opponent of Mr. Willis for the senatorial nomination.

ARGUMENTS IN BIG CHICAGO LIBEL SUIT

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Arguments for and against a general demurrer filed by the Chicago Tribune against the city of Chicago's suit for $100,000 libel damages were heard before Judge Harry M. Fisher in circuit court today. Weymouth Kirkland, of counsel for the newspaper, announced that he would finish this morning his plea to have the demurrer sustained. The answer of the city was in the hands of Chester Cleveland, special counsel.

Mr. Kirkland addressed himself today to technical considerations of the right of a municipality to sue for libel. He took the ground that since the city possesses no trade, business or other inherent earning power, it could not suffer damage in the manner set forth in the declaration.

He also took up the contention that publications in the Tribune of allegations that the city was in financial straits had affected adversely the market for its bonds. He maintained that the representatives of the law, including the city, were such that their value could not be so changed. He also directed the court's attention to what he said was an admission in the declaration of the suit that when the Tribune asserted the city was "broken," it published a truth.

USES PLATTER OF HOT PORK AS WEAPON

BOSTON, Sept. 23.—The use of a platter of hot pork as a weapon and a sudden dive through a window, followed the bold attempt of two men to force James Tompkins, who conducts a luncheon at 52 Atlantic avenue, to hand over his money at the point of a revolver late yesterday afternoon. The men were arrested after a chase on a charge of attempt to rob while armed.

They gave their names as John Haverton, 35 years old, and William Thompson, 25, both seamen. A black-

Jack made from a cold chisel around which tape had been wrapped, was found in the possession of Thompson, and a .32-caliber loaded revolver was found in the pocket of Haverton's coat.

A representative of the state board of education was in Lowell this afternoon to confer with Supt. Hugh J. Molloy and Principal Thomas F. Fisher of the Vocational school relative to some scheme whereby the overflow at the Vocational school may be taken care of. The conference was held at the school in Broadway. Supt. INJURED BOY WAS NOT ROLLING HOOP

In Tuesday's editions of The Sun, it was stated that Clarence Hoyt, of 10 Belmont street, who was injured by an automobile Monday afternoon, met his injuries while rolling a hoop. Mrs. Clarence W. Hoyt, the boy's mother, takes exception to the statement, saying that her son, who is 13 years old, was not rolling a hoop, as he has progressed considerably beyond that age. According to her story, he was carrying one of the wheels of his bicycle to have it repaired and without warning, a truck backed on him.

LOCAL OPINION WAS ON RIGHT TRACK

The question of the comparative safety and cost of operation of one-man and two-men cars was properly included in the scope of the resolve directing the public utilities department to investigate transportation facilities in Massachusetts on which a hearing was held at the state house yesterday, it was stated at the hearing by the secretary of the utilities commission, according to City Solicitor William D. Regan.

Mr. Regan attended the hearing and was one of the speakers. The Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., through its publicity agent, has maintained that the resolve in question has nothing to do with one-man vs. two-men electric cars. On the other hand, local municipal authorities held the opinion that it did. Corroboration of their view was received, Mr. Regan says, when the secretary of the utilities commission said that the question might properly be included in any discussion of the resolve.

Shoots Girl Then Ends Life

Continued

Mrs. Lawes had stepped out of the shadows and Miss Hanan emerged from the apartment where they had been visiting a friend, and fired the shots. He attributed the shooting, police said, to jealousy, admitting that he had quarreled with Mrs. Lawes recently over Miss Hanan.

Miss Hanan's condition was reported to be critical, but not necessarily fatal. One of the bullets took effect in the left breast near the heart, one in the left side and one in the right arm.

Borland was unable to explain to the police how Mrs. Lawes learned that he and Miss Hanan were visiting in Brooklyn. He said he had gone to Brooklyn yesterday afternoon with Miss Hanan to begin her new apartment. The apartment hunting trip, he said, ended with a visit to Miss Dorothy Gottschalk, a friend of her family.

They left the apartment about 1:25 a. m., he said, and encountered Mrs. Lawes as they stepped to the street. She then stood for a moment regarding them. Borland said. Then she uttered a scream, pressed the muzzle of the pistol against her head and fired.

Mrs. Lawes who is a daughter of Mrs. M. E. Dittmars of San Francisco, was a distant relative of Miss Hanan. For four years she had lived with Miss Hanan and the latter's mother in an apartment in the exclusive Park avenue district of Manhattan. Two weeks ago she moved to the Hotel Vanderbilt, nearby. The police said that she had sent several threatening letters recently to Miss Hanan.

Two letters were found in Mrs. Lawes' pocketbook. One, addressed to her mother, asked forgiveness for what she had done. The other, addressed to Mrs. Birdie Williams of Manhattan, formerly a nurse in the Hanan household, requested that Mrs. Williams take Mrs. Lawes' body to San Francisco and have it cremated.

to her mother, asked forgiveness for what she had done. The other, addressed to Mrs. Birdie Williams of Manhattan, formerly a nurse in the Hanan household, requested that Mrs. Williams take Mrs. Lawes' body to San Francisco and have it cremated.

Asks Mother's Forgiveness

The letter to Mrs. Lawes' mother read:

"Mother Darling:
"You never could understand what I have been through here. Don't try to learn. It is past. I am too tired and ill to try to overcome the great obstacles in my own way."
"Too much high life. The pace is too fast and the liquor has driven me crazy. Forgive and forget, and remember, pray for my soul. Love to all, and think of me as I always say to you, a good, sweet daughter."
"Lovingly," "GRACE"

Miss Hanan is 24 years old, while Mrs. Lawes was 32. The younger woman, according to the police, had been married to Jerome Wagner of this city but a divorce had been granted about three years ago.

Borland, a graduate of Dartmouth college, was questioned for several hours by Asst. Dist. Atty. Wilson and detectives. Although admitting that he liked Miss Hanan very much, he denied that they were engaged. He said he had not seen Mrs. Lawes for two months.

The police said that the two women had been almost inseparable for four years. They expressed belief, however, that Mrs. Lawes had become so infatuated by Miss Hanan's acceptance of social invitations from Borland that her mind had become affected. Miss Gottschalk told the police that Mrs. Lawes had been in love with Borland and had been extremely jealous.

The police announced an examination of Mrs. Lawes' stomach would be made to determine if she had been a drug addict.

Blood Transfusion

In an effort to save Miss Hanan's life, a blood transfusion was made. Dr. Harvey Fish, a resident physician was the donor. Mrs. Borland, at the hospital, were Borland and the girl's mother and brother.

HEAR EVIDENCE IN MURDER CASE

Second Day of Preliminary Hearing—Doctors and Nurse Testify

Tell of Bruises Seen on Body of Victim—Women Flock to Court—Carry Lunches.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—The spotlight of testimony again today turned toward the tragedy of Virginia Rappe, film actress, to determine whether or not she was the victim of a maniacal attack in connection with the girl's death. It is charged Miss Rappe while she was guest at a drinking party at the Hotel St. Francis, here, Sept. 5 last.

Arbuckle this afternoon was to be brought from jail where he is held without bail to a police court for continuance of his preliminary hearing which will decide whether he shall be held to answer to the superior court on the murder charge.

The first session of Arbuckle's preliminary hearing, held late yesterday, was adjourned without his attorneys having asked a question in cross-examination or giving any indication of what their plans for his defense might be.

Attaches of the district attorney's office said they had expected the defense to occupy considerable time in cross-examination and had no other witnesses ready to put on the stand before today.

The testimony of the three prosecution witnesses already before the court, a nurse and two doctors, was that they observed bruises on Miss Rappe's arms and body.

The two doctors said death was due to a ruptured bladder and that the organ was probably injured by external force.

Dr. Shelby Strange, who performed the autopsy on the body of Miss Rappe, said he found bruises on her right arm and that on the left arm was a scar which might have been caused by a hypodermic needle.

Great crowds attended yesterday's court session and police guarded the aisles adjacent to the courtroom. Spectators were in the main women, the hearing being held in Judge Selva's courtroom. Women's court and authorities having ruled that women should have the preference over men in obtaining admittance.

Many of the women spectators wore hand yesterday five hours before the hearing opened, and several brought basket lunches.

Today's session of court was announced to begin at 2 p. m.

Scores Boys and Parents

the parents of the two boys charged with the theft stating that if they were not in the house every night by 9 o'clock he would have them reappear in court and would send them to the Lyman or Shirley schools.

The judge's reprimand to the parents who were in court and to others who have boys following the wayward path came after evidence had been presented to the court to the effect that the two youths, who were charged with stealing 400 pounds of squash from a Pawtucketville farm, were in the habit of staying out late every night. The police testified that they were arrested carrying away the squash along the boulevard at 1:30 Monday night.

What aroused the wrath of the judge was also the testimony of a police officer, who testified that when arrested the two boys stated, "We don't care if you tell our parents. They know we went out to steal squash."

Later the parents denied this and stated they did not know where the boys were that evening saying that they usually were out late nights. The testimony also showed that they gave wrong names and addresses when brought to the station.

The squash, four barrels and a half, was returned to the owner the next day.

Asked by the court what they intended doing with the squash, one replied: "We were going to make Jack lanterns."

"You weren't going to make Jack lanterns with all of them, were you?" asked the judge. But it was a question without answer.

The owner, a well known farmer, said that one of the boys had worked on his farm a short time last summer.

Before ordering them to pay $3 each for restitution, pay for costs and placing them on a year's probation, the judge confined them to their homes after nine o'clock every evening. Judge Enright stated in part: "I have to give these boys a record because it will stand against them all their lives. There is a case with very bad features. Besides going out to steal, they give the police wrong names and addresses and stay out until 11 or 12 o'clock at night lolling around corners as though nothing mattered. Then it seems that the parents don't care a great deal either. That's the trouble with the boys of today. They grow up thinking they can lead a riotous life and that neither police nor court can stop them. But I'm going to put a stop to their illusions. Then turning to the parents he said: "Now if you don't see that they're in the house every night at nine o'clock I'll take them away from you." A direct reprimand and warning to the boys followed.

BUSINESS ANNIVERSARY

Joseph Mullin Had Been 30
Years in the Coal Business
Here

Joseph Mullin, one of Lowell's most successful and best known coal, hay and grain dealers, is today observing the 30th anniversary of his entry into the business life of Lowell and since early morning has been receiving the congratulations and well wishes of hosts of friends and business acquaintances.

It was on Sept. 23, 1891, that Mr. Mullin, then a young man who had just come to Lowell from his home in Pittsford, Vt., started in the coal and grain business in Gorham street, buying the business of Theodore Getty and becoming associated with Henry L. Winslow. From then on the firm name was Mullin & Winslow until June 1, 1921, when Mr. Mullin became the sole owner of the business.

For the past 33 years Mr. Mullin has done business at his present location, 553 Gorham street, and his establishment has become one of the landmarks of the upper Gorham street section. Originally his plant was located in what was known as the old Mollahan place, beyond the railroad bridge in Gorham street.

Mr. Mullin has had a most prosperous and successful career as a dealer. He has studied the coal business from the ground up and there are few men in this section of the country more familiar with its various details than he. Although he was a perfect stranger here when he started in business, his winning personality and reputation for square and upright procedure in all his dealings soon won him a wide circle of acquaintances both in the business world and in social circles.

Mr. Mullin's plant in Gorham street is one of the best equipped of its kind in New England. The present buildings were erected under his personal direction. Associated with him in the successful conduct of the firm is his son, Leon H. Mullin, who has the same enterprising characteristics as a business man that brought success to his father. Mr. Mullin, Sr., resides at 23 Burr street.

To Determine Whether Secret War Store Had Been Clandestinely Produced

Investigation Of Disastrous Explosion At Oppau, Germany, Continues

PARIS, Sept. 23.—French government chemists have begun an investigation at Oppau, Germany, where several hundred persons were killed by an explosion on Wednesday morning. To determine whether secret war stores and munitions had been clandestinely manufactured there, says a dispatch to the Journal. Their inquiry has shown the explosion was due to the spontaneous decomposition of a new product—aluminum sulphate of ammonia—from which weapons were expected as a fertilizing agent.

The manufacture of this salt has been going on in the plant of the Badische Anilin Co., at Oppau for the last five months, and considerable stocks of it had accumulated. It is declared by the dispatch that this

Capt. de Romanel's Machine Wrecked While Flying 180 Miles An Hour

ETAMPES, France, Sept. 23. (By the Associated Press).—Captain Bernard de Romanel, the noted French aviator, holder of the world's speed record for today while taking part in the elimination races for the Deutsch de la Meurthe cup.

The canvas on Romanel's machine tore while he was flying more than 180 miles an hour at a height of 650 feet and the plane fell, killing the aviator. The machine was a biplane from which the lower plane had been removed for the sake of speed.

Captain de Romanel's world record for speed was established on Nov. 4 last when at the Buo airdrome near Paris he flew over a measured kilometre at the rate of 399 kilometres 12 metres per hour (about 133 miles), covering the distance in 11 65-100 seconds.

Favorable Report On Peace Treaties
Ordered By Senate Committee

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Favorable report on the peace treaties between the United States and Germany, Austria and Hungary was ordered today by the senate foreign relations committee. Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, leader of the fight against the treaty of Versailles, was the only member to vote against reporting the treaties. Before reporting the three pacts, the committee adopted a reservation requiring that congress pass an act for appointment of an American representative on allied commissions by the president with the advice and consent of the senate.

Another reservation adopted by the committee, presented by Senator Pomerehne, democrat, Ohio, provided that protection given the United States government in its property interests should apply also to American nationals.

The vote on reporting the treaties favorably was nine to one, the supporters of the treaties including all republicans and three democrats. One of the members present except Senator Borah, who cast the sole negative vote. The republicans voting for the treaties in word Senators Lodge, Massachusetts, chairman; McCumber, North Dakota; Brandegee, Connecticut; Johnson, California; New, Indiana; and Klags, Minnesota. The three democrats were Senators Swanson of Virginia; Pomerene of Ohio, and Shields of Tennessee.

Senator Johnson of California, who was allied with Senator Borah in the fight against the Versailles treaty, was said to have disagreed with Senator Borah's contention that the treaties were likely to involve this nation in European affairs. Senator Shields also was one of the "irreconcilables" of the Versailles treaty controversy who today supported the new treaties.

Senator Hittcock of Nebraska, ranking democrat on the committee, was not present today but has heretofore expressed himself as favoring the treaties.

The reservation requiring an act of congress and senate confirmation for participation of American representatives on allied commissions was similar to No. 7 of the original Lodge reservations to the Versailles pact. The new reservation was drafted by Senator Lodge with incorporation of suggestions by Senators Johnson and Brandegee. The resolution of ratification of the German treaty with the reservations as finally evolved provides: "Resolved (two-thirds of the senators present concurring therein) that the senate advise and consent to the ratification of the treaty between the United States and Germany, signed at Berlin August 25, 1921, to restore the friendly relations existing between the two nations prior to the outbreak of war, subject to the understanding which is hereby made a part of this resolution of ratification, that the United States shall not be represented or participate in any body, agency, or commission nor shall any person represent the United States as a member of any body, agency or commission in which the United States is authorized to participate by this treaty unless and until an act of congress of the United States shall provide for such representation or participation."

Senator Johnson indicated that he would carry his fight against ratification to the senate floor, where debate is expected to begin within a few days. The committee voted to have the treaties considered in open session.

Bank Messengers Block Robbery

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The pluck of two messengers of the Drovers bank today blocked an attempted holdup when three armed men attacked them as they were delivering $10,000 to a business house in the vicinity of Third street and Broadway. One of the would-be robbers was captured.

The attempted robbery took place in an elevator in a building on University place. The car had reached the sixth floor and the messengers, Harry M. Sommers and Jack Stein, both about 19 years old, were just stepping out when another passenger drew a pistol and ordered "Hands up." At the same moment two other men were on the sixth floor, also drew weapons.

Instead of complying with the order to surrender, one of the messengers struck his assailant with his fist and the other, holding fast to the wallet containing the money, began blowing a police whistle. The three men fled. At the exit from the building, one of the fugitives was overpowered and captured by a policeman. He was charged with attempted robbery.

hours before the time set for opening the gates.

INDIANS AND YANKEES OPEN CRUCIAL SERIES
NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Tris Speaker's Cleveland Indians, 1920 world's champions, were here today for their final four game series with the New York Yankees in which it is believed the 1921 pennant race will be decided.

The reserved seat sections at the Polo grounds all have been sold for the series and experts estimate that close to 50,000 fans will see the games. Ticket seekers stormed the Yankees office Tuesday and Wednesday and many were turned away to the streets. Police squads have been detailed to the ball park to handle the crowds expected to start early for the unreserved seats.

The teams start the series on virtually even terms. The Yankees have an advantage of less than two points, the Indians having won one more and lost one more game than their rivals. Three victories in the four games would give either team a tight hold on first place with a two-game lead. While a clean sweep would give the victors a four game lead and make it almost impossible to oust them.

New York has a percentage of .4314 and Cleveland .5013. A clean sweep would give Cleveland .840 and decrease New York's mark to .615, while if New York took all four games they would have .615 and Cleveland .4314.

Three victories for the Indians in the four games would make the standing: Cleveland .633, New York .621. If the Yankees are able to take three out of four they will have a percentage of .635 and Cleveland .520. An even break would leave New York with .585 and Cleveland with .521.

Hundreds of people had assembled outside the Polo grounds today, and

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Miss Mildred Hanan, said by the police to be a daughter of the late Alfred P. Hanan, wealthy head of Hanan & Son, shoe manufacturers, was shot three times early today as she was emerging from an apartment house in Brooklyn with John S. Borland, an importer. Mrs. Grace Lawes, who fired the shots, then ended her own life by bringing a bullet into her brain.

Miss Hanan, in a hospital, refused to discuss the shooting.

HIS SKULL FRACTURED

John Connolly On Dangerous List at Hospital as Result of Auto Accident

John Connolly, aged 18, of 108 Ayrton street, is at St. John's hospital with a fractured skull and may die as the result of a collision with an auto truck at 7 o'clock this morning on Meadowcroft street. His name is registered to and was driven by John J. McCullough of Gorham street.

According to the story told by the police, Connolly was riding a bicycle down St. James street. He turned into Meadowcroft street and was going at a fairly good rate of speed. McCullough was driving his truck down Meadowcroft street and the two vehicles collided.

Connolly was thrown to the ground and received multiple injuries. Mr. McCullough gave the boy what aid he was able to and the ambulance was called. Connolly was rushed to the hospital in an unconscious condition and an immediate operation was ordered in an attempt to save his life.

At press time Connolly had not recovered from the effects of the ether, but his name is on the dangerous list and while physicians are hopeful for his recovery it is doubtful if he can survive his injuries.

BIG CROWD, AT KASINO NEVERY'S FASHION SHOP

Mardi Gras in Aid of St. Anthony's Church Is Great Success

All roads led to the Kasino again last night, where is being held the four day Mardi Gras in aid of St. Anthony's church. One of the largest crowds that ever entered this amusement place was on hand and the money beautifully decorated booths, tables and games artistically arranged about the hall, proved strong attractions. Dancing was again the favorite pastime, however, and hundreds of the younger element made it an evening's complete enjoyment at this amusement. Several exhibition dances by Danny Severn and Miss Pierce of Worcester, well known professional dancers, were well received.

An array of dances, many of them local, will appear tonight and will surely prove a decided hit. The Mardi Gras, originally to have closed tonight has been extended through Saturday evening when it will conclude with a monster favor and confetti march.

The hall presented a very pretty appearance, the ceiling, sides and platform being tastefully adorned with flags, bunting and streamers of various colors. Music by Campbell's orchestra completed the dancing program.

gram. Around the hall there were refreshment tables, doll booths, and many tables and booths where various games were being played. Many dolls were given away during the evening.

It was a gratifying sight to Bishop Da Silva, the other members of the clergy and the committee in charge to see such a large gathering patronize the event. It made them feel that their hard work was appreciated by the assembly of cheerful men, women and children who had a very enjoyable evening.

A large committee of parish members have been aiding the bishop and success has crowned their efforts. Timothy Linnehan is chairman of the men's committee, while Miss Margaret Bettencourt is at the head of the women's committee.

The other members are: Jennie Bettencourt, Mary Carball, Helen Shea, Vera Curran, Madeline Carroll, Anna Carroll, Rose Salome, Rose Ramon, George Pinto, Henry Lawrence, Chester Gordon, George Cliff, John C. ALTERATIONS TO BUILDING
The building in Merrimack street occupied by the Gazon Co. is undergoing extensive alterations. The third floor is to be used by the company for offices and alterations rooms and many changes in steel structural work of the building are being made.

The Little "Home of Fashion"—Exclusive Stocks—Opening Today

The Little "Home of Fashion" that is different, with an exclusive stock of ladies' and misses' coats, suits, dresses and furs, was opened today in the Center block. It is known as

FRED NEVERY

Nevery's Fashion Shop. Rarely is there seen such a pretty setting for women's garments as is found here. The color combination is very pleasing, the walls being done in a pretty shade of gray, while the draperies and hangings are rose colored, giving the entire shop that homelike atmosphere. In addition to this is a massive fireplace done in old mahogany. Everything in the shop is neatly and conveniently arranged. Furs, for coats, dresses, suits and suits are: velvet, Panvelene, Marlonette and Polyanna coats; Canton crepes and Russian crepe dresses; Suedene, Develayne suits are among the many pleasing things found. A feature of the entire establishment, and one which should make a decided hit with women is the real, honest-to-goodness daylight found at all times in the shop, which lends materially in the selection of garments. Courteous salesladies will assist customers in making their selections.

Fred Nevery is well known in Lowell and his many friends and former customers will be pleased to hear of his new venture. A man who knows his business through and through and one who has made countless friends and customers elsewhere, he is bound to meet with great success in his new enterprise.

NO OVERCROWDING AT EVENING HIGH SCHOOL

There will be no danger of overcrowding at the evening high school this year, according to Principal Henry H. Harris. The school department has authorized Mr. Harris to use not only the old high school building and only the Paige street annex for evening classes but, if necessary, to throw open the so-called "coop" in Paige street and the Kettering street primary school. There are plenty of teachers also available. It is expected that there will be an exceptionally heavy registration this year.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
There will be a meeting of the directors of the Lowell chamber of commerce Monday at 12 o'clock. This will be the first meeting held for some time as gatherings have been more or less suspended during the hot months. It is expected plans will be mapped out for the extensive program the chamber has laid out for the coming season. Reports will be read on the convention of the New England association at which Mr. Wells and Mr. Gallagher represented the local branch.

SOCCER GAME
Saturday afternoon on the Hunting grounds the Cotton Mill Soccer team will play the Atholton Mills Juniors of Lawrence in the first game of the Merrimack Valley Soccer league. Kick-off at 3:30 p.m. The following players are requested to report at the grounds at 2:30 p.m.: J. Souza, Whitley, Turnbull, W. Taylor, J. Conne, J. Young, J. Dwyer, J. Kerehaw, R. Murray and W. Force Threatened By Allies

PARIS, Sept. 23. (By the Associated Press).—Hungary must in the near future completely withdraw from Burgenland, or west Hungary, awarded to Austria by the treaty of Trianon or be forcibly expelled by the allies, she was notified today by the council of ambassadors here. The council handed Ivan Praznovsky, president of the Hungarian peace delegation, a note in which Hungary was invited to evacuate Burgenland entirely within a brief period. If Hungary refuses, the allies, he was informed, would be obliged to use force.

PRETTY WINDOW DISPLAY AT THE BON MARCHE

The Bon Marche store in Merrimack street presents to the public a very commendable and novel window display as part of its fall opening program. The four windows facing on Merrimack street contain an idea, original in itself, worked up to a degree of perfection only possible by skilled and ingenious window displayers.

The interpretation portrays the different periods of a young girl's life dealing for the most part with merriments and silent meditations with and about her lover. The characters are in silhouette and are well emphasized by a gloss black, white and silver background. The decorative scheme consists of backgrounds all alike with overhead cornices under which is a half-circle of the work under silver curtain sets off the work admirably. Two panels are on each side of the arch while flower boxes flank the panels. The design is a French flower called the French Fly with exaggerated leaves, extending arms and silver streamers. The color combination is black and white throughout with just a smattering of the morivivid colors. Black and white flower blocks in checkerboard effect serve as an ideal foundation for the display. The first window, entitled "A Letter to John," shows a young girl writing to her sweetheart while Cupid looks on over her shoulder. Expensive coats, suits and dresses are artistically distributed in the foreground. Window No. 2 is called "The Visit," when John calls on his sweetheart. The couple is shown having tea together in the garden while a dog looks on. Waists and other wearing apparel are in this window. In the third window is enacted "The Love Letter," and pictures the girl in a garden reading a letter from John. Imported hats of all colors are here displayed. The last window is called "The Flower." The girl is in the garden dreaming of the happy days to come when she and John are married. Black and white imported hats are shown. The display is the work of A. S. Lemieux and his two assistants, James Pury and James Cropper. The men have been working on the plan for over three months. Mr. Lemieux considers the creation his best effort in the six years he has been employed by the Bon Marche people.

Working in blacks and whites is an extremely difficult task inasmuch as a supreme effort must be made to deviate from the sad and mournful. A glance at the display will convince the most pessimistic. Mr. Lemieux has been successful in his attempt to make things lively and inspiring.

To Bring Up Tax Revision

concentrate all their efforts in an endeavor to change features which they deemed "most unfair and unjust." Senators Walsh and Gerry already have proposed amendments which would provide for reductions in the normal tax rates on individual incomes of 15, 10 or less and for a graduated tax of from 15 to 20 per cent on incomes of corporations in lieu of the proposed flat 15 per cent rate. The senators declare in their statement that under the republican program every corporation which making excess profits or not, would have to pay a 50 per cent increased tax on its net income.

"Those corporation which are certain of being able to make excess profits as soon as business revives," says the statement, "are to be immediately and directly benefitted, while those corporations that are certain of being obliged to struggle for a long period of time before any reasonable profits are to be realized, are to have their tax burdens increased."

"We cannot accept the theory of the republican majority that justifies this rank discrimination against the struggling, small profit-making corporations. No such inequitable tax law was enacted even during the war when the government was exporting every possible means to raise revenue as is now proposed by the republican majority in desperation to meet the loss of revenue to the government by abolishing the excess profits tax a loss of $450,000,000 or one-seventh of the entire tax to be raised under the proposed revenue bill."

Discussing the proposal to reduce the normal income tax on individuals having $15,000 or less a year, the statement says this class of taxpayers constitutes "the great industrial, the home-building class, the laborer, the farmer and the small business man" and that "the republican program has particularly eliminated from consideration this element of our population except for small additional exemptions in the lower tax brackets and for the heads of families with less than $500 income."

BUSINESS HAS HIT ITS STRIDE, THINKS U. S. CURRENCY HEAD

Washington, Sept. 17.—Heller that business has again hit its stride and that spring will find the nation back on a sure economic footing was expressed here today by David H. Crissinger, controller of the currency.
Crissinger's opinions were based on an exhaustive survey of banks and banking conditions throughout the country. He said that the Bank deposits are increasing and loans decreasing, he said.
The recent rise in cotton prices has changed the southern feeling from depression to enthusiasm.
In New England mills are beginning to work full time.
Crops are good and money is getting easier.
Crissinger said steel and iron prices are still too high and that conditions would rapidly improve if they were reduced.

The new sport fad of English society is "pogo-ing." Pogo races, on one-legged stilts, feature week-end parties.

10,000 IMMIGRANTS ENTER PALESTINE

LONDON, Sept. 23.—There are now barely 100,000 people in all Palestine, a population much less than that of Galicia alone in the time of Christ, says Sir Herbert Samuel, the British high commissioner there, in a report just made public.
Ten thousand immigrants arrived in Palestine in the seven months between September, 1920, and May, 1921, he reports.
Sir Samuel attributes the scarcity of the population to lack of development.
The financial condition of eastern and central Europe, and internal difficulties within the Zionist organization of the United States, says the report, have prevented the Zionist movement from providing, as yet, any large sums for enterprises of development or colonization. As a consequence, while there had been much pressure to admit Jewish immigrants, there had been little expansion in the opportunities for employment, he declared.
The water supply for Jerusalem, having been found to be insufficient, the government is bringing into use some ancient reservoirs of vast capacity, named the pools of Solomon, but of unknown date, possibly Herodian, situated eight miles away.
The garrison of the country has been reduced to 5000 combatant troops, imposing a charge of 2,500,000 pounds on the British exchequer or at the rate of 500 pounds for every fighting man.

OF OLD TIME FABRICS

DUNN WORSTEDS

Of Woonsocket, R. I.

These goods bought last week direct from the Commission Houses of Rubin and Cooper, 65 Chauncy St., Boston, lower in price than anything I have seen in four years, lower in price than any buyer of woollens can purchase them a month from today.

No other tailor or clothier in New England today can talk about an all wool and worsted suiting under $30, and I contend these fabrics compare very favorably for quality of merchandise with their suits around $35.

For a limited time, the merchandise offered in this Fall Opening is very exceptional. A small deposit is all that is necessary now—the balance when you need the garment. Many of these styles are now displayed in my windows; be sure to see them, for this is an opportunity to effect a very considerable saving.

Adventures of the Twins

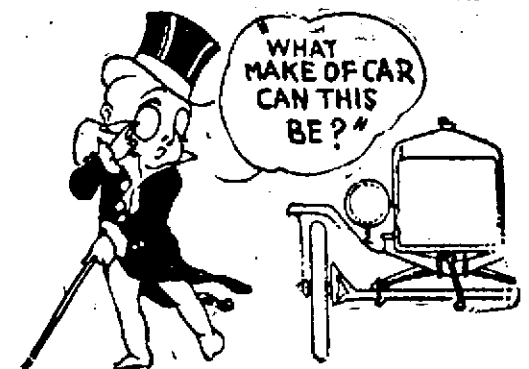

EVERY MORNING HE TOOK OUT THE NET AND EVERY NIGHT TOOK IT IN

Away off in the bay Mr. Fisherman there and would swim right into its stretched his net. There it floated be- longtangling folds. At night he took it in, with its slipping burden, the corners to big pound poles driven return to shore, and sort his catch down into the sand at the bottom of according to weight, size and kind, and sell it to market people.

Every morning he took out the net. After a time the Wiggles got to know this, at least all the daddies and mothers knew, and all the little Wiggles. The morning he would hook it into place under the water so cunningly, the people in the land of the over to keep away from the bay and Wiggles never suspected it was the pound-poles, as repeatedly as Cutie Cottonball had been warned by his parents to beware of Freddy Fox in Heller Skelter land. But there are always careless people, and adventurous people, and people who won't take advice. In the water as well as on dry land, and there never was a night that Mr. Fisherman didn't take home a full net.

There was one person whom Mr. Fisherman was most anxious to catch, and that was Tub Terrapin. Tub made grand eating and would have brought a grand price as many of his relatives had done. But Tub knew all this and never went near a net. And Mr. Fisherman knew that Tub knew, and was trying to think up another way of landing him.
So when Tub Terrapin came along and lay down right at one of the bustling corners in Wiggles Land, and right on top of Spike Starfish, Crawly Crab, and some others, Cap'n Penny winkled thought of the net at once, and that was why he sent the twins for it.

Four Thousand Hello Girls Own Estate With Broad Acres in Country

FOUNDERS TELEPHONE GIRLS' HOME

BY ALICE ROHE
SCITUATE, Mass., Sept. 23.—Miss Mary E. June, president of the Boston Telephone girls' union, received me in the very kindly by people, but we came old Colonial mansion, "Driftway," to feel we were patronized too much, which with its broad acres belongs to Miss June and the 4000 other telephone operators of Boston.

As she surveyed the scene, with telephone girls walking over the rich green lawn, she explained how it felt really and truly to own such a splendid property.

"I guess it's the first time a telephone union of girls ever purchased property and owned it as a union," she said. "We girls have been treated very kindly by people, but we came old Colonial mansion, 'Driftway,' to feel we were patronized too much, which with its broad acres belongs to Miss June and the 4000 other telephone operators of Boston."

The home, which stands a monument to a big feminist step, is one of the beautiful landmarks of Scituate, 34 miles from Boston. It is more than 200 years old and can house 22 girls.

"You see," explained Miss June, "it as a result of pale, thin watery blood. Nuxated Iron will help make you strong and well again. It has been used and highly endorsed by former United States Senators, Judges of U. S. Courts, many physicians and prominent men. Even the Pope at Rome has written especially of the merits of Nuxated Iron in a communication to the Pharmacopoeia Normale. Over 4,000,000 people are using it annually to help build red blood, strength and endurance. At all druggists.—Adv.

Isn't only for girls to come here and spend their vacation. It is for girls who are convalescing. While children are not permitted here in the summer, mothers may come here for their vacation in the winter. And as for brides—there isn't a telephone girl who has been married in the past year who hasn't come to Driftway. "We bought the house a year ago and gave a housewarming on Labor Day."

In the fertile brain of Miss Julia O'Connor, then president of Boston union, and now president of the international union, the house-buying was fostered and the site selected.

Dances and bazaars were given till enough money was raised.

Miss O'Connor, now abroad studying labor conditions, led the recent Boston telephone girls strike to victory.

"The secret of our success," said Miss June, "aside from being the strength that comes from union—is the education of the individual."

"Our owning and operating this house is a pretty big evidence of woman's economic independence and expression."

The following article on the subject in question is by Benjamin M. Anderson, Jr., economist, the Chase National bank, New York:

The root of our troubles is in Europe, and it is difficult to see how we can have really good business in the United States until conditions in Europe improve. But we can have much better business than we now have, in the absence of improvement in Europe, as we complete our domestic readjustment.

During the period of intense activity when we were shipping goods to Europe in unprecedented volume, we were drawing labor and capital away from important domestic uses. We neglected our railroads, we neglected our public utilities, and very especially we neglected to keep up our housing facilities.

There is a great volume of deferred construction which will create effective demand, and might even lead to a building boom, when wages and building trades and building materials shake down to proper levels, and when efficiency in building labor is restored. There is real promise in the recent decision of Judge Landis in the Chicago building trades' arbitration.

Chance for Buying

Quite as important as the question of wages is the question of elimination of restrictive practices. Similarly a great deal more can be bought by the railroads and the public utilities as the prices of the things they need go down and as their financial position is improved through a reduction in wages and other costs.

So far we have only half completed the industrial readjustment. The industries which the war expanded have contracted again, but the industries which the war started have not expanded as yet to take up the slack.

There are six main resistance points in the domestic price readjustment. They are:

One: Prices of finished manufactures as compared with raw materials and farm products.

Two: Retail prices.

Three: Wages in most lines of manufacturing, and very especially wages on the railroads, in the bituminous coal fields and in the building trades.

Four: Building materials.

Five: Steel and its products.

Six: Railway rates on steel, building materials, and other bulky goods.

If we could have prompt and adequate readjustment in these particulars, we should speedily see much better business.

The Real Trouble

world maladjustment due to Europe's partial withdrawal from her normal place as the world's great center for manufacturing. Economic life goes smoothly when things are produced in right proportion. With the present low rate of production in Europe, the world's aggregate production is cut down; but owing to the shortage of manufacturing capacity through the partial withdrawal of Europe, there is a relative excess production in the non-European world of raw materials and farm products. Raw material, especially, have as a consequence been concentrated on our American markets; and our manufacturing capacity, expanded though it was by the war, was inadequate to take care of it all. Our factories worked feverishly and were overstrained; wastes multiplied and manufacturing costs rose very high. Meanwhile, the relative excess of raw materials and farm products led to a violent break in the prices of these things. As a consequence, the buying power of farmers and other producers of raw materials was cut that they could not afford to buy even the relatively scant manufacturing output at prevailing prices. Then reaction and depression reached the manufacturing industries also. The fundamental solution is the restoration of Europe to her normal position in the world's economy. Europe must be helped to produce and must be allowed to find markets for her products. A high protective tariff, depriving Europe of an American market, would be a most serious handicap to the world recovery. Recognizing, however, the handicap which Europe's condition imposes upon us, we must still recognize that our present rate of production and consumption is much too low, and that we can look forward to very substantial improvement in the United States through completing our domestic readjustment.

FOR UNIFORM JUSTICE THROUGHOUT WORLD

CINCINNATI, Sept. 23.—The second annual conference of the International Bar association, which is to be held in Peking, China, October 24 to 26, will institute the beginnings of an attempt to promote the cause of uniform justice in the world and so ultimately of international peace, according to Dr. R. Masujima of Tokyo, its president.

Dr. Masujima is now in America, after attending the recent convention of the American Bar association here. This body was invited to ally itself with the international organization and lawyers of the American bar were invited to participate in its conferences. He will also attend the Canadian Bar association meeting before returning to Japan.

The first meeting of the International Bar association was held last year in Japan. Its object was defined to be "to promote justice by the cooperation of the members of the bar throughout the world." Its ultimate aspiration, Dr. Masujima said, was to retain permanent world peace by the power of a commonly accepted standard of justice.

The principal business before this year's convention will be a conference on the points of view regarding justice, which, according to Dr. Masujima, differ widely in different countries, despite the fact that the world has two systems of jurisprudence, the civil law and the common law.

The International association, he said, should begin its work in America and Europe, where the common law, which had inaugurated democracy, was upheld.

In our opinion, the International Bar association is an indispensable auxiliary of every political enterprise of which the League of Nations is an example," Dr. Masujima said. "It is an instrument to bring nations together in better understanding particularly the east and the west, whose modes of thought are totally different. It should acquire in time among all nations authority to dictate standards of international justice to be enforced by all the sanctions at the command of civilization. This would prove the one essential bond of union and understanding between the Occident and the Orient."

$100,000 FOR MRS. LANE

Friends Raise Fund for Widow of Former Secretary of Interior

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—A fund of $100,000 has been raised among friends of Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the Interior in ex-President Wilson's cabinet, the income of which will be paid to Mrs. Lane for life. He died last May at Rochester, Minn., and left practically no estate. At Mrs. Lane's death the principal of the fund will be used as a memorial to her husband, probably an educational institution.

The fund, it was learned yesterday, was started a few months ago by subscriptions from Herbert Hoover, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Adolph C. Miller, who was assistant secretary of the Interior under Mr. Lane. When other personal friends of the former secretary heard of the movement, they voluntarily contributed to raise the total to its present amount.

AT CONVENTION IN NEW BEDFORD

Lowell is well represented by Manager-Secretary George F. Wells and Assistant Secretary Edward W. Gallagher at the New England association of Commercial Executives which is holding a convention at New Bedford today and tomorrow. Mr. Wells is to address the assembly on "Methods and Short Cuts Which Assist in Secretarial Success."

This meeting is the first of the year and is being held in New Bedford's newest hotel. It is the purpose of the committee to show what real "Whale-town" hospitality is like.

Many interesting features are listed on the program. All of the subjects deal with the secretary, his efficiency and the work of his organization. Some of the best posted men in this work have been engaged to speak upon the topic.

As an added feature the body will be addressed on the subject, "The Present and Future Outlook of America's General Business," Charles W. Wallour of Babson's statistical organization will make this address. The topic is timely and of interest to all chambers of commerce everywhere.

Arthur H. Andrews, secretary of the New Bedford board of commerce and ex-president of the New England association, is master of ceremonies. He has promised the visitors to New Bedford a "twinkle" of a time both in the way of instruction and amusement.

The program for today and tomorrow is:

How the organization service bureau of the United States chamber can assist chambers of commerce—Colvin B. Brown, organization service bureau.

What a secretary should know about transportation matter—W. H. Day, Lynn chamber of commerce.

"JAZZ" JURY TO FEATURE "SPRINGTIME" PLAY

Just about the last word in modernness is reached in that "Jazz Jury" which is to feature the last act of "Springtime" the Girls City club play. When these twelve "Jury women" come into the peppy little act of scores and clever specialties that make up the comedy de luxe, they will introduce an innovation—in court room etiquette and entertainment.

They make a snappy looking ensemble with white skirts, black sport sweaters, black and white tams, black stockings and white oxfords, altogether suitable for those so very modern nappers who are the jury women.

The "preparation for the defense" is exceedingly clever. Twelve powder puffs are produced from the interior of twelve blouses and twelve jury women powder their noses in perfect jazz time. The whole skit is originally ingenious. The young girls who with clicking heels and clacking tongues jazz so merrily into the court room are: Lillian Renaud, Kathleen Martin, Rosella Hogan, Gertrude McGrath, Eva Messer, Lena Mallon, Frieda Kenney, Catherine Mulligan, Beatrice Hession, Mary Banckert, Ethel Winslow and Ellen Martin.

To what extent should a secretary's position limit his personal activities?—Edward Stacy, Massachusetts state chamber of commerce.

BAR LOW NECKS AND TRANSPARENT GOWNS

MONTREAL, Sept. 23.—An intimation that the sacrament might be refused women who dressed immodestly was contained in notices posted yesterday on all doors of the Church of the Jesus on Beury st.

The notices, called up after Archbishop Bruchesi recently had issued a decree to combat modern feminine fashions, read:

"Out of respect to our Savior, present in the Tabernacle, and for the edification of our neighbors, we beg women to appear in church only in dress of irreproachable modesty, collar closed and sleeves sufficiently long."

"We draw specially to your notice the abuse of dress of transparent material. We earnestly hope that we will not have to resort to drastic measures to enforce this, such as the refusal of sacrament."

Explaining the notice Re P. O. Plamondon, prefect of the church, said:

"Modern women's clothes are a sin and a shame. It may be the fashion, but it is certainly an unreasonable one."

He added that he had already refused several women interviews on account of their clothes.

JEWELS . DECORATE . EXQUISITE . NEW . SLIPPERS

BY MARIAN HALE
NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—If a modern Cinderella ever dropped her slipper it would be a high-minded prince who wouldn't run to the pawnshop with it. Jewels and almost-jewels on cloth of gold or cloth of silver slippers are the exquisite evening foot raiment for the 1921 up-to-date woman, whether she be young or old.

The evening slipper with the gorgeous jeweled buckle holding tiny ostrich tips is one which certainly would make not only a prince, but even a king, stop and notice.

A black satin evening slipper has a large, brilliant button with a silver tassel attached.

Others are finished at the button with metal tassels.

The large jewel buttons, holding the strap, are in all colors—emeralds, sapphires and rubies—but they are surrounded by diamonds or brilliants.

One slipper of brown satin is heavily embroidered in set designs, both around the heel and over the toe. The strap is unadorned and a tassel falls from the button.

A cloth of silver slipper, which recalls Louis Quinze, has a large silver lace rosette with upstanding frills of lace.

Buckles of brilliants, with fringe attached, adorn the satin slippers.

While even on the dress patent is silver fringe, seemingly attached with silver nail heads.

Warfare at Macao Imminent

SHANGHAI, China, Sept. 23.—(By the Associated Press)—Warfare is imminent between forces of the Chinese southern government and the Portuguese at Macao, a seaport and dependency of Portugal, 35 miles west of Hong Kong. A controversy of long standing growing out of Portuguese efforts to reclaim land along the waterfront has culminated in the firing on a Portuguese police launch by Chinese soldiers. The Portuguese force at Macao at present numbers 800, while the Chinese have 5000 troops near the city.

Boston Men In Court

ances having been granted a number of times. Both men had pleaded guilty to charges of drunkenness, which were filed.

According to the story of the police, the two young men boarded a car in the square for Lakeview and after leaving considerable money on the car owing to their intoxicated condition, which resulted in one girl passenger fainting, they attacked the operator of the car, a one-man vehicle, and stripped off a pocket of his coat containing $11 in change and a punch. They were arrested in the loop at the park that same evening.

A dozen witnesses appeared on the stand this morning. Detailed stories of the affair from beginning to end were related by James P. Ryan, operator of the car, Frank M. Logan, a passenger who had an argument with the defendants while en route to the park, and by Miss Mabel Topping of Lawrence, who was in company with Mr. Logan. Accounts related by Logan and the girl stated McKenna struck Miss Topping in the face and that she fainted.

Ryan, who said he has been in the company's employ 11 years, told of warning the young men several times after they started annoying passengers by their loud talking, singing and talking to persons whom they did not know.

After he had stopped the car and warned them twice, he stated, he ordered Hanlon to get off the car, but when he refused he grabbed him by the neck and brought him to the door. McKenna in the meantime shouting: "You're not going to choke him and set away with it," came forward and assaulted Ryan, the witness told the court. McKenna was standing on the step after I had put Hanlon out of the car," continued the operator, "when he took hold of a side of my car, and in the middle that followed stripped the pocket off as clean as though it had been cut off with a knife."

Ryan stated he did not shut out his pocket with the money and punch was taken until he had started his car and was on his way again. He said he thought McKenna and Hanlon found a car behind also going to the park.

to leave the car, Officer Murphy was called and he put them off, they said. The two men got on another car a short time later, they continued.

Frank M. Logan told how the defendants got on the car singing and talking loudly. He said that Hanlon was so drunk that he would hardly walk and that he was nearly falling on a girl, she got up and gave him her seat. He said Hanlon was arguing with the girl, whom he did not know, and when asked by counsel what he was saying to her, Logan replied he didn't hear much but heard him call her a "bunt" and applied it out, he said.

Shortly after the operator of the car warned them to be quiet, Logan continued, Hanlon went to a place near where he and Miss Topping were seated. Hanlon stepped on Logan's toe and made no effort to get off it. "When I felt my toe hurting," Logan testified, "I put my hand on Hanlon's hip and tried to make him realize that he was stepping on my foot. When I did attract his attention he said to me: 'Who are you? That should be talking to me, a college man? You're nobody while I'm a college graduate.'"

"I told him he was acting more like a graduate of the Lyman school than a college man," McKenna then came up and said to me that if Hanlon was a Lyman school man I was a graduate of the Shirley school. Again I warned them to avoid a scene, but McKenna challenged me to go out of the car. I refused saying I was with a young woman and could not leave her. Just before they left they gave me a push in the face and struck McKenna Topping on the left side of her face just below the cheek bone. She fainted and I took the aid of passengers to revive her."

Miss Topping corroborated the testimony offered by her escort and other witnesses related similar stories.

NEW SPECIES OF FISH

Brought to Light By Eruption of the Volcano of Mauna Loa

HONOLULU, Sept. 23.—Varieties of fish hitherto unknown were discovered as a result of the eruption of the volcano of Mauna Loa two years ago. This fact has just been announced by Dr. David Starr Jordan, chancellor emeritus of Leland Stanford junior university, California, noted ichthyologist.

The columns of lava burrowed deeper into the ocean than man had been able to penetrate and thousands of fish of strange and fantastic shape and color were killed and washed up on the beach by the tidal wave caused by the lava flow.

Among them were found six varieties hitherto unknown to science because their habitat was presumably lower in the water than science had been able to observe.

Amateur ichthyologists in Hilo, Hawaii, selected species which were unknown to them and sent them to Dr. Jordan for examination. The result was that six new species were classified.

"I consider the discoveries, from a scientific viewpoint, to be among the most remarkable and important on record," Dr. Jordan said when he made public the classifications here, while he was attending the sessions of the Pan-Pacific educational conference.

The designations given to the six species by Dr. Jordan are:

Loa excelsa, a species of kikihi or butterfly fish, strikingly banded in yellow and black.

Vesposus egregius so designated because of its resemblance to a wasp's nest.

Rhyacanthias Carlsmithi, named for Carl A. Carlsmith, of Hilo, who sent many of the species to Dr. Jordan. It is a deep rose red in color.

Rhechias aeneus, a conger eel with hooks on its snout resembling blackberry thorns and is solid dull black in color.

Nyctimaster Reinhardt, named for the Hilo resident who discovered it. It is a small black lantern fish, so designated because of the many luminous glands behind the eye and along its sides which give the impression of phosphorescence. It is a solid dull black in color.

Peristedion angueros, or alligator fish of a brilliant scarlet hue which is characterized by large bony plates of armor.

Each of the six is a deep-water fish. All live in water of more than 150 feet in depth and some as deep as 600 feet. Nothing except such a cataclysm of nature as the Alikia flow could have brought them to the surface, Dr. Jordan said. Rhyacanthias Carlsmithi ranged at least 1000 feet below the ocean's surface, he added.

Dr. Jordan has sent to the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D. C., a paper detailing the results of the investigation and the new classifications.

FATE OF WRANGEL'S ARMY UNSOLVED

ATHENS, Sept. 22.—The ultimate fate of Gen. Wrangel's Russian army in exile of whom 20,000 officers and men still are encamped on the Gallipoli peninsula, still continues one of the unsolved puzzles of the near east.

Gen. Wrangel has held together the best of his officers and men from among the refugee army which fled from Russia before the victorious Bolsheviks. He has hoped that his forces would be again needed in Russia to maintain a new government "when the soviet regime collapsed."

But this is a hope deferred and Wrangel's best fighting men wait in their tents and huts on Gallipoli.

Major Jean de Roover, chairman of the League of Nations commission for the exchange of populations between Greece and Bulgaria, has visited the Russian camp and brought away a very favorable impression of the officers and men. He knows something about the Russian fighting man for he was formerly the Belgian representative with Wrangel's army when it was the bulwark of the anti-Bolshevik strength in the Crimea. He says:

"In this camp, besides 1500 women and children, there are 3000 officers, 10,000 soldiers and 2000 cadets in the military schools. These troops have kept their military organization. Their morale is of the highest and they voluntarily submit to the most stern discipline, for in all their hardships they are buoyed up by an unquestioning faith in their chief, Gen. Wrangel, and in the greatest of their mission."

"They are encamped under canvas, or in old huts that have no doors or windows, but are always in an irreproachable state of cleanliness."

"They are fed by France. In addition, Gen. Wrangel is paying them, from the little money he still has—about a dollar a month."

"Wrangel, who succeeded in getting employment as labor corps in Serbia and Bulgaria for nearly all his Cossack troops, is trying to get Serbia to receive his Gallipoli army corps. Five thousand of them are going to be used by Yugoslavia as a frontier guard."

"As for the other regiments, the government at Belgrade is prepared to offer them its hospitality if funds are put at its disposal which will cover their upkeep for two years. The Russian ambassador at Washington has still several tens of millions of dollars, the remains of funds that were sent him from Russia before the Bolshevik coup d'état, to pay for the orders for war material. Wrangel is making every effort to get the few million dollars necessary for the carrying out of his scheme raised out of these funds and transmitted to the Serbian government."

"If he succeeds, what will be the ultimate role of this legion? Will it fight again as an army? Probably not. The general opinion in Russian circles is that Bolshevism must go under in an internal convulsion of the country, and that the tyranny of Bolshevism will be succeeded by anarchy. It will be then that elements of order, a framework of administrative and police organization will be needed by the new government to restore calm for the convocation of the constituent assembly. This is where the survivors of the national Russian army hope to be of service to their country."

Clear skies and ideal summer weather conditions tempered by a strong southwest breeze that rippled the lake waters at Willow Dale, helped to make the annual outing yesterday of the popular Lowell Fish and Game Association a genuine success from start to finish. The program of speaking, sports and dining was carried out without a slip-up, and Secretary Willis Holt, who had charge of the day's arrangements for the big outings, was congratulated today right and left for his success in handling the outing as "Big Boss." It was a big day for the fishermen, who handles these yearly outings, and the weather man was with him.

More than 500 members and guests of the association sat down to a fine hot roast lamb dinner and there were speeches by numerous guests of honor, including Congressman John Jacob Rogers and Mayor Perry D. Thompson. Secretary Holt read his annual report, which is always filled with meaty items about the fishing and hunting grounds hereabouts, and the sports program was carried out without a hitch.

The motor car parade from Thorne-dike street to the park attracted a lot of attention, the cars being decorated with American flags. Bagster George Del La Haye awakened the echoes with his instrument, and Lowell folks turned out in good style to give the knights of the rod and gun a good send-off. Dinner was served at the park soon after arrival. A group picture was taken just before the "rats."

President C. B. Livingston presided at the after-dinner exercises. Secretary Holt's annual report contained some interesting references of the work accomplished by the association during the past year. The association, he announced, has received and distributed the following fish in Lowell: 18,000 brook trout fingerlings, 7500 black bass fingerlings, and 600,000 perch-pike fry, making a grand total of all fish received since the association was organized on May 1, 1913, of 25,455,305.

The association has also received since its first day of organization 100 pheasants, 30 snow-shoe rabbits, 68 quail. Wild rice and wild celery have been planted in many marshes. White perch have been distributed in Long pond, Crystal lake, Spectacle, Flushing, Long-Sought-For and Forge pond. Secretary Holt stated that the new Continued to Page Twelve

BOSTON, Sept. 23.—Cardinal O'Connell has sent a letter to every pastor in the archdiocese regarding October devotions and the taking up of the annual collection for the numerous charitable institutions of the diocese.

The letter regarding the collection for charities which the cardinal directs shall be read at all the masses next Sunday and the Sunday following and will appear officially in this week's issue of the Pilot organ of the archdiocese, and is as follows:

"The annual collection for the diocesan charities will be taken up at all the masses in the churches of the diocese on Sunday, October 2.

"This is the one occasion each year on which we appeal to the faithful to help by their generosity in the maintenance of the diocesan charitable institutions and the response made in the past gives us the assurance that our good people only wish to be reminded of their duty.

"The numerous charitable institutions of the diocese have been doing excellent work. They have been efficiently administered and they have expended with scrupulous care the funds at their disposal. They merit our encouragement and support.

"If present conditions should continue and the winter should prove severe the diocesan charitable institutions will be called upon for a larger share of assistance and the more generous contributions of the faithful the more these institutions will be able to accomplish.

"We are not unmindful of the many demands which have been made upon the resources of our good people during the past months, yet we do not doubt of the success of this appeal, knowing that the faithful of the diocese well realize that the diocesan charitable activities are dependent upon their co-operation, and that many blessings are the reward of their assistance.

ONE OF THE DAY'S STRENUOUS PLOW FIGHTS

Lowell Fish & Game

Association Outing

Lowell Fish & Game Association outing. The fishway at Pawnee Falls is being rebuilt by the Lucas and Canals Co.

The secretary paid a warm tribute to the memory of the late president Simon B. Harris, who died May 4, 1921.

He declared the association "has accomplished things." He said many do not appreciate the fact that the Merrimack river is one of the "most beautiful rivers in the United States." He deplored the pouring of sewage of the million people into the water in a few years it would be stopped. The congressman paid tribute to the sterling qualities and sportsmanship of the late President Harris.

In his address, which was listened to with deep interest by the Lowell Fish and Game club members, Congressman Rogers declared that he hoped the day would come when the Merrimack would be "navigable to the sea."

The success of the day's outing was due in large measure to the program of sports carried out under the leadership of Chairman Arnold A. Ryan of the sports committee and Chairman W. C. Placard of the outing committee. They had numerous able assistants. The trip was in charge of William J. Kilburn.

The list of sports and the names of the winning competitors were as follows:

A Target for Home-Run Kings!

On the Other Hand

McGraw of the Giants is indeed a wonder man.

If he should succeed in landing the 1921 pennant, it will be the seventh time that he has steered a club to a pennant.

All credit is due the Giants and McGraw.

At a seemingly impossible moment, when the Pirates were checking up on the seating capacity, the New Yorkers stepped them down for 10 in a row.

Hi diddle, di diddle, the cat's in the fiddle.

The public jumped over the moon, Tex Rickard kicked to see such sport, J. Wilson will be kicking soon.

Well, anyhow, in tennis, you get a chance to wear out your old clothes.

William T. Masten is still the master.

Still the national singles champion, still the winner with no effort at all, on the courts where he first started playing.

This is his second leg on the Davis cup, and all appearance nobody can be developed in time to keep him from winning next season, when the cup will become his sole possession.

In the real matter who wins with such ease as Tilden, for he did not even remove his sweater.

We hear they are going to send Kilbane to the dismament conference.

Take down the service flag; here comes daddy back from the golf links.

According to the new constitution of the Toronto High School Athletic Association, players in the High School Football league will be required to show their birth certificates. Guilt is theirs.

GOLF STARS MEET

Miss Stirling and Miss Leitch

Clash at Ottawa in Championship Tourney

OTTAWA, Sept. 23.—Two of the world's greatest women golfers—Miss Alexia Stirling of Atlanta, champion of the United States, and Miss Leitch of England, the English title holder, met today in one-half of the Canadian championship tournament.

Miss Leitch was picked to win by many of the experts who have followed the weeks' play, although it was conceded that the match was a hearing of the English champion, who has reached the semi-final and was pitted today against the Scottish player.

Both girls would meet in the final round, scheduled for tomorrow.

PIGSKIN TO MAKE SLIGHT BOW TOMORROW

After a promising gracefully for a year in a row of campor balls Old Hickok makes a slight bow tomorrow afternoon on many golfers. The bow is only a slight bow, but it is a bow that is a monopoly on the golf links to let go at the present.

There are enough rabbit football players to welcome the new season tomorrow even if it is a slight bow to the old season.

Most of the big universities and colleges are playing football tomorrow. The big game is picked up by the little fellows to try out their unknown material. In turn the little ones are anxious to get into the public notice are only the sacrificial altars.

Harvard is trying out a rather novel scheme in the playing of a double header against the little fellows. The Crimson should have little trouble in winning both games.

At the same time a chance will be offered to try out some of the green material. Cuts in the squad will follow the game tomorrow.

But within a week or two more we can look for some real end games, as many of the eleven have contracts of importance scheduled early this season.

BY ROY GROVE

The home-run smackers, who have been giving the old B. B. fan such a run for his money this season, are now low on their bats for the World Series.

Some of them are going to participate in the big money-making game. Will the fence-busting continue when the teams tighten up for the money game? Will new club records be made?

Doffing our chapeau to the abilities of the present day heavy hitters, we'd like to risk a remark that they'll have to travel to beat the home-run records for the big series set by stars of yesterday.

Who'll repeat the Frank Baker strong man stunt of making two home runs in two days during the Athletic Giant series of 1917?

Who'll eclipse the record of two circuit clouts in a series made by Clarke of the Pirates in 1920, Harry Hooper of the Red Sox in 1915 and repeated by Larry Gardner, then of the Red Sox but now with the Indians in 1916?

And, if that is possible, who's the man who will duplicate the feat of Outfielder Dougherty in smacking two

K. OF C. VS. BOSTON

Hub Post Office Team in Big Game With Local Knights Tomorrow

The big game between Manager Connelley's Lowell Knights of Columbus and the famous Boston post office team will be staged at Spalding park tomorrow afternoon and there are indications of one of the biggest crowds of the season turning out for the battle.

From present indications the game will be a close one, as that part of the K. of C. old reliable, and Andrews, professional ranker, Davidson, who has every right to claim the title of best pitcher performing in Lowell has not yet met defeat on local grounds, while Andrews has been winning consistently all season.

The K. of C. will present the strongest lineup of the season for tomorrow's game. Sullivan will be behind the bat and Connie Desmond will be on hand as a relief catcher. Possibly, he may be used in the outfield. Devlin, the former Holy Cross star, will take care of first base and Hevey, Harris and the "big three" will form the first line of defense in rest of the infield.

Bobby Keeler will umpire, which means that everything will be satisfactory as far as that part of the game is concerned. Special car service will be provided to and from the grounds, while Andrews has been winning consistently all season.

Tomorrow's game is considered unusually important for a K. of C. local outfit will entitle them to a line for the 1921 championship of Massachusetts. Realizing this fact, the local council has arranged a record-breaking delegation to the contest, the Boston team will bring with it several hundred supporters from the Hub and vicinity.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—The world's series will start tomorrow night, when the first game will be played on the home grounds of the National league team.

The contest either Pittsburgh or Cleveland should finish first, two series games will be played in the National league city, the next two in the American league city, and so on until one team has won five games. Both the New York teams are at present leading.

Arranged yesterday's hearing of the league presidents with Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball commissioner.

President Joe Leland of the National won the toss and the first game for his league.

Landis, tossed the coin and the league presidents faced the prices for the series at from $1 to $5.

Series Heat Five in Nine

Nine games may be played, it was decided, the series going to the winner of five. If a ninth game is played and one of the teams of New York is in the series, a coin will be tossed to decide the city.

The prices decided on represent a considerable reduction in the cheaper seats. Bleachers seats in New York formerly have sold at $2.50 compared to $1.50 today, while at Cleveland last year pavilion seats brought $2 instead of the $2.50 in yesterday's scale, and general admission was $2 instead of $1.

Besides Judge Landis and the league presidents, those present at the meeting included Col. Jacob Ruppert and Ed Barrow, representing the New York Yankees, and Charles A. Stoneham, John McGraw and Judge Francis McQuade of the Giants.

There will be no day of rest between games in the event that either Cleveland or Pittsburgh plays one of the New York teams. It was decided, last year the players were given a day off following the overnight trip from New York to Cleveland and back again.

The four umpires will be selected after the close of the regular season Oct. 2. One winner and one loser's share will be tallied and divided among the four umpires.

Giants Have Pennant Within Grasp; American Leadership Still Unsettled

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—While the issue of who's who for first place remains unsettled in the American League that in the National League today appears a trifle nearer solution than it has been. The New York Nationals with their lead of 26 points over Pittsburgh have the pennant almost within their grasp. With the easterners idle yesterday, the Pirates lost a point in their percentage figures by breaking even in a double header with Brooklyn. Providing the Giants win three of their seven remaining games they will finish the season with 91 victories and 60 defeats, and to better this mark the Pennsylvanians must win all nine games remaining on their schedule. If New York wins four, then Pittsburgh must win nine straight games to tie. Babe Ruth left the home run hitting to two teammates, Quinn and Ward, in the Yanks' victory over Detroit yesterday. Besides his homer, Ward made two triples in three times at bat, and scored three runs. Ruth, up five times, went hitless. George Sisler of the St. Louis Browns won the second game of a double header against Philadelphia with his eleventh "take four" hit of the season. The Browns, who also won the first game were aided by good pitching by Davis and Bayne.

It took Cleveland 12 innings to beat Boston in a game in which six pitchers were used, three by each club. Norton was credited with the victory, his second in two days.

GUILFORD IN SEMI-FINAL

Clash With Evans and Gardner at St. Louis Today

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 23.—(By the Associated Press)—Two Chicagoans, Chick Evans and Bob Gardner, played a Bostonian, Jesse Guilford, and a British champion, Willie Hunter, today in the semi-finals of the national amateur golf championship at the St. Louis Country club. Evans, the present titleholder, yesterday defeated Jess Sweetser of New York. After displaying considerable cardsharpness, Evans had to hole a 25-foot sidehill putt on the home green to win. The most skillful and telling shot Evans used at this critical hole was a cut brassie, which carried the ball more than 200 yards over two hills to the blind green and dropped it within 15 feet of the hole. This shot is unique with the champion.

Guilford reached the semi-final round after a tight match with H. R. Johnston of St. Paul, the Minnesota champion, winning one up by shooting a 37-35-75 in the forenoon and 27-27-74 in the afternoon. Johnston losing largely because of inaccuracy of his long from shots.

Gardner won his way in the penultimate round by defeating Clark of Seattle, one up in the first and R. E. Knepper, Sioux City yesterday, 4 and 2.

The long driving Chicagoan today had the luck of trying to carry the trophy from carrying home the American title. Hunter was waded through 2 1/2 inches of water to reach the green at St. Louis, 2 and 1, and yesterday defeated Bobby Jones of Atlanta, runner-up in 1919, 2 and 1, by scoring an approximate 72 in the afternoon.

Jones owed his defeat largely to lack of leadership as he made more brilliant shots and drove further than the British.

KILBANE MAY DEMAND

$100,000 PURSE

CLEVELAND, Sept. 23.—The next promoter who digs into his jeans for a championship scrap, is going to do some deep digging.

Promoters McGinty and Deutsch dug $50,000 in front of Johnny Kilbane's eyes to get the champ into a ring with Danny Frush and to see if the "old master" had left the skills.

It was a dirty fight, full of questionable incidents, but Johnny demonstrated fully that he still is the Kilbane of old, for when Frush's shoulder was pinned to the ropes, Kilbane's body was so spotted with black marks of welts that he looked like a red-spotted leopard.

Kilbane undoubtedly will hold out now for a purse of $75,000 or $100,000 to defend his title again.

Tex to Pay More

If Tex Rickard is the man behind the guns, Johnny probably will take on a few thousand more, for Kilbane's record shows that he is a champion.

Kilbane has been fighting since 1914, and has won 100 fights, 85 of them by decision. He is a champion, and he is a champion.

BY ROY GROVE

Two pitchers, both World Series veterans, have been largely responsible for the Garrison finish in the American league race this season. Meaning, to be specific: Carl Mays of the Yankees and Stanley Coveleskie of the Indians.

Mays, while with the Red Sox, went through two of the big time performances, while Coveleskie earned himself the name of "Iron Man" in 1920 when he won all three of his starts in the Cleveland-Brooklyn series.

Both men are near the top among league pitchers. "Covey" is always cool and deliberate and master of the most pill in a pinch, while Mays at times becomes excitable and wild.

Delivery Famous

Mays' underhand delivery is the most peculiar in the big leagues. He's famous for his submarine ball. It was while battling against Mays that Ray Chapman, Cleveland, short-stop, was hit and killed in 1920.

Mays was the most talked of man in baseball when he quit the Red Sox after an argument and went to the Yankees. He pitched there only with the aid of an injunction gotten out by the New York club against Ban Johnson, American league head, who tried to prevent the transfer from leaving.

Mays made his first World Series appearance in 1915 with Boston. The score was 6 to 5 Boston. Brooklyn was batting, with one out and the score was 6 to 5 Boston. Brooklyn was batting, with one out and the score was 6 to 5 Boston.

While with Spokane he picked up his spitball, and successfully developed it until he got it going good for his first big league year in 1916.

Covey No Youth

Coveleskie is no youth. He was 31 last July.

He started his diamond career 14 years ago in the town of Shamokin, Pa., where he was born.

After knocking around in the minors for some time he went to the Pacific coast and spent five years with the Spokane and Portland clubs.

While with Spokane he picked up his spitball, and successfully developed it until he got it going good for his first big league year in 1916.

that could monopolize the front page of our daily papers day after day. They wanted to know what it was all about.

And consequently the hundreds of thousands who had followed baseball were augmented by countless thousands more. And with the edge taken off the war, America turned toward its two major leagues for much needed recreation.

From the first game of the season it was noticed more people were paying to see games than ever before. Baseball owners thought the interest only the usual first of season interest. But as the season wore on the crowds became greater and now in the fast end of a successful campaign the interest is still keen.

In the National league the result is pretty well decided with the New York Giants as the winners. In the American league, New York and Cleveland are in the thick of it as tough a fight as has been waged in the league for many a season.

Ever since Colonel Ruppert and Houston bought the Yankees they have spent thousands upon thousands of dollars in an effort to bring a pennant winter to Gotham. Last season their drive petered out in the closing weeks. But this season the Yankees appear to be a slight favorite for the junior league battling.

The race will be decided this week when the Indians invade New York for a series the first game of which is scheduled for this afternoon at the

FOOTBALL ON THE BEACH

PAYNE NEWS

New York University's football team is using the famous Brighton beach as its training gridiron.

Polo grounds. This might well be termed the young world series of the American league. Despite the fact Cleveland is a scrappy team and has the experience of a world series he had it the Yanks should be the favorites. On their home grounds, among friends and with everything at stake, Miller Huggins' men will give everything it has to win these games.

But the Indians might prove good invaders and come home with the flag. Not so many years ago the Boston Red Sox started west with only a slim chance for the pennant. They went into Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland and St. Louis and swept up series after series, coming home assured of the flag. The Indians may do this, but we like the Yankees better.

While New York and Cleveland are battling for first and second places, Boston, Washington and St. Louis are having a merry three-cornered battle for third place money. The Browns are in third place by only a slight margin, while the Senators and Red Sox are but a breath or two behind.

This position may also decide this week as the Browns invade the hub today for a series. The Senators, however, may stage another of their seasons' flashes and manage to weather all opposition to keep them out of the first division.

And what of Pittsburgh in the National league? A team that has been campaigning about the fourth of the way only to be beaten out when victory was conceded to them by over half of the baseball going public. The Pirates fought hard and seemed to have victory in their grasp when the St. Louis Cardinals and Giants gave them rude setbacks.

And now the Pirates must keep fighting hard to be assured of even second place. Branch Rickey has got the Cards going great guns. There was only one thing the matter with the Cards and that was pitching. And when Eddie Ainsmith joined the team the pitching department braced at once. Now, it may have been a fluke, but the Cardinals should brace about the time Ainsmith made his appearance, but it begins to look more as if it were the result of his wise head.

But anyway, the Cards are second place as their objective. Pittsburgh has a five-game series to play in St. Louis and this again may decide a position.

The Braves have only a slight opportunity to finish within the money while Brooklyn and the other teams are out of it entirely.

NEW YORKERS CLAIM PENNANTS

Down New York way, the city that loves to be called "the big town," it's baseball fans have conceded the pennants to both New York teams. They are sure of the Giants and have faith in the Yanks. With unabated breath between its two teams and more for the duel between the two great home run hitters of each league, Babe Ruth and George Kelley.

White Kelley has not made the record attributed to the Battering Bombino, he has made many friends and admirers among New York ball-dom. In an intercity series of this kind Ruth would be watched like a cat watches a mouse. Kelley would be respected to a certain extent but no such guard of his moves would be made as in the case of Ruth.

It seldom happens a season's star going into the cap into the glove in a world series. Last year before the series began Bill Wambach was just a cog in the Cleveland machine. Then he made a triple play unassisted. He was immediately a hero. And thus it goes in every series.

Ruth or Kelley may not do a great deal but every action of these players will be watched with all the attention New York's frantic bugs, and they are real bugs, can give them.

WHITE RIBBON HOME FOR AGED WOMEN

Out in Ayer the White Ribbon home for aged women has been carrying on for the past two years quietly but effectively and next Wednesday, Sept. 23, the birthday anniversary of Frances E. Willard, the home is to hold a harvest home and open house day to commemorate the completion of this period of service in this capacity. During the war the place was used as a hotel for women, friends or relatives of the men at Camp Devens and transferred into a home for aged members of the Massachusetts Woman's Christian Temperance union only when the need for its wartime use was past. On Wednesday the home will be open all day and in addition to a sale of articles made by the women residents and a cafeteria luncheon, an attractive program has been prepared by the committee in charge. Mrs. George E. Frost of Dorchester, vice president, will preside because of the indisposition of Mrs. Harriet E. Sawyer of Clinton, president. The home is situated at 33 East Main street and is easily reached by train, trolley or motor. Members of the home (family represent all parts of the state; about 20 have already found a comfortable home there and a number of applications are now pending, showing the need for such a refuge. Mrs. Edith Blaney of Westford is Middlesex county representative.

DEFENDS SEIZURE OF BERGDOLL PROPERTY

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.—Defending the action of his office in having seized the property of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, Thomas W. "The whole Bergdoll matter is a stain on the previous administration of the war department and a reflection on the government," Mr. Miller declared. "The American Legion wants this man brought back to this country, and if we can't get Bergdoll under one law, I say get him under another."

EXTEND ODD FELLOWS ACTIVITIES TO EUROPE

TORONTO, Sept. 23.—The Sovereign Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, which has been in session for the last week, is considering the advisability of extending the order's activities to Europe and other parts of the world.

The committee on international relations has recommended the introduction of a schedule of official visitations with quasi-independent jurisdictions in those countries as soon as possible. The suggestion was reported to have been favorably received.

A recommendation also was adopted that an annual fee of 10 cents be charged each member for a period of five years, to cover the cost of a Grand Lodge building in Baltimore, where a site has been obtained.

Step-mother Arbuckle "Forgot" Tells of Boyhood of Famous Jailed Comedian

BY JACK JUNGMEYER

SANTA CLARA, Cal., Sept. 22.—This is a "cut back," in film parlance, from the tragic Virginia Rappe episode in Roscoe Arbuckle's life reel to a "close-up" of his boyhood as pictured by the aged stepmother who has long felt herself renounced by him.

The location is an humble home on the outskirts of this California town where Mrs. Mollie Arbuckle, 61, and lifelong bread winner over the wash-tubs, pauses with folded hands to recite her story of "Fatty's" lugubrious amble toward fame.

When as a widow with five children she married Roscoe's father, with four, Mrs. Arbuckle mothered the boy through adolescence. She speaks with tender pity of his acrobatic youth when the pounce that was to make him celebrated served but as a target for the village jibes. She tells of his chronic laziness; of his unhappy days at school; of her unavailing efforts to stir his ambition, pride of person and industry.

Was Lazy Boy

And then she directs the spotlight out along the road to fortune taken by this puzzling lad who trudged it with a loaf and a laugh; tells of his failure to write, his forgetfulness of the mixed family with whom he grew up, and his indifference to her increased burdens when the husband deserted the double brood.

"But it is no more than I expected of Roscoe," she states unemotionally, with neither bitterness nor reproach.

"He was aggravatingly lazy as a boy. Neither his father's cuffings nor my pleadings could cure it. He didn't do any work around the house, and didn't contribute toward the family support, though his two full brothers did their full share.

Jeered at School

"Roscoe was a big, fat boy, who weighed 16 pounds at birth. He didn't seem to fit in anywhere very well. He quit school in the fifth grade, before I married his father. I urged him to go back, but Mr. Arbuckle was indifferent. And when he did start his father compelled him to wear his old overalls and shabby shoes so that the school children jeered him. That hurt Roscoe and he stayed away for longer and longer periods, spending his time near the river fishing and in solitude, finally quitting altogether. I was sorry for him.

"His father used to beat him—and I will say he often deserved it. One of his brothers secured him a job and paid two weeks' board and room at a hotel for him. His untidiness made him an object of reproach there.

"Then he started hanging around saloons, finally getting work as a bar boy, cleaning the floors. He would jig step half an hour for a mug of beer, and at such times, oddly enough, he seemed to have plenty of energy.

"When he left Santa Clara he owed a number of people small amounts. One was a working girl from whom he borrowed $2.50 the night he went away, and she is still hoping for its repayment. I suppose he has forgotten—as he forgot us.

Forgets His Family

"He has never written to me or any of the family. Often he has driven through the town in his fine automobile but he never seems to find time to stop and say hello or to recognize his folks. The only way we learn what he is doing is through the papers.

"No, I have never gone to see him in the movies. I am not without my pride, and if he wants none of us, so let it be."

Mrs. Arbuckle recounted how he had gone on the stage in song-and-dance at the old Unique theatre in San Jose, then with the Pettis Hartman stock company as comedian, later to the Orient, and then back to California with Mack Bennett as an extra man in motion pictures.

"I pity the boy," she resumed, speaking quietly. "I believe he is not guilty of that dreadful thing, but if he is, I would see him punished."

"I have been told that Roscoe now intends sending me some money. But I will not touch it. I feel it would not come to me unprompted, and I should return it."

Deep affection, it seems, never grew up between Arbuckle and his stepmother, although there was no antagonism. Other members of the family show some resentment, at fate rather than at their kinsman, for the queer twist that brought him epitome out of slothfulness while they have but a mere living for their steady plodding. This feeling the stepmother shows no sign of sharing, although there is striking contrast between her humble estate in Santa Clara and the sumptuous $100,000 home of Roscoe Arbuckle in Los Angeles, with its creamy $25,000 auto in the garage.

Her Life a Battle

If "Fatty" has risen to eminence with a loaf and a laugh, her days have been a battle and a march. When she married Arbuckle, she says, he was managing a restaurant in Santa Clara. She helped him there, as well as doing the home work. She paid the home rent, she averted, and all the family expenses—and proudly treasures the receipt bill. She feels she was born to toil, and for her husband's vagaries, as she recites them, there is no resentment. Only she resents and indignantly denies reports that Arbuckle, the father, was a drunkard.

Unlike the palatial home of her famous stepson, Mrs. Arbuckle's house is a lighted with kerosene lamps and has few modern conveniences. She carries the water from a well for her wash-tubs—still her method of livelihood, supplemented by aid from her other sons, now all grown. On the clean floors are rag carpets of her own weaving. One of her two daughters helps with the housework. They are not blind, as has been reported.

Proud of Toil

Mollie Arbuckle is proud of toil, gives much, asks little for herself and has battled the way for her brood without complaint. "They are all poor," she says of her family, "and they have all helped—except Roscoe."

Tolerant of his other characteristics, whether she approves them or not, Roscoe Arbuckle's stepmother resents only his repudiation of the family. That pricks her unbending pride and self-respect. If his former-admirers are veering

In his hour of trouble she sees in that a sign of retribution. Thus the "cut back" fades, the reel again picks up the frowning comedian in the cell of San Francisco's city prison, and proceeds to unwind through gruesome inquest details and grand jury testimony toward trial for the death of Virginia Rappe with which Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle is charged. A Love Recipe That Is Almost Sure to Start a Controversy

RUDOLPH VALENTINO HAS A LOVE RECIPE THAT HE PUTS TO A TEST IN "THE SHEIK." IT WORKED BEAUTIFULLY, MASTERFULNESS REDUCING THE PROUD BEAUTY (AGNES AYRES) TO SUBMISSION—AS SHOWN HERE

(By N.E.A. Service)
NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Now don't let this start a controversy. Women are especially warned not to read what follows. It's almost sure to make a lady mad.

Now that that's settled and you understand perfectly—let's go on with the story:
Rudolph Valentino, out of the Solomonese wisdom of his 23 years, and a hectic career as a hero in the movies, rises courageously to remark that women like to be dominated.

Make 'em like it, says Rudolph. Be masterful. Be a cave man—physically or intellectually, depending on circumstances.

"A woman likes a man who dominates her," Rudolph declares. "I don't care whether she's a suffragist or a so-called new woman. She likes domination—perhaps secretly, but she likes it just the same."

Rudolph is rather handsome. But he doesn't depend on beauty alone to win them.

"Study the type," he advises. "Some women like brute strength. Others like intellectual strength. But sometimes you have to combine both brain and brawn in your mastery of women."

Take his system in "The Sheik," the new picture in which he plays the title role.

When the English girl, played by Agnes Ayres, falls into the hands of the sheik on the Arabian desert she was a cold, indifferent tomboy. She needed someone to arouse her.

Then she met the sheik—and he was brutal. He beat her mentally. He lashed her with intellectual cruelty. He dominated her.

And she just couldn't resist him. He had the recipe. She just naturally melted into his arms. (And, of course, it was awfully nice to discover later that he wasn't an Arab at all, but a European in disguise.)

What? You don't agree with Rudolph's cave man love recipe? You're not obliged to. Anyway, you were warned not to read this.

$100 Per Freckle
Wesley Barry, who is going to star in Marshall Neilan's "Penrod," has been trying to find out what his famous freckles are worth per freckle.

The manager of a theatre in Jamesport, Mo., helped him out. After running "Penrod," the manager counted the box receipts and then he counted

Wesley's freckles. Dividing the number of freckles into the total receipts he arrived at the statistical conclusion that the freckles were worth just a fraction of a cent more than $100 apiece.

Islanded in the Movies
Washington Irving is to enter the movie hall of fame. "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow" is to be filmed. Carl Seymour Clancy has written the screen version and a well known star—name not revealed yet—is to have the role of Ichabod Crane. The picture will be seven reels and will be done in the original setting, near Tarrytown, N. Y.

First Aid by Uncle Sam
Directing Katherine MacDonald's newest play, "The Infidel," is no easy job for James T. Young. There's an American cruiser in the picture and some real big-gun action scenes because necessary, obtainable only with Uncle Sam's aid during the battle practice of the fleet off the Southern California coast. "The Infidel" is a South sea story by Charles Logue.

Fluctuations
Clara Kimball Young's "Camille" is being revived.

Mona Lisa's smile is to be immortalized in celluloid.

Rupert Hughes may go into the producing end of movies.

Harry Carey is starting on "Man to Man," by Jackson Gregory.

Wallace Reid has completed "Rent Free," directed by Howard Higgin.

Questions: What did they blame them on before movies were invented?

Garret Hughes will be leading man for Viola Dana in "Glass Houses."

Francis Ford, aerial specialist, is with William Russell in "The Lady From Longacre."

John C. Fremont (see United States history) is being movielized. It's a Universal picture. "Winners of the West," starring Art Acord.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
The darling of Princess Radjah, the International dancer who is headlined at the B. F. Keith theatre this week, is remarked upon by all who have seen her. Her "Dance of Cleopatra" is perhaps her greatest novelty, but in a long serpent plays a most important part. It dances with her. Again in the Arabian chair dance she does wholly new work, that is extremely difficult.

A jolly pair of chaffers are Raymond Wolfe and Marie Hartman, and in "Before and After" they keep their audience roaring with laughter. Another first rate pair of entertainers are Foley and Letour, who show musical comedy as it is. Heiress Moretti, the little girl with the big voice, gives much real pleasure with her singing, and Cooper and Lane are colored comedians and singers. Cornell, Leon and Zippy open their bill with acrobatic, and the Meinetta duo are super-line acrobats.

OPERA HOUSE
"Scrambled Wives" has been going over big at the Opera House this week. The new Lowell Players are winning unstinted recognition from the patrons by their clever and finished performance of it. It is a swift-moving, irresistible laugh medium that will surely help very materially in making the new cast extremely popular with the patrons. If you haven't seen it yet, you should not fail to avail yourself of the remaining opportunities. Miss Scott and Mr. Howard are scoring big hits in their respective parts, and the remainder of the supporting cast are helping make the production the success that the production is registered. Next week's presentation will be the big drama of the year, "Dangerous Love," in which the members will reflect more forcibly than ever their highly trained capabilities. Tickets now selling.

THE STRAND
Who is the man who hasn't either read or heard of "Black Beauty"? This famous Anna Sewell novel, adapted for the screen by Mr. and Mrs. George Randolph Chester, is creating no end of favorable comment among the picture patrons of Lowell and suburbs. It will be shown today and tomorrow and was enthusiastically recommended as one of the most artistic and satisfying offerings of the film in months. Corliss Griffith in "Moral Fibre" helps to round out a program of exceptional merit.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
The story of a girl who never had any fun or pretty clothes and who breaks away from stern discipline the very morning she attains her 18th birthday is amusingly told in Beta Dan's latest production, "One Will Weep," the feature attraction of the current program at the Merrimack Square theatre. Miss Daniels is seen in one of the best parts of her career and her supporting cast is excellent. The

NOT MUCH FOOD IN COLD STORAGE

(Special to The Sun)
STATE HOUSE, Boston, Sept. 23.—Cold storage plants in this state are no longer "bulging with food," for statistics published today by the state department of health disclose the fact that the amount of food in storage in nearly twenty-five per cent lower than last year.

Meats in particular have shown a marked falling off, beef having reached a point more than 60 per cent below the figure of a year ago, while pork and lamb also are held in reduced quantity, although the lessened supply is not so noticeable in the case of these staples.

Eggs continue to hold at about their normal figure for this season of the year, which is around fifteen million dozen, but poultry has dropped off nearly 50 per cent, and butter about 33 per cent.

For each man, woman and child in the state there were in storage on Sept. 1, 1 dozen eggs, 3 1/2 pounds of butter, 1-5 pound of poultry, 1 1-10 pounds of beef, 3 1/2 pounds of pork, and 1-5 pound of lamb.

Compared with last year, the storage figures as of Sept. 1 are:—

Eggs (dozen)	15,352,140	15,445,830
Butter (pounds)	13,857,212	19,855,259
Poultry (pounds)	578,764	1,492,430

Rupture Experts

IN LOWELL

Demonstrate the Famous Rice Method Free to Callers at Hotel

If you are ruptured, your big opportunity has now arrived. If you would like to be free from the slavery of gouging, pinching, chafing trusses that make life a burden, then HERE and NOW is the time to act.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Reid, experts in rupture cases, trained under the personal direction of W. S. Rice, of Adams, New York, the famous discoverer of the Rice Non-Surgical Rupture Method, will be at the New American Hotel, Lowell, Mass., September 26 and 27.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid are here to personally demonstrate to all ruptured people what the Rice Rupture Method can accomplish. You have; no doubt, heard and read much about this famous method and the cures which thousands have reported from it. Now, you have the chance to find out all about it—to have it demonstrated to you and to see what it can do in YOUR OWN case. Just call at the hotel and these experts will give you their personal attention, best advice and complete demonstration absolutely without charge.

Are you tired of that binding, hampering, uncomfortable truss? Would you like to be free of it forever? Then investigate this Rice Method and find out the possibilities it holds out. Surely a Method that could cause so many thousands of former rupture sufferers to report cures must be worthy of your full and complete investigation.

The Rice Method is different from anything else. It is modern, up-to-the-minute, abreast of the latest scientific developments. It is the one Method that is positively demonstrated to you, right on your own person, without any charge whatever. You do not spend a penny unless, after having a full and complete demonstration, you decide that this is the Method for you. And you—you alone—are the sole judge of that.

In justice to yourself, come in and see these experts. Remember, they will be here only two days, then your opportunity will be gone. Grasp it NOW. It may prove to be the wisest thing you ever did, and anyway, it costs you nothing to find out.

Remember, come to the New American Hotel, any day from 9 to 12 forenoons, 2 to 5 afternoons, or 7 to 9 in the evening. The dates are September 26 and 27.

Don't let this opportunity get away from you.

The 11.30 Train to Boston
Discontinued—New Time
Table Issued

The new fall and winter timetables issued this morning by the Boston & Maine railroad contain several important changes in time of arrival and departure of both local, so-called, and through trains in this territory, but the cancellation of one of the most popular Boston trains—the 11.30 a. m. train from Lowell to the Hub—has already aroused a strong protest among business men and regular commuters.

It is declared in more than one quarter in the business section that the railroad will be requested to put back the 11.30 train, as one of the most necessary Boston commuters' service accommodations.

The cutting out of the 11.30 train leaves Boston-bound passengers with but two useful morning trains, the 9.30 and the noon train, or 12.30 p. m. local. The 11.30 train will, however, be run Sundays.

Among the other changes announced to go into effect Sunday are the taking off of the 4.28 local, and the change of time of departure of the Canadian & Pacific train for Montreal from 10 a. m. to 10.10 a. m. The time will be same on Sunday.

QUESTION KINNEY IN TRIPLE MURDER

DOWAGIAC, Mich., Sept. 23.—Efforts of Cass county authorities to solve the mystery of the murder of William Monroe, his wife and 17-year-old daughter, Neva, centered today on questioning of William Kinney, a former resident of Dowagiac, who was arrested on his farm near Temple, yesterday, and brought here by Sheriff Sherman P. Wyman. Kinney's detention, the sheriff stated, was prompted by a report that he had been warned by Monroe to discontinue his attentions to Neva. When arrested Kinney disclaimed any knowledge of the slayings and claimed an alibi, which was supported by his wife. Authorities indicated today the release of Herbert Smith, another man held for investigation, was imminent. Physicians announced today that Ardith Monroe, the 10-year-old daughter who was beaten on the head with the nail-studded club used to kill her parents and sister, is steadily improving.

PLAN TO OBSERVE COLUMBUS DAY

Lowell council, Knights of Columbus, met in regular session last evening, and made preliminary plans for the observance of Columbus day, October 12. The members of the council will attend mass at St. Peter's church, and later a large delegation from the council will go to Haverhill by electric, to take part in the big celebration to be held there. The hour of the mass here has not yet been definitely settled.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 23.—Five officials of District No. 29, United Mine Workers of America, and 28 other men have been indicted in Fayette county in connection with the "shooting up" of coal properties at Willis Branch, several months ago, Governor E. F. Morgan, was advised yesterday.

The officials indicted were John Sprouse, president of District No. 29; James Gilmore, board member and former President Frank Williams, George Barrett and Tony Stafford, organizers.

Fight of Anti-Administration Element Against Pres. Lewis Resumed

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 23.—The fight of the anti-administration element within the United Mine Workers of America for reelection of President John L. Lewis' recommendation to require an itemized accounting from Illinois officials for $27,000 spent in a strike two years ago, was resumed today before the mine workers' convention. Delegates expected a final vote before adjournment.

RELATIVES DISCREDIT SUICIDE THEORY

STAFFORD, Conn., Sept. 23.—Coroner John E. Fahey of Vernon and Dr. D. Percival Bard of this town, were to consider today the need of holding an autopsy on the body of Mrs. Norah Johnson Kettelle which was taken from Lake Mashapaug in Union, yesterday, with an anchor and rope tied to the neck.

Relatives of the young woman, a bride of four days when she disappeared, are understood to have discredited the suicide theory. They insist that death must have been accidental.

Mrs. James M. Whitman of Central Valley, N. Y., at whose home her niece was married to John Dunster Kettelle of Cambridge, Mass., on Sept. 9, says the young woman was in good health, normal in habits and of lively mentality.

The Special Cooking Spatula was designed by Mr. James Scott, supervisor of industrial education, Syracuse, N. Y.

Do not compare these tools with "so-called" kitchen sets you see advertised at a low price. You can not buy this set or one of like quality (exclusive of tray) for less than $7.50.

These kitchen tools are made and guaranteed by the Harrington Cutlery Co., of Southbridge, Mass. They sell regularly for $7.50.

This week we are giving this set free with each Hoosier Beauty. And, what is even more important, we give you an ideal place in which to keep it—a specially constructed tray that keeps the knives from coming in contact with each other, and thus dulling the edges.

When Hoosier's big, uncluttered work-table is extended, this tray comes out with it, so you can always get at each tool easily and quickly. This feature has never before been incorporated in a Kitchen Cabinet.

It is positively the greatest single convenience ever installed in a Cabinet. The Tray is not regular Hoosier equipment, but has been added to the Hoosiers offered during this sale.

The set comprises ten pieces, all of the Best Carbon Tool Steel, including six fine, sharp knives, two kitchen forks, and two spatulas. Knives are finely ground and guaranteed to hold a keen edge. Handles are fitted to the hand. They are lightweight rubberoid finish and strictly sanitary. Blades are firmly pinned in.

You cannot get this Set and Tool-Compartment Tray after this sale closes. Right now you get BOTH—FREE—when you pay the dollar that sends your Hoosier home.

TO REPRIMAND
DEER ISLAND HEAD

BOSTON, Sept. 23.—Institutional Commissioner Thomas C. O'Brien announced yesterday his decision to reprimand Master George M. Harlow of the Deer Island house of correction and to discontinue the Mutual Welfare league there as the result of his investigation following the escape of two prisoners from the island Sunday. Although Master Harlow was on vacation at the time of the escape, he had left orders that the trustees, who later got away, should be given their usual liberties. O'Brien visited the island early last week and remarked that two men with such records as theirs should not be given such liberties. When O'Brien pointed this out to Harlow's deputy he was told that Harlow had left specific orders that their liberties be not interfered with.

U. S. RACE COMMITTEE
ACCEPT RULINGS

GLOUCESTER, Sept. 23.—The American race committee, which has in charge the selection of a defender for the international fishing vessel championship trophy, today voted formally to accept all rulings made to date by the Canadian trustees of the cup. The principal of these rulings was that by which the Boston schooner Mayflower, originally selected as the American defender, was barred from the race.

A letter from the trustees of the trophy was received by the American committee today, advising that the intentions of the trustees of the cup would be nullified and all competition killed for present and future races.

The letter said: "We think everybody will agree that in event of the Mayflower racing and winning the cup this year, no practical fisherman would build a vessel to compete with her next year because to do so the type would have to be even more extreme in design."

"In addition to this the Mayflower did not conform with the letter of the deed of gift in regard to the date of sailing for the fishing grounds, although we did not consider this point so important as the former."

The race committee today appointed a committee of five to take charge of the elimination race Oct. 12 to select a new defender.

practice "appears to have been grossly imprudent" as ammoniac compounds are most unstable, and the properties of the new preparation are thus far poorly defined.

Deflagration of the nitro-sulphate of ammonia is declared to have caused the explosion of other ammonia products, and then several gasometers, one of which was of 60,000 cubic meters capacity, exploded. This large gasometer contained lignite gas, which was used as the motive power of the factory. The plant also contained a quantity of liquid air in tubes, which added to the power of the explosion, and would tend to explain the extent and exceptional character of the disaster.

CRIES STILL RISE
FROM VAST CRATER

MANNHEIM, Ger., Sept. 23.—(By the Associated Press)—Desolation and ruins alone remain of what was once the flourishing town of Oppau. The town had 6000 residents, of which the majority of the men were engaged in the chemical works were killed or wounded. Soldiers in French uniforms are clearing away the wreckage, picking up the dead and injured as after a big battle.

Eleven hundred killed and 4000 injured is the latest estimate of the disaster, which caused a greater number of casualties than the Mannheim-Ludwigshafen disaster than the four years of the war. The desolation around Oppau equals anything seen at Verdun or in Flanders over a similar area. Hundreds of persons are digging in the ruins for the bodies of relatives or friends, nearly 1000 of whom have been recovered thus far. Thirty-six hours after the explosion, from the gaping, funnel-like hole where the Badische works formerly stood, there are still to be heard moaning and cries of the wounded, while the soldiers search for possible survivors. Twenty-five hundred of the injured are reported to have passed through the hospitals of the surrounding cities.

The vast crater is slowly filling with water and it may never be known how many victims found a grave there. All mutilated but still living animals crawling amidst the twisted girders and blocks of concrete are being put out of their misery. The firemen and relief workers have not yet been able to discard their gas masks.

TRIPLE MURDER
ON FREIGHT TRAIN

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 23.—The bodies of three men, believed to have been murdered, were found within a few miles of each other in Southern Missouri by crews of Missouri Pacific trains. Two of the men were army uniforms.

Police here believe robbery was the motive and suspect the triple murder occurred on the same freight train. The bodies, not yet identified, are in a morgue at East St. Louis, Ill. Two ex-convicts, one arrested at Hoxlow, Ark., September 18, and the other at Clark, La., which bore the destination of Washington, O. were found in the clothing of one man. The two men in uniform are believed to have been discharged soldiers from Camp Pike, Ark.

WILLIS END ROW

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—What was described as a complete agreement to clear up the republican patronage row in Ohio was reported yesterday at an hour's conference between President Harding and Senator Willis, republican of Ohio.

Under the agreement it is understood that Senator Willis will withdraw his opposition to the nomination of Charles H. Nais as collector of internal revenue for the Toledo district and that a slate of other appointments acceptable to all groups of the party will be closed in the very near future. Nais, whose confirmation has been held up for several weeks by the Ohio senator, is understood to have been selected by the president on recommendation of Walter F. Brown, chairman of the government reorganization committee and an opponent of Mr. Willis for the senatorial nomination.

ARGUMENTS IN BIG CHICAGO LIBEL SUIT

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Arguments for and against a general demurrer filed by the Chicago Tribune against the city of Chicago's suit for $12,000,000 damages were heard before Judge Harry M. Fisher in circuit court today. Weymouth Kirkland, of counsel for the newspaper, announced that he would finish this morning his plea to have the demurrer sustained. The answer of the city was in the hands of Chester Cleveland, special counsel.

Mr. Kirkland addressed himself today to technical considerations of the right of a municipality to sue for libel. He took the ground that since the city possesses no trade, business or other inherent earning power could not suffer damage in the way of loss of trade.

He also took up the accusation of libel in the Tribune financial news that the city was the market for the newspaper, and maintained that the Tribune was not a competitor of the city's business.

He also directed the court's attention to what he called the "sue" in the Tribune financial news that the city was the market for the newspaper, and maintained that the Tribune was not a competitor of the city's business.

INJURED BOY WAS NOT ROLLING HOOP

In Tuesday's editions of The Sun, it was stated that Clarence Hoyt of 10 Belmont street, who was injured by an automobile Monday afternoon, met his injuries while rolling a hoop. Mrs. Clarence W. Hoyt, the boy's mother, takes exception to the statement, saying that her son, who is 13 years old, was "not rolling a hoop," as he has progressed considerably beyond that age. According to her story, he was carrying one of the wheels of his bicycle to have it repaired and without warning, a truck backed on him.

LOCAL OPINION WAS ON RIGHT TRACK

The question of the comparative safety and cost of operation of one-man and two-men cars was properly included in the scope of the hearing directed by the public utilities department to investigate transportation facilities in Massachusetts on which a hearing was held at the state house yesterday. It was stated at the hearing by the secretary of the utilities commission, according to City Solicitor William D. Regan.

Mr. Regan attended the hearing and was one of the speakers. The Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., through its publicity agent, has maintained that the resolve in question has nothing to do with one-man vs. two-men electric cars. On the other hand, local municipal authorities held the opinion that it did. Corroboration of their stand was received. Mr. Regan says, when the secretary of the utilities commission said that the question might properly be included in any discussion of the resolve.

Shoots Girl Then Ends Life

Mrs. Lawes had stepped out of the shadows as he and Miss Hannan emerged from the apartment where they had been visiting a friend, and fired the shot. He attributed the shooting, police said, to jealousy, admitting that he had quarreled with Mrs. Lawes recently over Miss Hannan.

Miss Hannan's condition was reported to be critical, but not necessarily fatal. One of the bullets took effect in the left breast near the heart, one in the left side and one in the right arm.

Borland was unable to explain to the police how Mrs. Lawes learned that he and Miss Hannan were visiting in Brooklyn. He said he had gone to Brooklyn yesterday afternoon with Miss Hannan to help her seek a new apartment. The apartment hunting trip, he said, ended with a visit to Miss Dorothy Gottschalk, a friend of her family.

They left the apartment about 1:25 a. m., he said, and encountered Mrs. Lawes as they stepped to the street. She then stood for a moment regarding them, Borland said. Then she uttered a scream, pressed the muzzle of the pistol against her head and fired.

Mrs. Lawes who is a daughter of Mrs. M. E. Dittmars of San Francisco, was a distant relative of Miss Hannan. For four years she had lived with Miss Hannan and the latter's mother in an apartment in the exclusive Park avenue district of Manhattan. Two weeks ago she moved to the Hotel Vanderbilt, nearby. The police said that she had sent several threatening letters recently to Miss Hannan.

Two letters were found in Mrs. Lawes' pocketbook. One, addressed to her mother, asked forgiveness for what she had done. The other, addressed to Mrs. Birdie Williams of Manhattan, formerly a nurse in the Hannan household, requested that Mrs. Williams take Mrs. Lawes' body to San Francisco and have it cremated.

Asks Mother's Forgiveness

The letter to Mrs. Lawes' mother read:

"Mother Darling:
"You never can understand what I have been through here. Don't try to. It is past. I am too tired and ill to try to overcome the great obstacles in my own way.
"Too much high life. The pace is too fast and the liquor has driven me crazy. Forgive and forget, and remember, pray for my soul. Love to all, and think of me as I always say to you, a good, sweet daughter."
"Lovingly," "GRACE."

Miss Hannan is 24 years old, while Mrs. Lawes was 32. The younger woman, according to the police, had been married to Jerome Wagner of this city but a divorce had been granted about three years ago.

Borland Grilled for Hours

Borland, a graduate of Dartmouth college, was questioned for several hours by Asst. Dist. Atty. Wilson and detectives. Although admitting that he liked Miss Hannan very much, he denied that they were engaged. He said he had not seen Mrs. Lawes for two months.

The police said that the two women had been almost inseparable for four years. They expressed belief, however, that Mrs. Lawes had become so incensed by Miss Hannan's acceptance of social invitations from Borland that her mind had become affected. Miss Gottschalk told the police that Mrs. Lawes had been in love with Borland and had been extremely jealous.

The police announced an examination of Mrs. Lawes' stomach would be made to determine if she had been a drug addict.

Blood Transfusion

In an effort to save Miss Hannan's life, a blood transfusion was made. Dr. Harvey Fish, a resident physician was the donor. Assembled at the hospital were Borland and the girl's mother and brother.
